Weight control feature of Health Department class

The Nicholas County Health Center, under the direction of the nurse, Mrs. Lee Rose, R.N., will start Weight Control Classes, with the idea to show people how to shed pounds safely.

The classes will start Monday, Mar. 12, at 8:30 for one hour, each Monday night.

Wishing that you might lose weight will make it so when your willpower is supported by a firm backbone. There is no easy way to reduce, but there is a sure way. Eat less, exercise more.

Very few people are overweight because of bodily disturbances. Most people are fat, because they are sitting down on the job of living while continuing to eat as though they were vigorously active.

The misunderstood calorie is present in all foods. When you try to lose weight, you must get nutrients, proteins, carbohydrates, fats, vitamins, and minerals, in fewer calories than usual.

Too many calories will make you Fat! If you have many pounds to lose, reduce with the advice of your doctor. He will discover any disorder, if present, and will tell you how rapidly you can lose weight with safety. He wary of unusual diets that promise dramatic weight loss. They demand sacrifice but do not offer the lasting reward you seek. Weight control.

Anderson passes PVA examination

Bobby Gene Anderson was the only Nicholas Countyman out of seven to pass the test for property valuation administration given Feb. 20.

Under new legislation all candidates for PVA—except incumbents—have to pass a test administered by the state revenue department before their names can appear on the ballot. Therefore, voters and the incumbent, A.V. (Doc) Allison, are the only two eligible to run for the position in Nicholas County.

Neither of these men have announced their candidacy as yet.

Should both men decide not to run for the position, the test would be given again at a later date and someone else could qualify as a candidate.

The total number of Kentuckians passing the PVA test was 113 out of 417 with no one passing in 46 counties. A re-examination will be given for those counties on Mar. 20.

It's right here

Nicholas County Judge Floyd Clark points to the Nicholas County Hospital on a large aerial photograph, made by Department of Highway representatives last Thursday to depict the proposed route of a new road to eliminate the overhead bridge on the Moorefield road. At left is Gene Sturgill, Kentucky Department of Highways representative from Flemington, and Mrs. Alma Clay, Hospital Administrator.

Highway Department proposes new corridor to eliminate present one-way bridge on Ky. 36

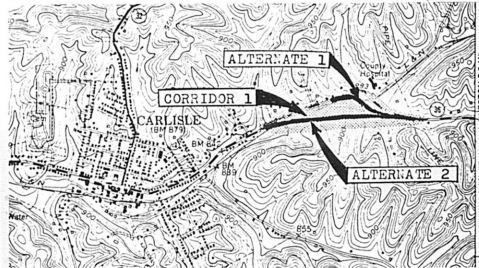

Eugene Armitage and Gene Sturgill, both of the Flemington District Highway office, outlined plans to eliminate the overhead bridge crossing the I. & N railroad tracks on Ky. 36 near the Nicholas County Hospital for members of the fiscal court and other interested persons last Thursday.

Of the two ways suggested the shorter route or Alternate 1 was selected because it was the most economical way. Alternate 1 is 4 1/2 of a mile in length.

crossing with warning lights and bells at right angles to the Louisville and Nashville railroad tracks. The hospital entrance road which is an extension of the Scrub Grass road will be routed to intersect the new section of Ky. 36 at right angles.

Numerous persons present for the meeting were outgrip on the need for a new route instead of the one-way structure which carries traffic across the tracks now.

There were 17 persons present.

Girls in Nicholas County observing Girl Scout Week

Girls in Nicholas County will be doing their part to make the annual celebration of Girl Scout Week, March 11-17, a big one.

Nicholas County is served by the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council, which provides professional services in 85 Central and Eastern Kentucky counties, plus one each in Ohio and Tennessee.

Corn program sign-up ends March 16

Eugene Letcher, chairman, Nicholas County ASC Committee, wishes to remind all Feed Grain and Wheat producers that the sign-up period for the 1973 program ends Mar. 16. Anyone who owns a farm with a Feed Grain Base or Wheat Allotment is eligible for the program.

Mrs. Wendell Kingsolver, Carlisle, Council President, said that girls in the various counties would observe the week in a variety of ways.

"The observance primarily is designed to provide the image of Girl Scouting, with its current emphasis on 'Today's Vision - Tomorrow's World'—and to let the general public know that our girls have a dynamic program."

She listed some of the ways Scouts will observe the week as appearing on local radio programs, preparing store window posters, making exhibits, having tea for parents and friends and asking local editors for educational material.

"You can be sure," she said, "Scouts in every county will be observing the week in some way."

Girl Scout Sunday (March 11) will launch the week's observance, with many Scouts in uniform at church Sunday morning and, in some cases, attending in the afternoon.

A total of 123,000 folders telling the Girl Scout philosophy and giving information about the Wilderness Road Council, has been given to churches throughout the area for distribution Mar. 11 with regular church bulletins.
