Local marine veterans invited to convention

July will be roundup time for all Kentucky men who served in the Third Marine Division since it was first formed in 1942.
 Anyone who fought with the Third in the World War II campaigns of Bougainville, Guam and Iwo Jima; during the nearly five years it was on combat duty in Vietnam; or who was a peacetime member, will be warmly welcomed at the 33rd Marine Association's 19th annual reunion—its first in the Blue Grass state—to be held at Stodler's Inn in Louisville, July 18-22.
 The five-day convention will feature such events as Las Vegas gambling with play money; evening cruise aboard The Belle of Louisville; famous Ohio River sternwheeler; tour of Churchill Downs; sulky harness racing at Louisville Downs; a cocktail reception and banquet with dancing; memorial ceremonies honoring departed comrades; and important business meetings.
 As in past years, the reunion will be a family affair with members, relatives and friends attending from all parts of the country. Upwards of 600 persons are expected. For additional information, write Public Relations Officer, Tom Stowe, 3427 Valley Drive, Alexandria, Va., 22302; or call (703) 836-6163.

Rules of boating safety listed

At this time of year as more and more persons are boating, it is necessary that they know the rules and regulations of safe boating.
 The following Federal Safe Boating Act applies to boating on all bodies of water. For this area particularly, Lake Carrico, PFD (Personal Flotation Devices) that are Coast Guard approved will be needed for each person aboard. There are five types of PFD's.
 Type I is wearable and will turn person face up.

Type II is wearable but not as much buoyancy.
 Type III will not turn person face up.
 Type IV is throwable, such as a seat cushion—down.

Enrollment of parks majors high at WKU

Western Kentucky University ranks second in the United States and Canada in enrollment of parks and recreation majors, according to a survey prepared by the Society of Park and Recreation Educators (SPRE).
 With 364 students enrolled at the undergraduate level and 77 at the graduate level, Western's combined total is the highest in the country.
 Western is exceeded by only Penn State University whose recreation enrollment ranks No. 1 with 465 students. Forty-eight colleges and universities responded to the survey.
 Figures were compiled by the Washington office of SPRE, under the direction of Dr. Donald Hreschel, executive secretary.
 Western currently offers a major, minor and area of concentration in recreation at the Master of Public Service degree level.
 At the graduate level, students may receive the Master of Public Service degree which major in recreation and parks administration or the Master of Science degree in education with a minor in recreation and parks administration.

Summer recreation programs in Kentucky should apply now for federal help

Prompt action now by operators of non-profit day camps and other organized summer recreation programs in Kentucky could result in federal cash reimbursement to help pay the cost of meals or between-meal meals, snacks and supplements for children taking part in the programs.
 The Kentucky Department of Education said recently that applications are being accepted for U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) special food service program assistance.

The program, administered nationally by USDA's Food and Nutrition Service, is designed generally to help improve the nutrition of pre-school and school age children who take part in summer activities. Sponsors might include boys and girls clubs, YMCA day camps, churches, municipal or county-operated day camps and other similar summer activities. Those which keep children overnight, however, are not eligible.

For details, or to apply, interested sponsors should write: C.E. Bevis, Director of School Food Service, Kentucky Department of Education, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Type V restricted, basically a work vest.
 Types I, II, and III, are required for all recreational boats. At least one Type IV to be carried, in addition to the others, will be required if craft is longer than 16 feet.
 Bow numbering—will be required on any craft that has any propulsion machinery of any horsepower. This includes canoes, rowboats, dinghies, or the like that are equipped with a mechanical means of propulsion. States will be required to conform by Aug. 11, 1974.

Accident reports—Written report required if victim disabled more than 24 hours (it used to be 72 hours). Immediate report of any death or disappearance followed by a written report within 48 hours.
 Back to Port—Authorities have the right to terminate the use of a boat under certain unsafe conditions where continued operation would be especially hazardous.
 Eight unsafe conditions are: Lack of sufficient lifesaving devices; Overloading of the craft; Improper lighting between sunset and sunrise; Fuel leakage; Fuel accumulation in bilges or a compartment other than a fuel tank; Failure to meet ventilation requirements; Failure to meet requirements for backfire devices.
 The recreational boatman, canoeist, or sailor needs to be made aware of the above information and seek additional information from the Coast Guard, Coast Guard Auxiliary or U.S. Power Squadron.

John H. Wolf, publisher, Cincinnati Suburban Newspapers Inc. is the new president of Suburban Newspapers of America. The election took place recently at the annual SNA publishers seminar in San Francisco. Wolf was also named to a three-year term on the board of directors. SNA was organized in March 1971.
