Delta Queen Steamboat Co. to dedicate luxury riverboat

JEFFERSONVILLE, IND.—The lady who saved the Queen will be the guest of honor when the Delta Queen Steamboat Co. dedicates the hull of its new luxury riverboat here Nov. 1.

The Hon. Leonor K. Sullivan, U.S. Representative from Missouri and chairman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, will officially dedicate the hull of the $15.5 million vessel at Jeffboat, Inc., builder of the steel-hulled boat.

Mrs. Sullivan, a resident of St. Louis, has sponsored successful legislation on three separate occasions during a seven-year battle to save the Delta Queen. The most recent legislation granted the Delta Queen a five-year exemption from the Safety at Sea Law which means the Delta Queen will carry passengers along the inland rivers at least through 1978.

The celebration will begin at 3 p.m. at the Jeffboat yards and entertainment will be supplied by AVCO Broadcasting's Bob Braun, vice Tooker and his "Riverboat Hamblers," the Jeffersonville High School band, and, of course, calypso music. Braun will introduce his new recording, "Easy River Riders" vice Tooker is the resident entertainer on the Delta Queen.

Wes Navy, president of Jeffboat, will be Master of Ceremonies.

At the beginning of the celebration, two cranes will raise a sign, 40 feet long and 30 feet high reading, "New Passenger Riverboat under Construction for The Delta Queen Steamboat Co." The hull of that new passenger riverboat has a breadth of 66 feet. The approximate length of the boat will be 279 feet.

REAGAN'S TAX REFORM

If state governments are truly laboratories in public administration, the most important laboratory of all these days is the State of California. In the last few years, remarkable progress has been made in California in dealing with major state problems. And the state administration, under Gov. Ronald Reagan, is attempting the most important advance of all—long-term limits on state taxes and spending.

Already accomplished is a significant overhaul of California's welfare system. In an interview with Human Events Magazine, Gov. Reagan pointed out that "today we have 368,000 fewer people on welfare than when we started the reform two years ago. And the savings, over what was projected, are $1.4 billion. The reform, it is now in excess of a billion dollars." And yet these savings have not been at the expense of the truly needy and deserving. "They have had a 30 per cent increase in their welfare grants," the Governor reported.

Clearly, if Gov. Reagan's administration can accomplish this reform in California, the same type of reform should be instituted nationally.

But what is of special interest right now is Gov. Reagan's tax plan which will be submitted to the California electorate in a referendum Nov. 6. This is so-called Proposition 1. In brief, Proposition 1 would limit state expenditures to a declining percentage of the state's personal income.

Repeal that revenues in excess of annual spending limits be applied to tax reduction or refunds to the taxpayers, unless needed for emergencies. Curb the legislature's taxing power by requiring two-thirds instead of simple majority approval of any new taxes. In addition, Gov. Reagan is proposing an immediate 1/2 per cent cut in state income tax bills.

This tax is very carefully considered plan developed under the guidance of Dr. Milton Friedman, the eminent University of Chicago economist. The Governor is making an all-out effort to explain the plan to the public, as he has said, "for the first time in history," we are

Supplemental security income program

There are several factors in our area which might be eligible for payment under the Supplemental Security Income program who have not yet filed their applications. Ed Hyron, manager of the Mayville Social Security Office, said this may be due to a misunderstanding about the program's requirements. To clarify this he gave the following information.

This federal program replaces the Old Age, Aid to the Blind and Aid to the Disabled program formerly administered by the various State Welfare Departments. The program is based upon need, and individuals who qualify must meet a resource and income limitation. People who are receiving aid from the State Welfare Department in the Old Age, Aid to the Blind and Disabled categories will be automatically changed over to this new program Jan. 1, 1974. There is nothing they have to do.

However, individuals who are not receiving a check through these state programs must file an application. This would include folks who receive only state medical assistance, those who were turned down for state aid, those with limited income and resources who never applied for Welfare assistance, and folks who think they might qualify for this new program.

If your unearned income, such as rents, Social Security, interest, pensions, or annuities is not over $150, amount for an individual, or $215 for a couple and your earned income is not over $845, amount for an individual, or $475 for a couple, you would meet the income limitation. If your resources such as cash, stocks, and bonds do not exceed $1000 for an individual or $2000 for a couple you would meet the resource limitation. Things such as a house of reasonable value, automobile and personal property may be excluded in figuring your resources.

This means that many folks who might not have qualified for this new program because of their income could qualify under this new program. The only way for you to find out for sure is to contact your Social Security Office.

praising the people to begin infantly series of tax reductions."

The Reagan plan consists of interest to Americans in all 50 states. As the taxpayer is painfully aware. These days, the power to tax is the power to destroy. Taxation has become oppressive in America. This is true of State and local taxation as well as federal taxation. More and more burdens are added each year to the productive citizens who pay the bulk of the taxes.

Since the 1930s, politicians have operated on the thesis of Harry Hopkins, the New Deal political mastermind, who developed the philosophy of "tax, spend and elect." The victims in this process are the energetic, working people who add to the real wealth of the nation. The beneficiaries are those who want to live off their nation, state and community. Now Gov. Reagan wants to end this destructive process. He wants to institute a program of continuing tax cuts.

Perhaps the most important feature of Gov. Reagan's tax reform plan is the provision for curbing the legislature's taxing power by requiring two-thirds instead of a simple majority for approval of any new taxes. If this provision were incorporated in the constitution of the 50 states, the states would enjoy a rapid recovery in terms of fiscal health. The taxpayers would be spared numerous burdens now unjustly placed on their backs.

The Reagan plan would allow for simple state expenditures for social programs. But it would lead to a curtailment of wasteful, political and prestige-seeking projects that unfairly deprive citizens of personal income. The government's share of national income—what it has been taking from the taxpayer—has been rising decade after decade. Unless the process is reversed, the taxpayers will find that they are more captives of government's fiscal collection apparatus.

Proposition 1 in California offers a reasonable, progressive way out of a ruinous situation. Proposition 1 points to a national policy of genuine tax reform, which means tax reduction. Thus tax-paying citizens in all parts of the country have a vital stake in the choice California voters make in the Nov. 6 referendum.
