

Obituaries

Nicholas county

Continued from page one

CHARLES H. BAUGIS
Charles H. Baugis, 66, died at Christ Hospital Monday, Sept. 3, 1973 after a short illness.
He was a member of the Grace United Methodist Church, Newark, Ohio, and the Masonic Lodge. He was a former resident of Carlisle and was the son of Mrs. Nina Wilson Baugis, Carlisle and the late Joseph Henry Baugis.
Other survivors include his wife, Mrs. Betty McClure Baugis; six sisters, Mrs. Olive Almy, Fla.; Miss Nellie Baugis, Calif.; Miss Catherine Baugis, Miss Doris Baugis, Mrs. Virginia Huff, all of Chicago; Mrs. Pauline Wason, Carlisle; two brothers, Kenneth Baugis, Chicago; Clarence Baugis, Carlisle.
Funeral services were held Thursday at the Mathers-Sweater Funeral Chapel, conducted by Rev. H. Dallas Stutz. Burial in the Carlisle Cemetery.
Palbearers: Francis Wason, Stanley Kenny, Allie Clinkenbard, Sam Smith, Jesse Wason, and Oliver Jarton.

Pap Smear Clinic set

A Pap Smear Clinic for the detection of cervical cancer will be conducted at the Nicholas County Health Center by Dr. Andrew Hanson on Thursday, Sept. 20, from 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.
Cervical cancer, the second leading cause of cancer deaths in women, is potentially curable if caught early enough.
The clinic emphasizes teaching women the importance of having a yearly Pap Smear, the simple, painless test for cervical cancer, developed by Dr. George Papanicolaou, M.D.
With early detection and prompt treatment, deaths from cervical cancer have been cut nationally 50 per cent in the last 15 years.

Annual convention at First Christian Church Sunday

The annual Convention of District 1, Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) in Kentucky, will be held at First Christian Church, Carlisle, Sunday.
Registration will begin at 9:30 p.m. with the meeting itself 11:30. Special guests will be Dr. James Meak, Dr. Carl Flock, Mrs. John Dickers, Mr. Findley, Miss Judy Riddle and Miss Jennie D. Row.

Dr. Kingsolver on panel at Trails Symposium

Dr. W.R. Kingsolver, Nicholas county physician, representing the Sierra Club, will be among many distinguished members in a panel discussion, Saturday at 1 p.m., at a symposium on Trails in Kentucky. The two-day meeting will hold this weekend at Cumberland Falls State Resort Park, and will bring

The editor of this paper might be willing to lend you his copy of The Christian Science Monitor.

But don't count on it. He's an expert newsmen with access to many news sources and a good paper of his own. But he still wants to get the Monitor's worthwhile coverage and commentary on events.
Apart from 2,711 editors, there are 20,000 educators and students, 62,000 businessmen, 485 U.S. Senators and Congressmen, 3 Supreme Court Justices who read the Monitor. Why should they know more of what's going on, and why, than you do?
For less than 11¢ a day, you can get your own special insight into the news. Everyday, like they do.

Send me 4 months of the Monitor—over 150 issues—for only $11.
 Payment enclosed Bill me later

Name (Please print) _____
Address _____
City _____
State _____ Zip _____
The Christian Science Monitor 8
Box 185, New York, N.Y. 10017
Boston, Massachusetts 02123 3

local field.
Nicholas County 0 0 0 6 6
Morgan County 13 21 0 6 40
Morgan County—Mark Jackson one run.
Morgan County—Steve O'Connor pass— from Hank Allen (Mark Lykins kick).
Morgan County—Mark Lykins 23 pass from Hank Allen (Gerald Arny pass from Lykins).
Morgan County Greg Phillips five run (Lykins kick).
Morgan County—Steve O'Connor 48 yard.
Morgan County—Jeff Gevedon 21 pass from Allen.
Nicholas County—Joe Wilson one run.
Nicholas Co. Morgan Co. 19 19
First Downs 91 111
Yds. Rushing 91 111
Yds. Passing 25 22
Passes Attempted 8 14
Passes Completed 11 9
Puntbacks Lost 2 1

Supplemental security income program told

Persons with limited incomes who are over 65, blind, or disabled should contact the Social Security office to find out about the new Supplemental Security Income program.
Ray L. Colyer, District Manager, Social Security Administration, said that while no payments will be made under this program until January, 1974, they are now accepting applications to avoid the last-minute rush.
Colyer explained that Supplemental Security Income is a new program that replaces the present state aide to the aged, blind, and disabled. It goes into effect Jan. 1, 1974, when these state programs will be discontinued.
Persons who are already receiving payments from the state need not reapply. They will be automatically converted to the new program in January. Others should apply as soon as possible.

This new federal program provides for an income supplement up to $120 a month for a single person or $195 for a couple. Generally, a single person whose income is less than $150 or a couple whose combined incomes are less than $212 a month will qualify for some payment provided their other resources are not too great.

other persons interested in trails of all sorts, whether for hiking, bicycling, motorcycling, horseback riding or even bird watching.
An open invitation is extended to those interested in any aspect of trail development and use.
The panel discussions will highlight the two-day meeting with such topics as Trail Planning; Funding and Development; Trail Management; Regulation and Enforcement; and Special Trails Planning and Development.

Commissar of the Kentucky Parks Department, Ewart W. Johnson, will open the discussions at 10 a.m. Saturday. Other panel members will be Dr. Allan Werns, University of Kentucky Department of Forestry; Clarence Streetman, Bowaters Southern Paper Company; Mrs. Paul Davis, Girl Scouts of America; Don Turpin, League of American Wheelmen; John Brown, Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, Atlanta, Ga.; Gene Wirwahn, American Motorcycle Association; Albert Hawkins, Cumberland Gap National Historical Park; Capt. Andrew Reed, Kentucky Park Rangers; John Alook, U.S. Forest Service; Gary Byerly, Jefferson County Board of Recreation Board; John E. Richert, orthologist; Richard L. Cottrell, TVA Land Between the Lakes; Charles Rippey, naturalist, Kentucky Department of Parks, and William F. Redmond, Elk Horn Saddle Club, Lexington.
Anyone wishing to make reservations may call toll-free from any point in Kentucky by dialing 1-800-375-2261.

Lodge to meet

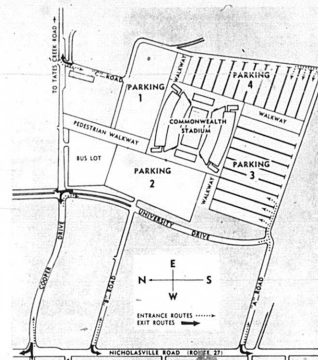

The regular monthly meeting of Dougherty Lodge No. 63 F&M will be Friday night, Sept. 14, at 7:30 p.m.

The Old Timer
"Before sitting down to walk for your ship to come in, be sure you have sent one out."

UK traffic plans explained for game at new stadium

Kentuckians planning to attend the University of Kentucky's first football game Saturday (Sept. 15) may park not only in lots around Commonwealth Stadium but also in the Jackson one run camp and ride a shuttle bus to the stadium.
Joe Burch, director of public safety at UK, said parking in the four lots immediately surrounding the stadium will cost $2 per car per game, but parking on the main campus is free.
The UK University Shuttle will run campus buses labeled "stadium shuttle" to and from the stadium before and after the game. "There are 8,000 free parking spaces available on the campus," Burch said. "Four thousand spaces are located around the stadium." There are special parking spaces for the handicapped.
Burch expects many UK spectators to make routine visits to Kentucky industries or, at the request of the Public Service Commission, any of the 381 public utilities in the state. Again, certain priorities are set up: leading the list are exposure to dust from asbestos, raw cotton or silica, which can lead to lung diseases; lead poisoning, which can cause gastrointestinal, blood or central nervous system disorders, and carbon monoxide poisoning, which can lead to brain damage or even death. The number of employees exposed is another factor in setting up a schedule for inspections.

Inspections for health hazards are made under a contract between the Department for Human Resources and the Kentucky Department of Labor, which is charged with enforcing the Occupational Safety and Health Act. Safety inspections are handled by 30 compliance officers from the Department of Labor.

Nine men cover 40,000 possibilities enforcing occupational health rules

FRANKFORT—Work should not be hazardous to health. And if any of the state's almost 40,000 places of employment are asking their people to work under conditions which could harm them—someone's safety. The Occupational Health Program of the Department for Human Resources has responsibility for guarding Kentucky workers against industrial health hazards.
The Occupational Health Program is part of the Bureau for Administration and Operations. Director John O. Pasco has nine industrial hygienists assigned to inspecting that 40,000 employments to avoid the last-minute rush.
Colyer explained that Supplemental Security Income is a new program that replaces the present state aide to the aged, blind, and disabled. It goes into effect Jan. 1, 1974, when these state programs will be discontinued.
Persons who are already receiving payments from the state need not reapply. They will be automatically converted to the new program in January. Others should apply as soon as possible.

The primary health hazards Pasco and his men are concerned with are noise, dust levels and toxic substances. First priority for making an investigation is a fatality or a catastrophe. At this time of year, the industrial hygienists may be called upon to investigate one kind of agricultural accident which occurs almost every year: a farm worker who didn't wear a respirator while filling a silo may be overcome by silage gas. Agriculture has come under occupational health law only in the past year.
Kentucky's occupational safety and health act is unique in placing public service employees under its protection—the federal law also doesn't include them in its coverage.
Second priority for making inspections goes to answering a valid, responsible complaint from an employee who thinks that his working conditions are dangerous to his health. The complaint may come directly from the employee or from someone representing him—a member of his family, his attorney or an employee's representative (a union official, for example). The complaint must be signed, but the employee's identity can be kept confidential. However, federal and state laws protect the employee who files a complaint about a possible health hazard.
In addition to investigating fatalities or complaints, the industrial hygienists

Methodist youth meeting Monday

The Morefield United Methodist Church will host the Sub-District Youth Meeting Monday, Sept. 17, 7:30 p.m. at the church.
The speaker will be Jim Cooney of the First United Methodist Church, Lexington. Gene Doyle and Dave Toiv will bring special music.

Births

GEORGE
Mr. and Mrs. Richard George of Route 4, announce the birth of a daughter, born Aug. 26, 1973 at Nicholas County Hospital. She weighed five pounds and four ounces.

SORRELL
Mr. and Mrs. Roger D. Sorrell of Preston announce the birth of a son, born Aug. 29, 1973 at Nicholas County Hospital. He weighed eight pounds.

BROTHERS
Mr. and Mrs. Dale Brothers announce the birth of a daughter on Friday, Aug. 31, 1973. She was born at the Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington.

WALLESKEY

COMPUTER

SQUARE DEAL GROCERY FOOD STORES

Southern Star Patio Pups lb. 1.99

Armour Sliced Bacon
12 oz. pkg. 99¢

Fields Picnic Ham lb. 79¢

Premium Sallines Crackers lb. 39¢	Campbells Chicken Noodle Soup 4/69¢	Stokely Corn 4/51 Golden Whole Kernel, Golden Corn
Chef Surprise Kraft Dinners 69¢	Sunshine State Orange Juice 6 oz. 6/81 19	Scott 160 ct. Family Napkins 2/49¢
Keebler Cookies 55¢	Dole Pineapple Juice 46 oz. 3/$1	Chicken of the Sea Canned Tuna 49¢ 1/2 size chunk light
Rich 'N Chips 14 oz. Pecan Sandies 14 oz. 49¢	Peter Pan 12 oz. Peanut Butter 49¢	Bon Ami 15 oz. Glass Cleaner 39¢

No. 1 Indiana Potatoes

20 lb. bag $1.99

New Green Cabbage lb. 99¢
Fresh Peaches 3 lbs. 59¢
Fireside 14 oz. Vanilla Wafers 25¢