Tips on the 'perfect' Christmas toy

With the thousands of toys displayed for Christmas, it's not hard to understand why many parents, family and friends looking for the "perfect" toy for a child can be easily bewildered. What makes a toy "perfect"? Important criteria for buying toys for children are that they be both fun and safe, points out the Health Insurance Institute.

Another important consideration is that the toy be simple enough for the child to master. Why spoil a youngster's expectations by giving a toy that may confuse rather than entertain?

"Perfect" toys for babies celebrating their first Christmas? Among favorites of the playpen set are soft, cuddly plush animals, noiseless wooden rattles, and musical toys with moving parts to hold their attention. Some toys such as clocks with movable hands can be used later to teach a child to tell time.

As for the toddler crowd, climbing and building toys will delight them as well as help develop their coordination. Wooden puzzles and toys they can push-pull and manipulate will give them a sense of achievement.

High on the list of favorites for children between two and six are stuffed animals, dolls, cradles, picture books, tricycles, trucks and engines. Youngsters from six to 11 will appreciate bats, balls, gloves, cooking sets, footballs, basketballs, roller skates, gym equipment, bicycles, and wigs and crafts sets.

For older children eager to find out more about the environment, microscopes, magnets, petri dishes, and chemistry kits will help develop that interest. Keep in mind, however, that sets which include chemicals should not be used by children without prior instruction.

Fun and safety should always go together when buying toys. Selecting toys carefully and instructing youngsters to use them properly will eliminate the hazards and double the fun this holiday season.
