President proclaims Farm Safety Week

The week of July 25-31, 1974 has been declared National Farm Safety Week by President Richard M. Nixon.

The proclamation signed by the President setting the observance emphasizes the important part agriculture plays in the overall economy of the nation. The production efficiency of U.S. farm operations enables the average farmer to provide the food needs of an estimated 50 people.

And safety is just as essential as technology in maintaining this enviable production record. Farm accident costs run into the billions of dollars annually. But no monetary value can be placed on the human suffering, loss of lives, and interrupted flow of produce resulting from farm accidents.

President Nixon urged renewed emphasis on farm safety precautions not only during this week but every week of the year. He also requested industry and government support in a continuing effort to reduce the toll of accidents on agricultural production.

Nicholas county home owners and farmers can check firsthand on many different experiments with fruits, vegetables and flowers conducted by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture by attending UK's Horticulture Field Day on Friday, July 26.

The field day is intended to be of interest to home gardeners, plant enthusiasts, and commercial fruit and vegetable growers, according to C.R. Roberts, UK extension horticulturist.

The field day will be divided into two sessions. The morning session will begin at 8:30 a.m. and will take place at UK's South Farm, located south of Lexington, one and one-half miles from New Circle Road on U.S. 27. The afternoon session will take place in Lexington, and will consist of a tour of the Landscape Garden Center on Cooper Drive and the UK greenhouses. The afternoon tour will begin at 2:00 p.m. The Landscape Garden Center and the greenhouses will also be open to the public for informal tours on Saturday and Sunday, July 27 and 28.
