at all times, are of particular significance for Kentuckians. The people of Kentucky can help to insure their own safety—and set a safe boating example for the visitors to our state—by remembering that overloading, improper loading, speeding, drinking and careless driving are the chief causes of boating accidents each year. These lead to a tragic loss of lives and non-linear destruction of property on Kentucky's waterways.

In 1973, a record 181 people died while participating in water related activities in Kentucky. This figure includes 54 boating fatalities and 126 non-boating fatalities, predominantly accidental drownings.

During the first five months of 1974, a total of 56 water-related fatalities have taken place. Sixteen of the 1974 fatalities have been boating accidents, and 34 have been non-boating accidental drownings.

You can help to prevent accidents and save lives by informing and reminding your readership of the need to be safety conscious during boating and other water-related activities during the coming holiday weekend and throughout the water recreation season.

I hope you will add your voice to the water safety effort.

Sincerely,
H. Doug Shouder
