Boston teacher named outstanding educator

Mrs. Elford

A fourth grade teacher at North Boston Elementary School in Thomasville, Ga., has been selected as an Outstanding Elementary Teacher of America 1974.

Mrs. C. Ray (Opal M.) Elford, was honored for her dedication and service to the teaching profession and was nominated by Miss Abbie Barnes, principal.

The Carlisle native has been teaching in the Thomas County school system since 1967, when she and her family moved to Thomasville.

The mother of five children, Mrs. Elford attended a number of colleges before attaining her B.S. degree. "My husband is a minister and when we moved from pastorate to pastorate, I enrolled in nearby colleges on a parttime basis until I finally got my degree—and it took 16 years," she said. She is now working toward her Master's at Valdosta State College.

She believes in fairness with the children and "living what you teach. Be a good example because you do not fool children."

Mrs. Elford's biography will be placed in the outstanding Elementary Teachers of America 1974 volume, which will be published in the near future. She will also join the other nationwide honorees in the competition for the Five Outstanding Teachers to be selected.

Two local woman's clubs to hold joint dinner meet Nov.11

The Carlisle Community Woman's Club, KFWC, and the Carlisle Junior Woman's Club, KFWC, will have a joint dinner meeting at the Nicholas County High School cafeteria on Monday, Nov. 11, at 6:30 p.m.

Mrs. Francis M. Pennington, KFWC parliamentarian, of Ashland will be the guest speaker. Mrs. Pennington is widely known among Women's Clubs as an interesting and knowledgeable instructor in parliamentary procedure.

Mrs. Gayle Kelley of the Junior Woman's Club will have the spiritual values. The decorations, food and other committees include members from both clubs working together.

The Community Woman's Club members will still take orders for the Rebecca Boone Carriage Throws, which are a KFWC Bicentennial project, made by Churchill Weavers in Berea, Ky.

Dear Debbie

Letters to DEBORAH WHITE

Dear Debbie:

What can I do about my husband's overzealous secretary who finds an excuse to throw him a little party nearly every week? It's annoying to find out that he's already celebrated his birthday in the office—compliments of his secretary. It does make our parties for him here at home an anti-climax. This girl even took it upon herself to have a little office party to celebrate our wedding anniversary. I think this is unfair, and I think he should explain to his secretary and anyone else in the office involved, that he has his own family to celebrate with on these occasions.

Miffed

Dear Miffed:

Okay, relax. If you've never worked in an office you may not realize how foolish you'd look by not participating in any little party they might give you. He might not want to embarrass his secretary. But the next time you have an anniversary coming up tell him you're planning to come up to office to join the fun—since you are half the reason for the party in the first place.

Dear Debbie:

Help! My wife is a plant freak and I think one night when we're asleep we are going to be covered over with growing things and never see the light of day again. Every room in the house is filled with plants; hanging pots, running vines, green plants, red flowers, purple flowers, textured vines with large leaves and delicate plants that look like a spider's web. You can hardly turn around in any room without running into a plant. Every other word out of her mouth is a reference to some exotic plant. Next to her interests is this vegetation I feel I have the value of an unwanted weed.

Uprooted

Dear Uproot:

You do sound a bit green with envy. Personally, your wife's healthful, fascinating interest in plants intrigues me. Why don't you cultivate an interest and share in the fun and conservation.

Dear Debbie:

I have been going around with a man in politics in our state. He has grown children and a wife. His argument is his wife is a complete NUT. I have friends who know him well and they say if anyone is a complete NUT, it's him. I don't know who to believe anymore.

Confused

Dear Confused:

If you want to know who the complete NUT is , just check in with your local mirror.

* * *

PERSONAL TO VICTOR: I agree. The Victorian idea of marriage is archaic and impossible in today's world —but if you think marriage as an institution is finished, think it over again. Marriage, like all other things in this life, will change, but we'll always have some form of it.

Dear Debbie:

I lost my husband after a wonderful marriage of 35 years. We had many good friends but now that I'm a widow you'd think I was a leper for all the attention they give me. They're anxious enough to show up for dinner when I invite them, but do you think even one of these couples has the courtesy to invite ME out for an evening! I remember their birthdays and anniversaries with gifts but all they remember is to forget I'm around. It's hard to make new friends at my age (I'm 56) and I hate the thought of living like this the rest of my life. I'm still attractive and have kept my figure. Money is not a problem. Where do I go from here?

Still Alive

Dear Still:

Go on a cruise, go hunting for a part-time job that interests you, and go to community organizations, clubs or other respectable groups where active people meet active people and volunteer your services. Just don't go to pot and give up.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO BETTY: Your husband's insomnia is not the problem. If he keeps phoning his secretary in the middle of the night but hangs up when you walk in, he's got a lot more on his mind besides dictation.

* * *

If you have a problem, sometimes it helps to air it. Write to me in care of this newspaper. Personal replies aren't always possible, but I'll answer the letters of widest interest in this column.

Our field trip

by Margaret Duncan

The Sixth Grade students of Nicholas County Elementary School are studying Agri-Business in Career Education. Several farms have been visited in this study.

On Oct. 22 our class visited the farm of Herbert Duncan, and also Elgin Church's farm machinery business.

We had fun. We got there about 9:25 a.m. Mr. Duncan had a lot of antique farm machinery. He had a Case tractor, an Economy saw, a corn grinder, and some more. Mr. Duncan has gone to several shows to show his machinery. He also has a corn mill that belonged to Mrs. Betty Conrad's grandfather. Mr. Duncan started up some of his machinery. It was a very exciting farm.

Next we were greeted at Mr. Church's store. He had many tractors and some backhoes at his business. He sells David Brown Case tractors. I asked the man at Mr. Church's store what the new safety devices are on tractors. He said that all tractors required cabs, fanny flag, light flashers, and seat belts. Then we left. We got back to school about 11:00 a.m.

Kay's Kitchen

— — By Kay Fisher

The ever increasing problem of serving meals within the budget effects everyone. Now, it is not only a matter of stretching the dollar, but stretching the food as well. Too we must keep in mind saving the fuel with which we cook.

If you are going to use your oven, try to think out a menu where most, if not all, the meal can cook in the oven while the meat is cooking.

Less expensive cuts of meat require long cooking at low temperature. Think of vegetables to cook along with the meat.

Rice is a good change from potatoes and can be cooked in the oven. Rice Pilaf calls for uncooked long grain rice which is less expensive than the precooked. When once the dish is in the oven you don't have to watch it.

RICE PILAF

1 cup uncooked long grain rice
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons margarine
2 bouillon cubes
2 cups hot water
1 (4 oz.) can mushrooms, stems and pieces, undrained
¼ teaspoon thyme

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Place rice in a 1 quart casserole. Sprinkle with salt. Cook onions and green peppers in margarine in a frying pan until tender. Add bouillon cubes and water. Stir until cubes are dissolved. Add mushrooms and thyme. Combine mixture with rice in casserole. Cover and bake 30 to 45 minutes. If rice should become too dry add small amount of hot water.

SCALLOPED POTATOES AND CARROTS

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup chopped fresh onions
½ cup chopped fresh parsley
6 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon dried dill weed, optional
3 cups milk
4 cups peeled, sliced potatoes
3 cups pared, sliced carrots

In large saucepan melt margarine. Add onion and parsley; cook until onion is tender. Blend in flour, salt and dill. Stir in milk and cook, stirring constantly until sauce thickens and comes to a boil. Remove from heat. Place alternate layer of potatoes and carrots in a greased casserole. Add sauce, cover and bake 30 minutes in 350 degree oven. Remove cover and bake 1 hour longer, or until vegetables are done. If potatoes start to brown too much cover lightly with a piece of foil.

Here is a quickie for dinner.

ONION STEAK SANDWICH

1 sweet onion
4 cubed steaks
4 slices of rye bread or large sesame seed roll. If using roll you will need only 2 rolls
2 oz. blue cheese
½ cup mayonnaise
½ teaspoon worcestershire sauce
salt
sliced tomat

Peel and slice onion and tomato. Make sauce of mayonnaise, cheese and worcestershire sauce. Broil steaks and season. Toast bread on one side. On other side put steak, onion, tomato, and cheese sauce. Broil until bubbly.

PORK CHOP CASSEROLE

4 to 6 chops
salt
pepper
garlic
1 can creamed corn
1 cup crushed cornflakes

Place chops in casserole, season with salt, garlic and pepper. Cover with corn and top with cornflakes. Bake at 350 degrees until it starts to cook. Then lower heat to 250 degrees and bake 2 hours uncovered.

CHOCOLATE BUTTER SQUARES

Cream together:
1 cup butter or margarine
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup white sugar

Beat in:
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Stir in:
1¼ cups all purpose flour

Spread this in a 15x9x2 inch cookie pan. Bake 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

Break or cut into pieces and place on warm cookie: 1 bar of milk chocolate (.9¾ oz. size). Spread it out over the cookies as it melts. Sprinkle over and press into the chocolate ¾ cup toasted almonds.

Cut into squares while still warm. But do not remove from pan until cold. These are delicious.—Elsie Anderson

Coatney-Yeager wedding held October 11 in Mercer county

The marriage of Miss Dana Leslie Coatney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester W. Coatney of Harrodsburg, and Garnie Allen Yeager, son of Mrs. Orbrey Yeager, Mercer county, and the late Mr. Yeager, was solemnized at 7:30 o'clock, Friday, Oct. 11, 1974 at the Bethel Baptist Church in Mercer county. The Rev. Raymond Long, pastor, performed the doublering, candlelight ceremony.

The vows were spoken before an altar formed by an arched candelabra decorated with pink carnations, white spider mums, white daisies, greenery and centered with a pink velvet bow threaded throughout the floral arrangement. The altar was flanked by tier candelabrum entwined with mixed greenery. A single candle lighted each window. Pink candles were used throughout.

The organist, Mrs. Curtis Sherrow, presented a program of pre-nuptial music including "Somewhere My Love", "One Hand, One Heart", "This Guy's in Love with You", "I Love You Truly", "Oh Promise Me", and "A Time for Us". She also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Ed Southwall, cousin of the groom from Cincinnati, who sang, "We've Only Just Begun", "More" and "Wither Thou Goest". During the wedding ceremony, she sang "The Lord's Prayer" after the couple had knelt before the altar to recite the wedding prayer. The couple received The Lord's Supper.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, and given in marriage by both parents, wore a traditional floor length gown of delicate ivory satin organza in an A line silhouette. The gown was topped by an illusion effect yoke of satin striped organza framed by Cluny lace and Venise edging beneath a high stand-up matching lace collar. The bodice was encrusted by Cluny lace meeting the raised waist defined waistline. Lantern sleeves were capped and cuffed by Cluny accented by Venise. The gown was encircled by a double tiered ruffle caught by a band of lace at the hemline, the slender skirt extended into a chapel train ornamented by matching detail.

Her veil in mantilla effect of gossamer ivory silk illusion was draped from her head dress of matching ivory lace. She carried a bridal bouquet of pink roses, pink star flowers, and baby's breath, centered with a white orchid.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Jerry Elam, Willisburg, wore a floor length gown of pink ribbed crepe, featuring ruffles at the scooped neckline, long full sleeves and hemline. The dress was accentuated with a large sash tied to form a full bow. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, white miniature carnations, pink star flowers and baby's breath and pink satin streamers.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Rodney Thompson, Harrodsburg, and Miss Marilyn Stagner, Junction City, wore dresses and accessories and carried flowers identical to those of the honor attendant.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Kimberly Carlton, niece of the groom from Lawrenceburg, and Miss Renee Allison, cousin of the bride from Carlisle identically attired to the other attendants.

The flowergirl, Miss Angie Schuster, Harrodsburg, wore a floor length dress similar to the other attendants and carried a white wicker basket filled with assorted colors of rose petals.

The groomsmen were David Fallis, Marvin Wells and Larry Yeager, all of Mercer county, and Jerry Elam of Willisburg.

Keith Coatney and Jackie Coatney, brothers of the bride, lit the church candles and unfolded the white aisle cloth.

Master Chris Boswell, cousin of the groom from Lexington, was ringbearer.

Assisting with the receiving of gifts were Miss Aggie Coatney, Cincinnati, cousin of the bride, and Miss Janet Christerson, Mercer county, cousin of the groom.

Mrs. Paul Davy, Lexington, presided at the guest register.

Following the ceremony the reception was held in the church basement. The bridal table was covered with a pink cloth which was covered with a white lace tablecloth and centered with a four layer and columned wedding cake, decorated with pink roses, white doves and wedding bells, topped with a miniature bride and groom. A silver candelabra holding pink candles also was part of the bridal table.

Assisting at the reception were: Mrs. Glenn Dervin, Mrs. Bernie McGlone, Mrs. Tommy Yates, aunt of the groom, Mrs. Marty Montgomery, Mrs. Ron Dailey, Mrs. Kelly Bugg, Mercer county; Mrs. Edgar Allison, Carlisle; Mrs. Carl Coatney, Cincinnati, aunts of the bride; Mrs. Bobby Christerson, cousin of the groom, Mrs. Tommy Pinkston, Mrs. Raymond Long, Mrs. Bernice Barnett, Mrs. Horace Stratton and Mrs. Harold Gritton, Mercer county.

For traveling, the bride wore a burgundy and white polyester dress with neck scarf and burgundy accessories. She wore a white orchid taken from her bridal bouquet.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Quintana Apt. 9, Perryville Road, Harrodsburg.

The bride and her family are former residents of Carlisle, and she is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude McKenzie.
