Developmental Learning workshop at Sayre School

On Nov. 21, a Developmental Learning Workshop will be held at Sayre School in Lexington. The workshop is designed to acquaint teachers and parents of children from pre-school age through age seven of the progress that has been made in the area of childhood learning. Dr. James H. Watkins, Director of the Multidisciplinary Institute of Lexington, will moderate the sessions. The program is a full one, beginning at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 23, and ending at approximately 4:00 p.m. A general outline of the material to be presented includes: contemporary classroom design; a perceptual learning demonstration; a modern developmental curriculum; and an explanation of the parent-teacher team approach. Mrs. Judy Endicot, Director of the Learning Laboratory at Sayre, emphasizes that the techniques and subject matter of the Workshop apply to all children from birth through the age of reading, and not just high risk individuals. The work done with any child serves as a firm foundation to future learning, and fosters a child's natural abilities. There will be films, discussions and demonstrations of techniques. Parents, as well as teachers, can receive valuable information in the area of child development. Sayre School is hosting the workshop, and there is no charge to those who attend. Lunch will be available at the Sayre School Cafeteria for $1.00. Anyone interested in attending should contact Mrs. Endicot at Sayre School before Nov. 12. Her address is Mrs. Judy Endicot, 194 North Limestone Street, Lexington, Ky. 40507. Telephone 686-24-1901.
