Dairy farmers to hold district meet Oct. 23

Dairy farmers from this area will hold their annual district meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 23 at the Middle School in Mayville, Jan. Utterback, chairman of the meeting.

Miss Rachel Booth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Booth, will represent Nicholas county as Dairy Princess at the meeting.

Activities will start with a 6 p.m. (CET) dairy buffet for all dairymen and their families. A general meeting will follow with a welcome from the county host, introduction of dairy princess candidates, a report on "How Dairy Wives Promote Real Dairy Products" by a member of the ADA Executive Committee, and a talk on "A New and Exciting Approach—Milk Is A Natural" by Frank C. Carpenter, ADA Manager, and Robert W. Isaacs, Coordinator. A discussion period and election of an ADA board member for a two-year term will follow.

Highlights of the meeting include presentation of the district ADA Scholarship Award and the coronation of the district dairy princess.

ADA officers who will be speaking at the various districts this year include Mrs. H. H. Barlow Jr., Cave City, president; Mrs. John Smith, Smithfield, first vice president; Mrs. Paul McCarthy, Jeffersonville, second vice president; and Mrs. J. L. Coats, Flinchville, secretary-treasurer. The Nicholas county ADA chairman is Mrs. Edgar Scott.

Door prizes will be awarded at the conclusion of the meeting.

Miss Booth one 37 Ky. 4-H'ers win invitation to 4-H Congress

Miss Rachel Booth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Booth, Route 4, Carlisle, is among the 37 Kentucky 4-H'ers who have been offered the opportunity to attend National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Ill., Nov. 30-Dec. 5.

Announcement of the delegation list—all top winners in 4-H projects and activities—by State Extension 4-H staff members at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture was made during the observation of National 4-H Week, now in progress.

The trip to National 4-H Congress is one of the top honors awarded 4-H'ers. Some of the young people will attend this event on scholarships provided by national industries and foundations that sponsor awards in various 4-H programs. Trips for the other delegates will be sponsored by friends of 4-H in Kentucky.

Miss Booth was selected for her woodcraft 4-H project.

James D. Price

James D. Price, 9, who died Thursday, Sept. 10, 1974, after falling off a tractor was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Price of Route 1, Ewing, in Nicholas County. His parents' names were incorrectly reported in the Sept. 20 issue of The Carlisle Mercury.

This tractor was parked outside a barn where his parents were milking. The child fell on his chest and apparently had the breath knocked from him. He went into the barn and began to vomit. His parents rushed him to the local hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Besides his parents, the child is survived by two brothers, Perry Price Jr. and Jackie Ray Price.

Services were conducted Sunday, Sept. 22, 1974 at Price Brothers Funeral Home, Elizaville. Burial in Mt. Taber Cemetery.

He is past president, charter member and has been director for 24 years of the County Farm Bureau. He has served as chairman of the County AS2S committee for 10 years and has been a member of the committee for 29 years.

He has served as president of both the Nicholas County Development Core and the Carlisle Rotary Club. Wagoner was secretary of the Boy Scouts for five years.

Chairman of the Official Board of the Carlisle United Methodist Church, Wagoner is a Sunday School teacher and president of the Methodist Men. He belongs to the Upha Club and is a Kentucky Colonel.

World record broken Windstone Farms first cattle sale grosses $649,200

Windstone Farms first Simmental cattle sale sold Friday, Oct. 4, at the Kentucky Training Center in Lexington grossed $649,200.

49 lots were sold by Kay and Wayne Shumate including an Open Pure Blood Heifer which broke the world record at $60,000. The total average on each lot sold was $13,270.

The registered 7/8 Simmental Bull that had been donated by the Shumates to the University of Kentucky Blue White Fund brought $15,400 for the UK athletic fund. The bull was bought by S.L. Farrell, Sycamore House, Keener, Ia. (on the outskirts of New Orleans), bidding against Texas cattlemen. He then offered the bull for resale—the proceeds to be donated to the American Simmental Association. The bull was resold to K&W Simmental of Paris for $23,000.

An estimated 1400 people were in the Training Center as the sale began, marking the only time since the Training Center has been built that the 90 seating areas was full. People stood several deep behind the seating area.

Adolph Rupp, former UK basketball coach, was honored prior to the sale as a "builder of young men" and as a "builder of the University of Kentucky."

The Windstone sale was the fourth such Nicholas county based sale in a title over a year at the Training Center. Other sales were at Heaven II Farm in Nicholas county held the other week, and the Maines Auction production sales. Wolf was the first to use the Training Center for a cattle sale in September 1973. Since then, several other cattle sales have been held at the Training Center in addition to the Heaven II and Windstone sales.

Will our clocks change Oct. 27?

Carlisle-Nicholas County probably will go back to Eastern Standard Time Oct. 27. Presently, the county and surrounding areas are on Central Daylight Time. If this is done, no actual clock changes are necessary at a time zone switch.

Under a bill passed Sept. 20 by the Senate, the nation will return to Standard Time for the winter months ending the year-end Daylight Savings Time which became effective Jan. 6, 1974 as an energy-conservation measure.

Gov. Wendell Ford's office said Sept. 20 that he will ask the federal government to permit Kentucky to return to time zones that existed before last January.

Exemption—no clock change here

If the exemption is granted, 18 counties in the central and eastern part of the state, including Nicholas, would move from Central Daylight Time to Eastern Standard Time with no clock changes. 41 counties roughly west of Louisville would move their clocks back one hour from Central Daylight Time to Central Standard Time.

Mayville, Abland and Northern Kentucky town, 11 counties total, would move their clocks back one hour from Eastern Daylight Time to Eastern Standard Time.

Putting it simpler, Nicholas county clocks will not change. Western Kentucky will be one hour behind us and Cincinnati will have the same time as we. The most immediate significance locally will be getting use to one hour later. Instead of the pigment at 10 p.m. and 10 p.m. news, the news on these stations will appear at 4 p.m. and 11 p.m. as it did last year.

No Exemption—put your clock back

If Ford's petition is not granted, most of the state, including Nicholas, will be on Central Standard Time from Oct. 17 to Feb. 23 and on Central Daylight Time starting Feb. 23. This would mean moving our clocks back on Oct. 27.

The Senate Commerce Committee, in January and February, reported the Senate during November, December, January and February, reported the equivalent of 100,000 barrels of oil per day was saved during the first four months of 1974 because of Daylight Saving Time.

But such savings "must be balanced against a majority of the public's distaste for the observance of Daylight Saving Time" during the winter, the committee said.

Daylight Saving Time is opposed, especially during the winter, by parents and schoolchildren who must start classes during the pre-dawn hours, and by the construction industry, which claims there are additional safety hazards during early-morning hours.

Kentucky Farm Bureau president, Robert Wade has written the Governor asking that the current time line be returned. He cited the desirability of having most of the state on the active Standard Time began in 1883.

William Frederick Allen, editor of "The Official Guide of the Railways" was the author of Standard Time with one-hour time belts dividing the United States into Eastern, Central, Mountain and Pacific Time Zones. Congress made Standard Time law on March 11, 1882, after a General Time Convention at St. Louis, Mo. had approved it.

Before Standard Time there were more than 50 standards of time used in the United States and Canada.

Only enough of the same critics and objections were directed against Standard Time in 1882 as are now directed against Daylight Saving Time. It took years for some people to become accustomed to getting their time from the Naval Observatory at Washington instead of from an old-fashioned "tinestall" or from the sun.

Continue Exacts This Year

It does seem though that Nicholas counties and others in the same boat, could at least remain in one time zone year round, so that we could be sure as to whether our clocks will be changed or not in October and again in February. The clocks will be changed to whatever time is given us. But, it would be helpful not to have to adjust so frequently as we have had to do this year.

Oct. 2 freeze kills garden vegetables Estimated 100 acres of tobacco severely damaged in Nicholas as temperature drops to 21

An estimated 100 acres of Nicholas county tobacco was severely damaged as temperatures dropped to 21 degrees Wednesday night, Oct. 2.

Estil Nofsinger, county extension agent, said Monday that he covered most of the county on Thursday and Friday trying to ascertain crop damage. The county usually produces over 2,000 acres of tobacco but heavy rains had delayed some farmers from getting in tobacco before the unusually early freeze. Two or three farmers still had over half their tobacco crop out.

Some of the farmers are going to try to save their tobacco, but chances are not good that they will be able to do so.

He said the early frost on the nights of Sept. 21 and 22 did no damage to the tobacco crop as Wednesday's freeze did. A killing frost ordinarily does not occur until Oct. 10 to 15.

In addition to tobacco, Nofsinger said late corn, beans, tomatoes and peppers were also killed on Wednesday. Over 750,000 pounds of tobacco was under marketed in 1973 by county farmers. The county normally produces 3,000,000 pounds of tobacco, but farmers were trying to make up last year's deficit.

The extent of damage locally cannot be determined in dollars until the tobacco is marketed later this year.

School board underbilled $6,655.13 Elementary gas bill discussed Saturday

The Nicholas County Board of Education came to a preliminary agreement with Carlisle Mayor Bill Power over a gas bill that was underbilled for 10 months.

Mayor Power appeared before the board Saturday seeking to come to terms with the group over the discrepancy in the bill, which amounted to $6,655.13 for a period from July 12, 1972 to Dec. 14, 1973.

During that time the meter was read at approximately 10% of the actual bill each month. Mayor Power said the mistake was made when the meter, which covers gas usage at the new elementary school, was read as a "home" meter as opposed to a commercial or industrial reading.

The board unofficially agreed to repay the bill, but the outstanding amount after the first tax receipt check is received. Mayor Power was to bring this matter up at the next meeting.

Elementary PTA to meet Tuesday

Nicholas County Elementary PTA will meet Tuesday, Oct. 15, at 7:30 p.m. to elect officers for the coming year. The group will meet in the cafeteria. The executive committee will meet at 7 p.m.

A "Get Acquainted" time will follow the business meeting. Teachers will be in their respective rooms to meet with parents.

Harvey Wagoner, well known agriculture leader from Nicholas county is shown receiving the Outstanding Leader Award presented each year by the Kentucky County Agents Association. Nicholas County Agent Estil Nofsinger and Mrs. Wagoner are looking on as John Kavanaugh, president elect of the Kentucky County Agents, presents the 1974 award to Mr. Wagoner. The Wagoners were honored at the state meeting held at the Ramada Inn in Florence last week.
