Ag hearing to be held at Mt. Sterling today

William E. Burnett, executive director of the Governor's Council on Agriculture has announced that the council will hold a series of hearings around the state in coming weeks in hopes of aiding farmers in producing and marketing their products. The council hearings are slated for: Mt. Sterling, Oct. 17; Burlington, Oct. 18; Madisonville, Oct. 24; Mayfield, Oct. 25; Somerset, Nov. 14; and Frankfort, Nov. 15. The hearings will be at the county courthouse in each town from 10:00 a.m.-12:00 noon and from 1:00 p.m.-3:00 p.m. According to Burnett, "the council has two responsibilities. First, we act as an advisor to the governor and second, we are designing a comprehensive program to help increase the net income of Kentucky's farmers. The council consists of 20 members—five ex-officio members and 15 regular members. Among the ex-officio members are Gov. Wendell P. Ford, Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll, Commissioner of Agriculture Wendell P. Butler and the deans of agriculture and home economics at the University of Kentucky. The 15 other members are farmers from throughout the state. The council has been in existence for nearly two years and has completed studies on both Kentucky's production potential and its marketing potential. It is made up of committees which submit recommendations to it. But in the overall development of the program, the council has reached the point where it must go out into the state and personally speak with the farmers. This is just part of our program to obtain information," said Burnett. "We are inviting everybody. We're concerned about farmers of all types—tobacco growers, livestock, dairy, grain—everyone. What we're trying to do is get out there to reach the man who isn't heard and find out what his problems are. By the first of the year, we hope to be able to go out the state again and this time carry out our own recommendations based upon our studies and hearings."

Lodge discussed for Blue Licks Park

State Senator Tom Ward, State Representative Adrian Arnold and representatives from Franklin, Fleming, Mason, Nicholas and Robertson counties attended a meeting at Blue Licks State Park Monday to discuss the obtaining of a lodge and camping facilities at the park. Dr. S. Evans Brown and Joseph H. Conley represented Nicholas county at the meeting. The consensus of opinion was that overnight accommodations are needed at the park, due to the lack of adequate facilities in the area, the increasing amount of visitors to the park and area each year, and the historical significance of the park, site of the last battle of the Revolution, in the coming National Bicentennial Celebration in 1976. Information will be compiled by the Buffalo Trace Area Development District and a plan for development of the park formulated for presentation to the Governor and Parks Commission at a meeting to be held later this year.

Phone companies to compile cost studies

Sen. Ward requests citizen telephone input

To: Members of Citizens Telephone Committees in Bourbon, Fayette, Harrison, Nicholas, and Scott counties and other interested citizens and public officials. I am advised by Mr. Richard D. Herman, Jr., Secretary of the Public Service Commission that the Commission anticipates receipt of cost studies and other information from South Central Bell and General Telephone Company in approximately one month and that a hearing will be scheduled for late November or no later than December. It is hoped that all of the following subjects will be considered at this hearing to the extent of your interest in them: 1. Extended area service between Bourbon-Fayette, Scott-Fayette, Harrison-Fayette, and

Nicholas-Fayette. 2. The general level of telephone service in these counties, particularly the problem of multi-party lines. 3. The fact that some citizens of Nicholas county are on Millerburg exchange and must pay long distance to call the county seat of Carlisle. 4. The fact that some Bourbon county residents are on Lexington exchange and must pay long distance telephone to the county seat of Paris. 5. The fact that some citizens of Scott county are on an Owenenton exchange and must pay long distance to call the county seat of Georgetown. 6. The difficulty of making direct dial calls, that is, it often takes several attempts or assistance to the operator to get a direct dial call. 7. The fact that intra-state calls appear to be more expensive than inter-state calls. 8. Delay in installation of telephone service. Based upon the number of names that I have received both for and against extended area service between the above named counties, it would appear that all except for Harrison county have shown an enough citizen interest on the question of extended area service. It would be very helpful to have specific information on the other items listed above. As I have stated previously since March 1973, we are not asking that extended area service

District 3 description may aid voter

Supt. Elder to prepare map of Nicholas school districts

Nicholas County Superintendent of Schools Don Elder has undertaken the job of preparing a map of the five local school districts in order to clarify the boundaries of each district. Some confusion exists as to who votes in which district each time School Board elections are held locally. The map, however, will not be available before this November Election in which School Board members will be elected in Districts 2 and 3. District 3 is one of the hardest districts to define. The following is a description of the District as it was written by the late Sgt. Raymond Wesley in 1964. It remains the legal description of District 3. "3) Educational District Number Three shall be composed of Moorefield and that portion of Engine House described as follows: Beginning at Mr. and Mrs. Howard Havermale on north side of Ky. Highway 36, thence west to Scrubgrass Road; thence north on the Scrubgrass Road to the Myers Precinct boundary line including all voters on the east side of the Scrubgrass Road; thence west along Scrubgrass Road and north Ky. Highway 36 including all voters on the West side of Scrubgrass Road; thence west on the north side of Ky. Highway 36 including all voters in Shepherd Hills, Baker's Addition, Little Heights and Arnold Heights; intersection of Ky. Highway 36 and Ky. Highway 25 and Broadway; thence along Broadway to North Street; thence east on North Street to the intersection of Eastern Avenue including all voters on the South side of North Street thence with Eastern Avenue to Ky. Highway 36 and Main Street. All voters within the boundary of Main Street, Broadway, North Street and Eastern Avenue shall be included in Educational District Number Three and all persons on the East side of Eastern Avenue beginning with Glenn Greer - Linn Road (tree) and continuing south to Main Street shall be included in District No. 2. Roy Littlefield has announced his candidacy as a write-in candidate in District 3. Since no candidates filed for the District 3 position, it will be decided by write-in vote. Ray Waggoner has filed for re-election in District 2, composed of Mayor's Office and Ruffert Precincts. Any voter who is still unsure as to what District he lives in, may call the Superintendent's office between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. daily.

1972 Council decision to stand

City gas problems discussed at length at meet Monday

Scarcity of natural and synthetic gas and related problems were discussed at length Monday night at City Council meeting. The consensus of opinion was that Council's decision on Oct. 8, 1972 to accept no new gas customers would still have to remain in effect.

Buddy Buckler was given permission to remove one of the two gas meters to his new home under construction on Catherine Street. The Council was advised to install LP Gas at his trailer in Arnold Heights even though gas use has been paid by him. He was advised to block the line temporarily and be ready to hook up to the City System when the gas situation changes.

City Attorney Billy Hopkins was directed to send a letter to John Allison clarifying the point that he cannot hook up gas to his new home in Arnold Heights. Allison has not asked for gas service, but it has been reported by area residents that his gas was turned off while gas lines were being installed for Allison. The vote was 4-1 with Cord voting against the motion. Charles Fay was absent from the meeting. Other motions passed unanimously were: to finish blacktopping the alley between Roger Bowen's and Jack

Conley's houses on Locust Street whenever City crew can get to it. In permit by James Noll to install an emergency radio antenna on the city water tower on Catherine Street. Dr. Noll agreed to pay the additional electricly he uses. To permit the Christian Church to mark off a space in front of the church for the church bus for church services. To have notice of Council meetings printed in The Carlisle Mercury once a month before regular meetings. Building permits passed are: George Willoughby, 36 W. Main, to tear down old garage and build new building; and to Buddy Buckler to build a new home on Catherine Street.

Three accidents occur within mile at same time on successive days here

Three accidents occurred within a mile of each other on the Locust Grove Road at approximately the same time 3 p.m., on three successive days last week, according to Nicholas County Deputy Sheriff J.W. Ecton. The cars driven by Mrs. Allen Sparks and Mrs. Willie Hoeg were totaled on Tuesday, Oct. 8, in the first accident. Mrs. Sparks sustained facial cuts in the accident. A Nicholas County school bus, driven by Phyllis Burke, collided with a pickup truck driven by Porter Dickson on Wednesday, Oct. 9. Nobody was hurt in this accident. Mrs. Virgie Jackson remains in the Nicholas County Hospital after an accident on Thursday, Oct. 10. Mrs. Jackson said she swerved to the right to avoid hitting an oncoming car which crowded her off the road. She then went off the left side of the road and hit a culvert and tree. The accident occurred just below Cecil Smart's house on Locust Grove.
