slabspoon of vinegar for each gallon of boiled water.

While granulated sugar is always used unless the recipe calls for brown sugar. Use fresh spices. The ones on your shelf soon lose flavor in hot, humid weather. White spices give a better flavor and color than those that are ground. Spices should be tied loosely in clean white muslin. Then they may be removed when pickles are ready for canning.

For a free recipe booklet on Pickles and Relishes, call your County Extension Agent's Office or come and pick up a copy.

Harrison to head new Department of Energy

Damon Harrison

FRANKFORT—Calling for a comprehensive, coordinated and efficient energy program, Gov. Julian M. Carroll announced recently the creation of a Kentucky Department of Energy.

The new department will be responsible for most non-research energy programs, such as conservation, allocation and management, planning and resource development. It will be headed by former Commerce Commissioner Damon Harrison.

Compared to other state agencies, the new energy department will be small, the governor said, but it will have "broad responsibilities and affect every Kentuckian. It will provide a nucleus for any emergency which might occur."

At a morning press conference, Carroll also announced the establishment of the Kentucky Energy Resources Advisory Commission. This 11-member commission represents farming, industrial, utility, environmental and consumer groups, as well as fuel producers and distributors.

WHEN WAS THE LAST TIME YOU AND YOUR WIFE HAD A HEART TO HEART TALK ABOUT THE INSULATION IN YOUR HOME?

She'd probably give you a funny look because it's a subject that doesn't come up too often. But if you're planning to build a new home and heat it electrically, it deserves attention.

Proper insulation at the time of construction will save you a surprising amount of money. Every year for the life of your home. In fact, a properly insulated home can save you one-third or more on your electric heating bill. At today's prices, hampered their competitive position in certain areas. Government has caused the problem, and freeing the railroads of unnecessary government control is my preferred solution."

Sen. Thurmond has joined with Sen. Robert Taft Jr. (R-Ohio) in sponsoring legislation that would provide a free enterprise solution to the rail crisis. Their bill (S. 1081) would provide "controlled liquidation of the bankrupt lines, allowing successful railroads to buy up troubled lines in a manner that would insure the continuation of vital rail services."

Under the Thurmond-Taft bill, rail carriers would establish their fees in a competitive market structure, not by rule of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which bears a heavy responsibility for the current rail crisis. Most importantly, the free enterprise rail bill calls for reform of what Sen. Thurmond refers to as "the many ridiculous, make-work labor rules, which hinder greater labor productivity on the rail lines."

This legislation points in the right direction—toward a free market solution and away from taxpayer subsidies and the threat of nationalization. Nationalized railroads would constitute a government monopoly of unprecedented size. It is time that the public speak up against another multi-billion dollar subsidy.

Rosalie came Monday. We had such a nice time. Went to visit our cousin Carolyn Delaney Snapp and her family, had never seen her home.

We went from there to the local hospital where we visited my step-daughter, Ann Donovan Rogers and others. I was surprised to see my friend Minnie Sorrell working there.

"Linnie" Ratliff, who works in the kitchen here, said her husband Rex was feeling much better since she had finally gotten him to go to the doctor.

Two ladies from the State Department have been here taking a survey. One said she was Japanese, but was born in Cuba. Will be back in 30 days.

Mrs. Leda Sexton has such good children. They never let her really want for anything. Her step-children are good too.
