

Opinion

Parade, best ever!

Carlisle's Christmas Parade was the best in many years! The seven bands participating were highly responsible for the success of this year's parade. It has been many years since so many bands have marched locally.

There were not as many floats as in years past, but those entered were really good ones. The marching groups also added a great deal to the parade, and did the lovely green caudates.

All in all, it was one of the biggest and best Christmas parades ever. We believe the crowd was a lot bigger than

Survival fight continues

Millersburg Military Institute continues its fight for financial survival as the only private secondary military school in Kentucky and one of two in the entire state of Kentucky. Ohio and West Virginia. There were over 100 military students following World War II. Today MMI is one of 40 still struggling to survive. This month the institute has received $175,000.00 MMI Fund Drive and only its fulfillment will assure its unbroken existence for another year.

The 'Underpaid' government worker

The Senate Appropriations Committee in Washington is undertaking a study of "federal compensation." Reason: complaints by some government workers and in particular their unions that federal workers are "underpaid."

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury: I would like to have present on the Christmas Parade sponsored by the...

Mercury vapors

It's beginning to look a lot like winter. That was my first thought this morning as I viewed car tops covered with white stuff that I knew wasn't frost.

Phil Donovan was showing up an aluminum coin marked 1 cent in trade, U.S. Post, Carlisle, Kentucky. He inferred he had shown it to me previously and vaguely I agreed and...

Maybe the trick would be to preprint the borders onto grids. It really looks like I have enough rope to tie myself up and then, I proceed to allow...

Agree or Not

By S.C. Van Curen

FRANKFORT—The seeds of division might well have been planted in the Kentucky House of Representatives at the pre-legislative Conference at Kentucky Dam Village the first of the year.

First off, veteran legislator Norbert Blume, D-Louisville, who began his legislative career in 1964, was ousted as House speaker after serving two terms.

Next off, Bobby Richardson, a young attorney from Glasgow, was chosen as majority floor leader over others who have spent more time in the legislative hall.

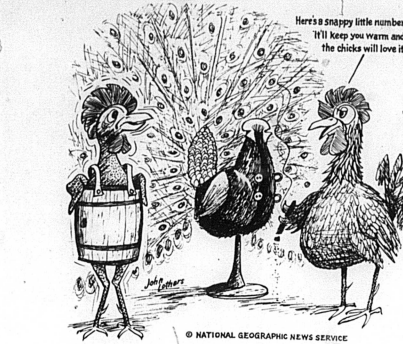

Lloyd Clapp, the veteran legislator from Wingo, who has been in the House since 1966, was named Speaker pro-tem, which satisfied him and there is no complaint about the posts of caucus chairman and Democrat whip, Bill Donermeier, D-Bellvue, is caucus chairman, and Dwight Wells, Republican, is the whip.

Geographically, the positions are equitably distributed and there is no rebalancing Blume to the floor as just a member after he had leadership posts.

One of the heaviest rainfalls in weeks "faded" Nicholas county Sunday and streams were swollen out of their banks.

Looking for Christmas gift ideas? Here are a few nice night apparel you—and to those people on your Christmas list.

County extension agents... Kelli Nefzinger... Mrs. Margie Wilson... You've made often will have more sentimental value to the receiver than...

Chickens bred without feathers in search for cheaper dinners

Featherless chickens are nervous birds, but they might mean cheaper dinners. Raising chickens without feathers eliminates one step in processing the birds for market.

Research into featherless chickens began in 1950 when Ursula Abbott, a professor of bird genetics at the University of California at Davis, found one in a batch of chicks she had ordered from New Hampshire.

Since then, scientific breeding has produced hundreds of the genetic freaks. The National Geographic Society says. Entire flocks in laboratories wear only an occasional wispy feather.

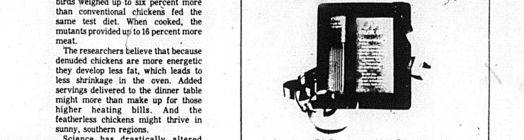

But there are several reasons why none of the smooth-skinned birds appeared on supermarket shelves. Whether from embarrassment or whatever, the denuded fowl are extremely nervous and prone to develop skin ulcers.

Without their protective coats, they are also susceptible to chills. Their featherless brethren can survive even freezing weather, but naked chickens shiver if the benumbed temperature dips even slightly.

They get to miserable that they stop eating and simply waste away," reports Dr. Ralph Jones Jr., who is studying the mutants at the University of Connecticut.

Local students enrolled at UK
Freshman Philip A. Gilkison, Agriculture; Graduate Rita Dayton Green, Graduate; Freshman Pamela Hicks, Lexington Technical; Junior Owen Barkley Barner, Agriculture; Freshman Judy Jones Bellamy, Arts and Sciences; Graduate Mary Letitia Burden, Pharmacy; Graduate Pamela Joan Bassell, Graduate; Senior Glyde Mills Cleaver, Arts and Sciences; Sophomore Sandra Kay Cleaver, Lexington Technical; Senior Patrick Carter Conley, Arts and Sciences; Senior Oliver Kash Curry Jr., Law; Reed, Graduate; Junior John Eastl, Sophomore III, Business and Economics; Senior Bonnie Lou Spencer, Arts and Sciences; Senior Gary Keith Stone, Business and Economics; Graduate Carolyn Tolson, Graduate; Freshman Joseph Harvey Wilson, Engineering; Senior Sandra Kay Wilson, Education; Graduate Martha Soper Wright, Graduate; Junior William Nathan Young, Business and Economics.

Remember her this Christmas with Jovan's new Musk Oil Gift Set. And She'll Remember You All Year.

Jovan's new Gift Set gives her Musk Oil spray with the warm in full-strength perfume or subtle cologne spray mist. Because Musk Oil is one of the most provocative scents, it makes the world has never known. So don't start to regret that the more you give her, the better she'll love you.

Jovan's Musk Oil Perfume and Cologne Gift Set. 1.5 oz. Perfume and 2 oz. Cologne Mist. $11.00 value for $8.50.

Carlisle Drug Co.

Advertisement for Carlisle Drug Co. featuring various products like pocket knives, power saws, and electric chainsaws. Includes a large section for 'Announcing an Amazing Fertilizer Offer' from Southern States Fertilizer, detailing a 6% discount and firm price protection.