Sen. Tom Ward appoints Fayette chairwoman

State Senator Tom Ward, Democrat of Versailles, has announced the appointment of Mrs. Fran Boyanowski as Fayette county chairwoman in his campaign for Lieutenant Governor.

Ward, who filed his papers with the Secretary of State last Wednesday, was the first active candidate in the race for Lieutenant Governor.

Mrs. Boyanowski, who has served in numerous civic capacities during her seven years in the Lexington area, completed last week her duties as president of the Greater Lexington Democratic Women's Club. She expects "to get into full gear immediately" in her capacity as local chairwoman.

Mrs. Boyanowski has served as legislative chairman of the Fayette County Council and Seventh District. She has also served twice on the Fayette County Joint Legislative Committee on Education, and as a member of the Executive Committee for the Merger Commission.

A mother of seven children, Mrs. Boyanowski has been active with local PTA organizations, serving as president of the Bryan Station Junior High PTA and as legislative chairman for the Mary Todd Elementary School.

Her husband, Don, who is Associate Hospital Director at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, is serving as Senator Ward's State Treasurer.

Mrs. Boyanowski foresees the issues of natural resources as well as honesty in government, education, and health care as the focal points of her local campaign efforts.

Fayette County Headquarters for the Ward Campaign will share space with the Ward for Lt. Governor State Headquarters located at 146 N. Limestone in Lexington.

Ray Stewart

Ray Stewart files

Ray E. Stewart, former Director of Housing for the city of Catlettsburg, filed last week for the Democratic nomination for Commissioner of Agriculture for the state of Kentucky.

Mr. Stewart is a native of Boyd county.

In his tenure of seven years as housing director for Catlettsburg, he brought one project out of bankruptcy, and built an eight-story high rise for the elderly, and was responsible for getting the city other new businesses. He is also a 27-year employe of Allied Chemical Agriculture Corporation.

"Ah, here's my man with his report on our new foolproof safety system."

Kentucky 4-H sets 250,000 member goal

Involvement of 250,000 young people and 45,000 leaders in the Kentucky 4-H program by 1978—that's the goal of the new 4-H expansion program, which was launched Jan. 16, 1975 with a kick-off luncheon in Louisville.

With the theme, "4-H—It's Where You're At," the expansion program is designed to offer the opportunities of 4-H to a larger number of Kentucky youth, especially those in urban areas, and to interest more adults in serving as 4-H leaders.

"With more Kentucky participation in 4-H than ever before—133,000 young people in the 9-19 age range and nearly 15,000 adult and teen leaders, 4-H is on the move in this state," according to Conrad Feltner, assistant director for 4-H of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture's Cooperative Extension Service.

He pointed out that 4-H's growth in Kentucky's suburban and inner-city areas has been phenomenal in recent years, with a wide variety of 4-H projects and activities developed to appeal to urban youth. At the same time, 4-H is reaching the highest percentage ever of rural youth in Kentucky, he said.

"Recruitment and training of leaders is the first step in the expansion," Feltner said. "Leaders, who work directly with the 4-H'ers, are the key to success for 4-H to be offered to an increased number of Kentucky youth."

Promotional materials, using the "It's Where You're At!" theme, have been produced by T. Jefferson Wright Associates, Louisville, for use as part of an awareness campaign in connection with the 4-H expansion program, he said. Now being made available for use throughout the state, these materials include radio and television spots, prepared by the staff of WHAS, Louisville, as a contribution to 4-H; newspaper ads, and billboards.

Cooperating with the Extension Service in the expansion effort is "Friends of Kentucky 4-H, Inc.", an organization made up of representatives of the businesses and organizations which donate money and professional expertise to the 4-H program. Officers of "Friends of Kentucky 4-H, Inc." are: president—Dody George, vice president, Standard Oil Co. (Ky.); vice president—Robert Miller, director of cooperative and youth relations, Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation; secretary—Lynwood Schrader, vice president, Kentucky Utilities Co.; and treasurer—John Henderson, regional manager, Southern States Cooperative Corporation.

Extension agents in each Kentucky county have charge of local 4-H programs. More information on 4-H opportunities is available from Sara S. Elmer, County Extension Agent for 4-H, 289-2312.

RED HOTS
[PICKLED HOT DOGS]

Hot dogs—don't cook. Rinse in cool water. Place in jar. (I always cut in half crosswise).

Boil together:
1 cup vinegar
½ cup sugar
hot peppers, cut in pieces

Pour over hot dogs. Seal. Keep in refrigerator for 48 hours before using.

Use amount of hot peppers for your own taste preference. I usually cut up one or more of dried peppers.—June Wilson, Carlisle, Ky.

Now I have another request in the mail this week asking for a recipe for "Cabbage Balls, German ones." I don't know if this would be the same as Stuffed Cabbage or not. Can anyone help me?

The following is the recipe I use for Cabbage Rolls. It is really a combination of several recipes that seems to suit me.

Core rather deeply a whole head of cabbage and parboil about 5 minutes. Drain well. Separate the leaves. Place the large outer leaves in a greased baking dish.

To make filling, melt 1½ tablespoons of margarine in heavy skillet or sauce pan. Saute in the margarine 3 or 4 minutes: 1 seeded and chopped green pepper, ¼ cup chopped onion, ¼ cup minced celery. Add 1½ cups...cooked seasoned rice. (Rice may be seasoned with herbs or you may use only salt, butter and pepper.) 1 cup (½ lb.) sausage. Be sure all ingredients are mixed well. Divide into about eight portions.

Using the remaining larger leaves fill each one with one portion of filling and roll the cabbage leaves and secure with toothpick if necessary. Place each roll close together, seam side down, on prepared baking dish. Dot each roll with butter and pour into dish ½ cup cabbage stock, tomato juice or sour cream and paprika.

Bake the rolls in moderate oven 350 degrees for about 45 minutes. Ground beef may be used instead of the sausage. Use ground chuck or round or the rolls will be too greasy.

Bake until cabbage leaves are tender and meat done.

For those of you who may have Christmas Cake or Plum Pudding left, serve it with this Brandy Sauce to moisten the cake and please the palate. This is a repeat by request.

BRANDY SAUCE

1 egg, separated
⅝ cup confectioners sugar
dash of salt
½ cup whipping cream
3 tablespoons brandy

Beat egg white until stiff. Gradually add sugar. Beat in salt and egg yolk. Fold in whipped cream. Add brandy and chill.

Cherry Pudding is also a repeat by request.

CHERRY PUDDING

Heat 1 can of red sour cherries with ⅔ cup sugar.

Melt 1 stick of margarine or butter in 1½ quart Pyrex dish. (7½x13½ size.)

Make a batter of 1 cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, pinch of salt and ⅔ cup sweet milk. The milk more or less to make a smooth batter not too thin.

Pour the batter over the melted margarine, then the cherries and juice on top of batter. Do "not" stir. Bake 350 degrees until brown—about 30 to 45 minutes. Cut in squares. Serves 8—generously. This is good served warm with prepared whipped topping or a scoop of ice cream. If you have any left it is good cold.

Should you want to dress this up a bit add a few drops of red food coloring and ¾ cup chopped pecans to the cherries before pouring over batter.

Dear Debbie

Letters to DEBORAH WHITE

Dear Debbie:

My son just got married. I was against it because this girl is not for him. He was always a quiet, conservative boy. She's loud, uses foul language and dresses like a tart. When they visit we always fight because she's so fresh and disrespectful. I have high blood pressure and she upsets me so I asked my son not to bring her. He didn't say anything but later he called and said she was angry and didn't want him to visit either. I told him I was sorry and he could bring her, but they haven't been here since. My husband says it's my fault but I don't know what to do. I miss my son. We used to be very close.

Very Much A Mother

Dear Very:

Since your daughter-in-law is the one you banished from your home, she's the one you should apologize to. Phone her, say you're sorry and invite them both to dinner. Once they get there, just remember she's the woman your son chose. If the loud clothes and vulgarity don't bother him, try not to let them bother you. You may learn to like her in time.

Dear Debbie:

You said you'll answer letters of widest interest, so what do you say to a 22-year-old girl out of work. I majored in advertising art in high school. Since then I've been an inventory clerk, photographic technician, salesgirl, haircutter and model. I was laid off from my last job four months ago. Since then I've been looking and looking. My mom works hard to support me and my sister but she deserves more. My relatives say why don't you try here or there, but the only one who knows how bad it is is my aunt, who is also looking.

Question: How come with all my different skills, employers say no? Answer that!

Gael

Dear Gael:

You obviously have the aptitude, but how's your attitude? Most employers would be delighted with a girl of your versatility. If yours weren't and didn't give you a specific reason for their dissatisfaction, I'd get in touch and ask just what turned them off. Knowing the reasons may not help you find another job, but they should help you keep the one you get.

Dear Debbie:

I'm 46, divorced (no children) and considered quite attractive. After the split-up I went back to work. I haven't felt attracted to anyone until recently but the problem is he's 15 years younger than me. He works in my office and has asked me out several times. I keep saying no because of the age difference but lately I can't stop thinking about him. The physical attraction is very strong. I know I look a lot younger than I am but I'm afraid people will think I'm robbing the cradle.

46-Year-Old Teenager

Dear 46:

Let them. Nobody thinks twice about a 46-year-old man dating a 21-year-old woman, yet ideally it should be the other way around. Physically an older woman is more compatible with a younger man, because women reach sexual maturity much later than do men. If age is all that's standing in the way, go to it.

If you have a problem, write to me in care of this newspaper. Personal replies aren't always possible, but I'll answer letters of widest interest in this column.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Hamilton Jr.

Presbyterian Church is scene of Pettit-Hamilton wedding

Miss Tresia Lynn Pettit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pettit, Hillsboro, became the bride of John Thomas Hamilton Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Hamilton Sr., Springfield, Va., Sunday, Dec. 29, 1974, at 5:30 p.m. at the Carlisle Presbyterian Church. Dr. S. Evans Brown, Carlisle, and Dr. Emett Barfield, Paris, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. J.M. Pitman. The soloist was Mrs. Ramona Barker, who also played the guitar.

The altar was adorned by ivory tapered candelabras intertwined with poms and greenery. Poinsettias, candles and greenery were placed at focal points of the sanctuary.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful gown of ivory marracaine enhanced with pearls and scroll work. The Bateau neckline, long slim sleeves, cumberband waist and A-line silhouette added to the beauty of the lovely attached chapel train. Her headpiece was a profile of lace motifs sparked with pearls and held her floor length veil with cascades of lace. She carried a cascade of ivory carnations, daisies, and blue baby's breath.

Mrs. Kathryn Rawlings, matron of honor, wore a floor length gown of sapphire blue velvet accented by an ivory Venise lace jacket.

The bridesmaids, whose gowns were identical to the matron of honor, were Miss Sara Hamilton, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Ramona Barker. The honor attendants carried colonial bouquets centered with ivory tapers.

Miss Melinda Pettit, sister of the bride, and Miss Shelly Hamilton, daughter of the groom, served as flower girls. Their floor length gowns were ivory velvet accented with sapphire blue. They carried white baskets trimmed with carnations and matching ribbon.

William Hamilton served his brother as best man. Ushers were James Rawlings, John Crouch, and Randall Pettit and Tony Pettit, brothers of the bride.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall of the church. The table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with blue poms. Assisting at the reception were Miss Carla Porter and Mrs. John Crouch. Miss Porter also presided at the guest register.

Mrs. Hamilton, a graduate of Fleming County High School, is presently employed by Pasig-Tipton Livestock Underwriters.

Mr. Hamilton, a graduate of Nicholas County High School, attended Morehead State University and Eastern Kentucky University. He is employed as an operating engineer with Norwood Construction Company.

The couple is presently residing in Lexington.

Concert rescheduled

The Central Kentucky Concert and Lecture Series has announced that a recital by Van Cliburn, award-winning pianist, has been postponed until Thursday, Feb. 20.

Mr. Cliburn, originally scheduled for late January, has had to delay his tour because of illness. The recital will be at Memorial Coliseum on the University of Kentucky campus, at 8:15 p.m.

Glass-Tucker wedding

Orie Mae Glass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mitchell of Fleming county and Charles Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tucker of Millersburg were married Friday night by Rev. Frank Simons.

Connie Sue Glass, daughter of the bride, and David Tucker, son of the groom, witnessed the ceremony.
