ANOTHER FEDERAL AGENCY

The proposed "Agency For Consumer Advocacy"—Senate Bill 200— is nothing of the sort. It is another federal control bill.

It is incredible that such legislation should be foisted on the American people when the country already is suffering from regulatory overkill. The Daily Oklahoman recently commented that "Federal regulatory power is not only intrusive to a degree our parents would not have believed, but it is costly".

The initial cost is of the giant bureaucracy. Today, there are more than 63,000 federal employes on the payroll of regulatory agencies. This manpower costs the taxpayers more than $2 billion a year.

But this is only part of the cost. One steel company estimates that its superintendents spend 4,000 man hours a year guiding inspectors through its coal mines. There are more than 5,000 different types of federal forms to be filled out by businesses which reportedly require 130 million man hours per year to complete.

Murray Weidenbaum, an economist at Washington University, estimates the cost of auto safety and emission standards at $3 billion a year. In a new book, he cites the endless harassment of companies by consumer protection agencies.

While Sen. Abraham Ribicott (D-Conn.), with strong assistance from consumer sensationalist Ralph Nader, pushes S. 200, the country is overloaded with consumer protection groups. The U. S. Chamber of Commerce recently pointed out that in the Washington metropolitan area alone there are no fewer than 38 private and 14 public consumer organizations, "national, local, alive and active".

Vast quantities of consumer protection legislation has been enacted in recent years. Much of this legislation is absurd. A columnist for the Oklahoman reports that "Federal agencies now specify how large toilet partitions must be, and how frequently spitoons must be cleaned". The Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) rules specify the size, shape and number of toilet seats required in each restroom of a business office.

On top of all this Sen. Ribicoff and other supporters of S. 200 would impose a new agency to serve as an advocate "for consumers who have been victimized by marketplace irresponsibility".

This bill isn't a "voice for consumers," as its proponents allege, but a new voice for power-seeking bureaucracy. It is the dream of the Naderites who oppose every productive enterprise and whose only ambition is to impose more regulations on the American people.

Is wildly proliferating government regulation, allegedly for the benefit of consumers, what the American people want? A recent poll by Opinion Research Corp. showed that American consumers, by a 75 per cent majority, opposed creation of a new federal consumer agency. More regulation is not the wave of the future in this country, if the American people have their way. They are beginning to realize that super-regulation erodes their liberties and drastically affects the prices of the goods and services they desire.

If the House of Representatives is listening to the people, as distinct from the bureaucrats, it will reject the new "advocacy" agency bill.

'Arsenic and Old Lace' opens at Pioneer Playhouse

One of the fastest and craziest comedies of the American stage, "Arsenic and Old Lace," Joseph Kesselring's farce of wholesale manslaughter and merriment has opened at the Pioneer Playhouse at Danville, for a three week run.

The comedy tells the story of Abby and Martha Brewster, undoubtedly the two nicest little old ladies anybody could hope to meet. Their old brownstone house in Brooklyn witnesses a constant stream of good deeds by the two sisters. It would seem that Abby and Martha are Whistler's "Mother" come to life. In every way except one, that is. For it seems that Abby and Martha have one rather bad habit—one secret vice in lives which are otherwise blameless. They murder men. Abby claims they've done in 12; Martha is of the opinion that they've only really murdered 11—one having died a natural death. He was an old man, and he looked so peaceful when he died, that the Brewster sisters decided it would be very nice if, in addition to their other good deeds, they could bring peace and happiness to other old men.

Reservations can be made by contacting Pioneer Playhouse, Danville, Ky.

NEXT WEEK'S HOROSCOPE
By Clay R. Pollan
Note planetary ruler of your birth symbol
FOR WEEK BEGINNING MONDAY, JULY 14, 1975

★ If your birthday occurs this week . . .
. . . you seize opportunity with energy, dash, enthusiasm and courage. You are prone to take long-shot chances and play your cards wide open. You have unusual leadership and executive traits. People like to work for you and are eager to do your detail work. You can form a successful new alliance now.

♈ Aries Mar. 21 - Apr. 19 Pluto ♇
Aspects show the commencement of an excellent money trend. Investments made now will prosper beyond expectations. One you care for will make a gesture of reconciliation. Your popularity is on the upswing and you discover new friends, also a formerly enemy actually learn by teaching.

♉ Taurus Apr. 20 - May 20 Venus ♀
Your reputation for making sound decisions is enhanced. You may be asked to exert heavy authority, which is new to you. You will not hesitate to make firm decisions. Your earned income may show worthwhile improvement. Cash from collections may be delayed. You improve your security position.

♊ Gemini May 21 - June 20 Mercury ☿
Powerful moon signs show in your horoscope. They create new heart interests and strange emotions. Cupid's arrow could strike the mark. Love will have its way, regardless. Your romantic life will go with a swing if you act on impulse rather than plan. A casual meeting holds romantic possibilities.

♋ Cancer June 21 - July 22 Moon ☾
Life will take on a more lively and amusing note. The people around you draw you into many exciting and interesting activities. You should enjoy yourself immensely. Mixing business with pleasure is frowned on. Avoid anything emotionally disturbing. See that your special skills are put to proper use.

♌ Leo July 23 - Aug. 22 Sun ☉
So far as your work and business interests are concerned, it may be possible now to negotiate a new contract or effect new understandings. People are receptive now, so press your good luck. You now feel capable of getting things done; therefore, concentrate on unfinished business. Study a new language.
