Kay's Kitchen

— By Kay Fisher —

Chicken this week. It is still one of the best buys.

If one frying size chicken, in itself, is not enough to feed your family, combine it with other ingredients into a casserole. It will not only stretch your budget, but most casseroles can be made ahead of time, refrigerated then heated, thus giving you time to work later in the yard or whatever.

I have found cooking a 2½ lb. fryer in a small covered roaster, in the oven, more tasty than boiling. Just put the chicken in the roaster, salt and pepper inside and out—cover and bake 325 degrees about one hour or until it collapses and meat will fall off the bones. A chicken this size will make about two cups cut up. Save the drippings.

Here are some recipes using cooked chicken.

CHICKEN NEWBURG

¼ cup margarine
2 cups cooked diced chicken (not too small pieces)
4 tablespoons sherry
1½ cups light cream
4 egg yolks
¾ cup drained canned seedless grapes (available at most grocery stores)
¼ cup flaked coconut, optional seasoned salt
pepper
hot toast, rice or patty shells
paprika

Heat margarine, chicken, 2 tablespoons sherry and the cream in top part of double boiler over simmering water. Beat remaining 2 tablespoons sherry with egg yolks. Add small amount of hot mixture, then add all to double boiler and cook, stirring until thickened. Add grapes and coconut and season to taste. Serve on toast, rice or in patty shells. Sprinkle with paprika. This is nice to serve from a chafing dish, especially if you use the patty shells. Good also served on crisp hot biscuits.

CHICKEN PILAF

2 cups cooked chicken, cut in large pieces
⅓ cup margarine
½ cup toasted almonds (you may use broken pecans or sliced water chestnuts)
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 cups uncooked rice
4 cups boiling chicken bouillon. Use the drippings from cooking the chicken to help make the 4 cups of chicken bouillon.
2 medium tomatoes, peeled, seeded and chopped, optional—it does add a bit of color. You can use slivers of pimento.

Heat chicken in butter over low heat. Add nuts and cook about 2 minutes. Add onion, salt and pepper. Add rice and cook 5 minutes stirring. Pour in boiling bouillon, add tomatoes, if using them, bring to boil, cover and simmer 20 to 30 minutes or until rice is tender and liquid absorbed. Remove from heat and let stand 5 minutes before serving.

Serve with a good mixed green salad. One using fresh tender spinach is especially good.

CHICKEN RICE CASSEROLE

1 cup uncooked long-grain rice
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup margarine, melted
2¼ cups chicken broth (use left over drippings from baking plus enough chicken bouillon to make the 2¼ cups. Remember 1 chicken bouillon cube to 1 cup boiling water.
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup diced celery
2 cups cut up cooked chicken
1 (3 ounce) can sliced mushrooms, drained
grated cheddar cheese

In heavy skillet brown rice and onion in margarine over medium heat, stirring occasionally. Add chicken broth; cover and cook 10 minutes. Add green pepper and celery, cover and cook 10 to 15 minutes longer or until rice is tender, stirring occasionally. Add chicken and sliced mushrooms, mixing well. Transfer to 1½ quart casserole. Bake, covered, in 350 degree oven until heated through. Remove cover and sprinkle top with the cheese. Return to oven until cheese begins to melt.

If casserole is made ahead of time it will take longer to heat through, so don't forget to allow the extra time.

VIRGINIA MOORE'S BAKED CHICKEN SANDWICH

Cook together ½ cup flour, 1 can mushroom soup, ¾ cup milk until real thick. Add 2 cups chopped chicken and pimento.

Saute onion, green pepper, celery. Add to chicken mix.

Put between rounds of bread. Freeze. Dip in 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon milk, salt and pepper. Roll in potato chips. Freeze again.

When ready to cook sprinkle over the top almonds browned in ¼ stick of butter. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Serves 6.

To make sandwiches for 12: Cook ½ cup flour with 2 cans mushroom soup and 1½ cups milk until thick. Add 4 cups chopped chicken and pimento. Saute onion, celery, green pepper. Add to chicken mix.

Spread between rounds of bread. Freeze. Dip in 6 eggs, 2 teaspoons milk, salt and pepper. Roll in potato chips and freeze.

When time to cook sprinkle over top almonds browned in ½ stick of butter. Bake 40 minutes at 350 degrees.
