Bill Clark tags a base hit in Nicholas County's romp of Mt. Olivet Deming on Thursday by an overwhelming margin.

Jackets whollop Deming, 19-1

by Jimmy Smith
From the outset of the game it was apparent that Nicholas County was not going to have much trouble in doing away with the Devils of Mt. Olivet Deming. The Nicholas County squad reeled off 11 runs in that first inning, with Deming going through three pitchers before finally retiring the side in that week's game.

Kentucky reflections

by George Street Boone
The Declaration of Independence states that governments "derive their just powers from the consent of the governed." But to give that consent and know where their government intends to lead them, the citizen must be informed.

Journalism bears a heavy responsibility to explain the role of a free press, a responsibility which it has not always effectively discharged. Since 1970, the number of newspapers printed each day in the United States has been fewer than the number of households and the gap has been increasing. Since World War II, the number of dailies has increased slightly, while the number with circulation in excess of 50,000 has decreased from 109 to 205.

An extensive survey of public attitudes conducted by Louis Harris for two federal legislative committees late in November, 1974, found, surprisingly, that the standing of the press had improved marginally since 1966, while that of television news had increased substantially. Confidence in people naming other key institutions such as medicine, higher education, the military, and major companies, had uniformly declined during the same period.

This study was reported prior to the impeachment proceeding which many observers have felt brought additional credibility to the media. Howard H. Hays, Jr., outgoing president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, came in on it, nevertheless, in his annual report in April, that he thought we were witnessing a disturbing decline in literacy in this country; a spreading acceptance of semi-literacy as quite sufficient. As he observed, papers cannot be sold to people who cannot read. This erosion of literacy can go only so far, said Mr. Hays, without endangering popular government.

While radio and television news reporting has shown marked improvement, their transitory nature and the brevity of regular news broadcasts do not permit them to qualify as adequate substitutes for the newspaper. Commonly the content of a quarter hour with Deming going through three pitchers before finally retiring the side in that week's game. That first inning began with base straight gifts by Deming, a three-run homer by Mark Mattox, and a walk to Joe Ruddlel provided scores. Then Joe Ruddlel pounced on a Deming fast ball and tagged a single for another run. Billy Durrell then pounced on another Jacker score. Darrell Liville pounced a two-run homer over the left-center field fence to end the scoring for Nicholas County in that inning.

After retiring the Devils one, two, three Nicholas County came back for a try at increasing their already mountainous margin. Mark Mattox started things off with a double, then a run when he came in with a double, then error. Later on in the inning, Billy Durrell smacked a long base hit for two more runs batted in, and the Jackets led the Deming team, 14-1. The game continued on the same pace, with Joe Ruddlel, Hugh Wilson, and Gary Grey providing key plays for Nicholas County until the Jackets finally retired the Devils, 19-1.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has made and filed their Final Settlement with the Judge of the Nicholas County Court and that the same will be confirmed as a matter of law unless formal exceptions are filed thereto.

THE SKY-HIGH COSTS OF A CLEAN ENVIRONMENT

$82 Million to meet governmental standards
Providing electricity for you while maintaining a clean environment is an expensive combination. We have already spent nearly $14 million to meet air and water quality standards. We will spend an additional $11 million in 1975. By 1979 the total will reach $82 million.

These millions of dollars are being invested in cooling towers, electrostatic precipitators and sulphur removal equipment at our power plants. All of this equipment is required by today's strict governmental standards for electric generating stations. Old stations as well as new stations.

A clean environment and ample, dependable electricity are essential to our service area. We're trying to comply with environmental regulations. But regulations that force installation of unproved equipment, or are unnecessarily stringent without benefits that justify the cost unduly affect your electric service costs. Remember, clean air and water have a price tag.

Electricity... use it wisely.
