Eldon Webb appointed Assistant U.S. Attorney

Eugene E. Siler Jr., United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky has announced that Eldon L. Webb, 49, of 2416 Forest Avenue, Ashland, was appointed as Assistant United States Attorney and took his oath of office in open court at Lexington before Chief Judge Bernard T. Moynahan Jr. on Nov. 17, 1975.

Siler said, "We are certainly pleased to have a person with the experience and ability of Eldon Webb to join us. He will add a great deal of depth to our staff and will be assigned to try some of our most complicated cases."

Webb formerly served for 3½ years as an Assistant U.S. Attorney, from 1971-1975 and was appointed as a Special Prosecutor by the Justice Department in 1975. He also served as Master Commissioner and Assistant Commonwealth Attorney for Boyd county in the past.

A native of Greenup county, Webb holds undergraduate and law degrees from the University of Virginia. He also served in the United States Navy for two years during World War II. He is married to the former Linda Lazelle and is the father of one daughter, Linda Lazelle, a schoolteacher in Charlottesville, Va., John, a student at Georgetown College, and Eldon Leroy, Jr., a student at Western Kentucky University.

BOATING: MANY MAGAZINES AND BOOKS AVAILABLE

As the popularity of boating has increased so has the number of publications devoted to the subject. It would be difficult to list all of the magazines and books now available.

The following list contains what I believe are the better publications, their cost, how you may obtain them and a brief description of their contents.

MAGAZINES

"Boating", Box 2773, Boulder, Col. 80302, $9.00 per year. Billed as the world's largest circulation boating magazine, "Boating" is best described as a "how to" magazine. The editors put special emphasis on articles that give the reader ideas and instructions for all kinds of boating projects. Test reports are made on new boats and engines.

"Motor Boating and Sailing", Box 544, New York, N.Y. 10019, $10.00 per year. Considered by many as the magazine for boatmen, "Motor Boating and Sailing" deals mostly with yachts. Although all forms of boating are covered, the emphasis is on the larger craft. If you own a yacht or dream or owning one, you will enjoy the exciting pages of this publication.

"Rudder", Rudder Subscription Department, Fawcett Building, Greenwich, Conn. 06830, $8.00 per year. Fresh and saltwater boating is featured. Regular articles include inboards, outboards, sailing, racing, maintenance and special features. They also feature boat and engine tests.

"Trailer Boats", Box 6687, Burbank, Calif. 91510, $7.00 per year. This is one of my favorite boating magazines because it relates to the type of boating I do. The articles in the November issue will give you an idea of its monthly content: The 1976 Outboards, Your Towing Vehicle, Mercury's New Jet Engine, and How to Make Your Own Fiberglass Repairs.

"Family Houseboating", 23945 Craftsman Rd., Calabasas, Calif. 91302, $4.00 per year. Devoted exclusively to houseboats, this magazine is a must for houseboat or prospective houseboat owners. The advertisements alone are helpful if you are considering a purchase. Kentucky is generally regarded as having the largest population of houseboats per capita in the United States. Therefore, many of this magazine's articles are devoted to houseboating on Kentucky waters and to the houseboat manufacturers in the state.

You can buy books today that cover anything you might want to know about boating. From "Celestial Navigation" to "Offshore Racing", from "Basic Sailing" to "Ocean Voyaging".

However, one book stands out from all the rest and is widely acclaimed as the bible for boaters—"Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling" by Charles F. Chapman, which is simply referred to as "Chapman's". Now in its 54th edition, "Chapman's" is used as a reference for the U.S. Power Squadrons, the Coast Guard Auxiliary and the Army, Navy and U.S. Coast Guard.

A large book (8½x11½ inches with 670 pages), "Chapman's" covers everything a small boat owner should know. Its chapters include: Nautical Terms, Boating Laws, Equipment, Rules of the Road, Anchoring, Boat Handling, Seamanship, Safety, Weather, Navigation, Nautical Charts, Electronics, Outboard Seamanship, Boat Management, and Tides and Current.

Although sometimes dealing with highly technical subjects, it is written in a clear, easy to understand manner.

The price is $10.00. It is available at most book stores or may be ordered from Motor Boating and Sailing Books, Box 2319, F.D.R. Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Kentucky reflections

Elkton

by George Street Boone

This past week has vouchsafed faith in the democratic process from a surprising source whilst government institutions such as the C.I.A. and F.B.I. and erstwhile venerables such as J. Edgar Hoover have been undergoing scrutiny by the Senate Intelligence Committee.

Eldridge Cleaver, the black militant who fled the country seven years ago while on $50,000 bail, has returned voluntarily from Paris to face those charges. The one-time Black Panther, in a letter to the "New York Times" said, "With all its faults, the American political system is the freest and most democratic in the world. The system needs to be improved, with democracy spread to all areas of life, particularly the economic."

In 1968, the year in which he escaped to Cuba, Cleaver published a remarkable book entitled "Soul on Ice," an eloquent and powerful autobiography of this extraordinary black man born in 1935 in Little Rock, Ark. It is interesting to recall the political climate that existed in Kentucky and elsewhere when he fled the country.

In the summer before Cleaver's flight, authorities in Pikeville, Ky., had undertaken a prosecution of poverty workers Allan and Margaret McSurely, charging them with sedition against the State of Kentucky, because of their attempts to organize the poor people of Appalachia and to persuade them to demand their rights as citizens. The McSurelys were jailed and their books and private papers confiscated.

While a federal court later held unconstitutional the state sedition statute under which they were charged, a U.S. Senate Subcommittee under the chairmanship of Senator McClellan immediately subpoenaed most of the documents the state authorities had seized at the time of their arrest. Kentucky was then in the process of selecting a Republican Governor and Ronald Reagan was already Governor of California.

Currently the profound and general revulsion of the public and the legislators to the disclosures of the harrassment of Dr. Martin Luther King by the F.B.I. and of the assasinations attempted by the C.I.A. is reassuring. It is good to know that we and our elected representatives have the strength to hear such facts and to learn from them. It may be noted that the harassment and the plots the Committee has uncovered were not the direct work of elected officials. The immediate perpetrators in each instance appear to have been steps removed from the elective process.

In an interview on his return, Cleaver says he has made no deal with authorities, but he believes he can now be fairly tried.

The conclusion of Cleaver's letter published Nov. 18 states "Each generation subjects the world it inherits to severe criticism. I think that my generation has been more critical than most and for good reason. At the same time, at the end of the critical process we should arrive at some conclusions. We should have discovered which values are worth conserving."

Does the debacle of Watergate open up a creative era for American democracy as he suggests?

Who would have expected that amidst the shattering of institutions a man such as Cleaver would give expression to so affirmative an appraisal of our system.

It is ironic that faith of this sort should be produced and refined in the holocausts of the past decade.

"A friend is one who knows all about you but loves you just the same."
