Meat for Christmas is theme of statewide promotion

The theme of statewide promotion is "Meat for Christmas" and is being promoted by the Kentucky Farm Bureau officials. A few probably do, but everyone who produces meat animals, Wade said. "There's no better way to promote consumption of your meat than to buy meat for the people on your Christmas shopping list."

"So get your wife tuned in to the new places to do your Christmas shopping—the grocery store. You can be your own best customer."

According to Wade, the meat gift program has one main goal—to get people to eat more meat. He noted that although higher pork

Kentucky's Teacher of the Year is Paula H. Morgan, who teaches first grade at Rich Pond Elementary School in Bowling Green. Mrs. Morgan, who is now the state nominee for the national Teacher of the Year, was chosen by a representative committee from the state's educational community. She was chosen for her innovative techniques and her exceptional rapport with children.

Thanksgiving 1975

Dear Friends and Customers,

Somewhere between the football games and the feasting, we all need to take time to consider how really fortunate we are.

We at Hopkins Drug for the result of profound sense of gratitude and consideration you have extended us through the year.

No one is more aware than we that consideration must work in both directions, and we try very hard to maintain our end of the obligation. Only in this way can we express, in deed as well as words, our appreciation to you and our respect for the mutual trust we share.

May this Thanksgiving be a happy one for you, your family and friends and may the coming year be bountiful and satisfying.

Sincerely,
Dan and David
