Kentucky reflections

By George Street
You might be interested to know that the Kentucky Constitution is being amended to allow the undersigned to appear on the ballot on Nov. 4. While the Judicial Committee has engaged in considerable discussion and has both its strong supporters and its detractors, little has been reported on the proposal to broaden the franchise of elderly people. The Kentucky Constitution permits only two amendments to appear on the ballot each second year. Each amendment can relate to but one subject and no detailed document as ours there is frequently vigorous competition within the legislative chambers to make the scene despite the small proportion of proposed amendments which are approved.

The amendment No. 2 this year is limited in scope as to provide a small proportion of proposed amendments which are approved. The amendment No. 2 this year is limited in scope as to provide a small proportion of proposed amendments which are approved.

WHO WAS THAT LADY?
In 1974, a young woman had completed her legal training and was ready to practice law. However, the state of Illinois prohibited the admission of women to the bar. She appealed the ruling, but the court denied her appeal. She then moved to Chicago, Ill., where she found the first legal newspaper in the West, The Chicago Law News. She then drafted the law which gave women the right to legal possession of their own earnings. This law was finally passed by the Illinois state legislature. The woman, also known for her articulate support of women's suffrage, was Myra Bradwell.

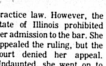

DEAR DEBBIE:
I have been happily married for 23 years, but in the past few months I have become very lonely in my office. It is half my mind that I should tell him I love him more than I can say. I am a very young man and he is a very old man. I have been happily married for 23 years, but in the past few months I have become very lonely in my office.

DEAR POOR:
Not unless you're also fed up with your job. Either try to be extra professional or, if you don't like your job, try to get out of it. I'm not sure if you're a careerist or not, but I'm sure you're a hard worker.

DEAR DEBBIE:
My ex-best friend is a dreamer. He has been her a lot of payments to me. I have a big argument with her. I have called her repeatedly and said I will be back to her. I have called her repeatedly and said I will be back to her.
