$37,500 and the others will receive a salary of $37,000. The salary of circuit judges will be $35,000.

The lowest tier of the court system, district judges, will become effective Jan. 1, 1978 under the amendment, but enabling legislation will be passed by a special session of the General Assembly Gov. Julian Carroll will call between Thanksgiving and Christmas. Their salaries have not been established but are expected to be around $30,000, or could be $32,500 if the spread between the other court salaries is maintained.

Candidates for the district judgeships will run in a primary in May, 1977 and the two getting the most votes in each district on the non-partisan ballot will run in November.

A spokesman for Gov. Carroll said he has not indicated when he will appoint his four members to the Court of Appeals nominating committee, but speculation here is that he may wait until after the May presidential primary.

There is only one definite item established in the call for the special legislative session and that is the district court system. However, the governor has said he may include no-fault insurance and the Jefferson county sewage bond issue. The two latter subjects are dependent upon recommendations from studies now being made.
