By Kay Fisher

Here are some last minute party snacks.

OLIVE-CHEESE TIDBITS
1 stick of butter
1 1/2 cups sauce of English Cheddar cheese
1/4 cup flour
dash of salt

Mix butter, flour, cheese and salt together with fingers until a dough, pinch off small ball and wrap around olive. Seal well. Place on cookie sheet and cook overnight. Bake at 400 degrees about 15 minutes until lightly brown.

QUICHE LORRAINE
(Provenance Keesh)
This is wonderful for a main course or use it for a cocktail party. Cook in tiny wedges.
1 pinch unshakd pie shell
4 eggs
1/2 cup grated cheese (Swiss or Gruyere)
2 medium onion, minced
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup cream (You can use 1 pint carton of Half and Half)
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Cook bacon until crisp. Remove from pan, add onion, cook 5 minutes, add butter and remove onion. Crumble crisp bacon on bottom of pie shell; sprinkle onion and about 1/4 of grated cheese in pie shell. (Here you might like to sprinkle lightly with Parmesan cheese.)
Combine rest of cheese, eggs, cream, seasonings and mix well. Pour into pie shell. Bake at 425 degrees about 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 325 to 350 degrees and cook 15 more minutes or until custard is set and knife inserted comes out clean.

Official bicentennial medal available

The official national Bicentennial medal commemorating the nation's 200th anniversary will be available to the public starting Jan. 1. It will be on sale until the end of July.

The announcement was made by John W. Warner, Administrator of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA), and Mrs. Mary Brooks, Director of the U.S. Mint.

The medal, featuring the Statue of Liberty on one side and the Great Seal of the United States on the other, is being minted in seven combinations of metals to acquire a permanent commemorative of America's celebration of its 200th anniversary.

Gold versions of the medal are the first gold medals in the history of the United States to be specifically authorized by Congress for sale to the public, according to Mrs. Warner.

Warner explained: "These medals are the major official commemorative of our Bicentennial. They are handsome keepsakes for all citizens who wish to remember our Bicentennial."

Revenue from the sales of the medals will be used to support national, state and community Bicentennial activities.

The medal will also be available in plastic, gold plated and sterling silver. Prices range from $5 to $4,000.

The five-gram gold medal is priced at $4,000. The gold is 999 fine, comes from U.S. Treasury reserves, and will be individually numbered and only made to order.

Smaller gold medals are the 1/16-ounce, $200 and the 1/8-ounce medal at $100. The smallest gold medal was specifically designed to be easily incorporated into jewelry.

The other medals include a 3-inch sterling silver, selling for $100; a 1 1/2-inch sterling silver at $25; and the 1 1/4-inch gold plated bronze at $15; and the 1 1/4-inch bronze at $5.

Perkins urges that tobacco imports be prohibited

Congressman Carl D. Perkins has urged the Secretary of Agriculture to recommend that tobacco imports be cut off as fast as the Government can do it.

He urged Secretary Butts to cut imports because a cut in imports should mean an increase in burley tobacco prices. Congressman Perkins called the currently low prices "a disaster for the farmer, and for our farm communities."

In a letter co-signed by Congressman Charles Rose, who represents a flue burley tobacco area, Perkins said that burley tobacco prices were so low, and sinking to such a low level, that entire communities which rely on agriculture for their basic economic vitality are extremely worried.

Congressman Perkins made a strong fight which succeeded in legislation that had the effect of raising the support price to about $1.06 a pound, but the bill was vetoed by President Ford during 1975.

If the bill had not been vetoed, prices would be at least 10 cents a pound higher, Congressman Perkins said. That would still not be enough, but at least it would have been closer to what farmers need, he said.

The letter to Butts stated: "We know that you are aware of the depressed prices for burley tobacco in Kentucky, but we have been keeping up with this on a day-to-day basis, and you need to know that the situation is getting worse by the hour."

Prices are so low, and sinking to such a low level, that entire communities which rely on agriculture for their basic economic vitality are extremely worried. Apparently, the buyers did not react as might have been expected after you publicly disclosed possible quota cuts next year. Nor has there been visible market reaction to the introduction of legislation which would allow cuts above the present legal limit of five percent annually.

So something just must be done, or entire communities, as well as the farms around those communities, will be set back disastrously.

We would like to suggest that you ask the President to immediately implement the authority now in the law to cut down on imports. Although imports are not large when compared to the total crop grown, they have been rising at an unbelievable rate. And while farmers are going broke because good burley is not bringing a fair price, the industry is being flooded with scraps from overseas.

The percentage increase between January and September of this year, compared to the same period last year, was 145 percent, and the pounds involved—33.9 million—about equal the sharp drop in purchases of American grown tobacco. Meanwhile, import duties on this imported tobacco are the lowest anywhere, while a pound of our tobacco costs a British importer a tariff of $18 a pound.

It is not just the farmers who are being destroyed by this imported tobacco which sells at 40 and 50 cents a pound. It is entire farm communities. That is why it is imperative for you to utilize the Limitations on Imports section of the Agriculture legislation now on the books, and request the President to restrict tobacco imports.

The language of the section in plain and simple. There is no doubt in our minds that it describes the situation facing tobacco communities.

From previous discussions with you, and from statements you have made, we understand that you feel tobacco could be grown more efficiently if confined to fewer and much larger farms, but we would like to point out that tobacco is different from most other crops, and it is closely linked to family style farming.

It is also closely linked to strong communities, and if tobacco production were to be limited to a few large farms, those communities would fold up. If one farmer is to raise a thousand acres of tobacco, it means that one pair of shoes would be sold to that farmer when he replaces his plow horse. If a thousand farmers each raise one acre of tobacco, it means that a thousand pair of plow boots would be sold to a thousand farmers with subsequent general commercial growth of the community.
