Sensing the news

language is the result of thousands of years of growth in communication. Intelligently used, the language enables people to communicate noble and subtle ideas and relationships. But we are getting away from that marvelous instrument of communication. We are getting away from the moral sensitivity associated with the precise definition of words and form derived from them.

My academic friend pointed out that both Nazi Germany and Communist Russia deliberately degraded their respective people's language. Hitler, he said, knew that the complex forms of speech and verbal deceptions were barriers to totalitarianism. Stalin knew the same thing, and substituted a debased Soviet speech for the higher forms of Russian.

Today, in the United States, the film-makers seem to be attempting to brutalize Americans, to make them accept every relationship on the lowest terms. The Penthouse-type publications are engaged in the same degradation of language and dehumanizing of people.

Decent speech is not a Victorian hangup. It is an effort by a society to prevent men and women in society from viewing themselves solely in animalistic terms. Filthy speech leads to filthy views of humanity. It is a short step from acceptance of brutal speech to participation in brutal treatment of human beings. The violence of Nazi language was directly related to the violence of the concentration camp and crematorium. It is time that Americans arrest the process of brutalization of language which already is so far advanced.

USDA announces $175 million 1976 agricultural conservation program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced a $175 million 1976 Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) designed to encourage the application of enduring soil and water conservation practices on the nation's farms. The objective is to obtain needed conservation on farmlands beyond that which the farmer would accomplish with his own resources.

The 1976 ACP will share with farmers a percent of the total cost for carrying out an approved soil, water, or woodland conservation practice. (The cost shared is usually around 50 percent.) The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) is the agency responsible for administering the program, which is done through the local farmer-elected county committee.

The 1976 ACP will be very similar to the program administered during 1975, which included both annual and long-term contracts. Eligible practices will be those eligible for the 1975 ACP. The general policies and regulations applicable for the 1975 program will also be required in administering the 1976 program.

Program details will be available soon from the local county ASCS office. All ASCS programs are administered without regard to race, color, sex, or national origin.
