

"I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

—Pledge of Allegiance

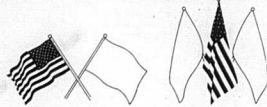

When pennants or flags of states or cities are flown on the same halyard with the U.S. flag, the latter should always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs, the Stars and Stripes should be hoisted first and lowered last.

When flown at half-mast, the flag should be hoisted to the top for an instant, then lowered to the half-mast position, in lowering the flag from half-mast, hoist it briskly to the peak, then lower it slowly.

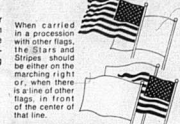

When the flag is displayed over the street, the flag should be suspended vertically with the union to the north on an east and west street and to the east on a north and south street.

When the flag is displayed with other flags from crossed staves, the U.S. flag should be on the right (to the right with its staff in front of the other staff).

When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting at any angle from the front of a building, the union should go to the peak of the staff unless displayed at half-mast.

When carried in a procession with other flags, the Stars and Stripes should be either on the marching right or, when there is a line of other flags, in front of the center of that line.

When the flag is not flown from a staff, it should be displayed horizontally or vertically, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's right (the observer's left).

Great American Happenings

From a Great America

by permission of THE BETTMANN ARCHIVE

Great American Happenings

From a Great America

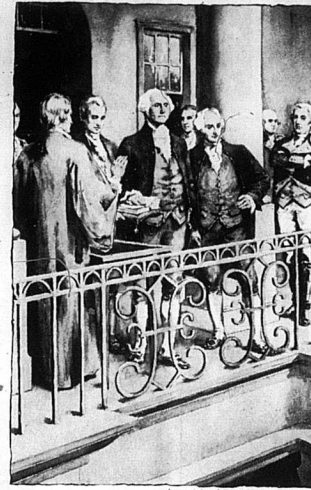

by permission of THE BETTMANN ARCHIVE

1775: The long ride into battle.

We can no longer take the quartering of British troops. We can no longer reason with the rulers. We've stashed our supplies in Concord and are preparing for war. Now, we learn the British are on their way to destroy our supply base. It's the night of April 18th. We send Paul Revere and William Dawes on a gallop toward Lexington to warn our farmers to form ranks. We meet the British early the next morning on the village green. We are ordered to disperse. There are only dozens of us, but we refuse. A shot is fired. Then, a volley that kills eight of our men and wounds ten. We will not give up. We will fight from behind stone walls and apple trees to save our ammunition. From now on we will be ready to fight at a minute's notice. We are the Minute Men. ☐

Great American Happenings

From a Great America

by permission of THE BETTMANN ARCHIVE

1789: Time to man to lead America. It's one pull together. One government, not thirteen. Our Constitution has been approved. Our capital is New York City. Our Electors have unanimously decided. The one man worthy of the job of leading this new nation is George Washington. He has fears. He has humility. He writes, "I walk on untrodden ground." But he also has our gratitude, our trust and our faith. We give him a triumphant journey from Mount Vernon to the capital. Arches, cheers, songs, streets strewn with flowers. Still, he trembles as he stands on the balcony of Federal Hall on the 30th of April. He takes the first oath of office and adds his own words: "I swear, so help me God." Come celebrate America with us. ☐

America: Past, Present
And Future. Here's
To Our Next 200!

Our Bicentennial. It means more to Americans than just a celebration. It serves as a stepping stone to the future. It's a door leading to bigger and better achievements.

It's an opportunity for all of us to look back at our great historical struggle for Democracy. To look at the present and see how much has been accomplished in only 200 years.

And, perhaps most important, it enables us to see that the future of America now lies in OUR hands. And all of us, as Americans, have the knowledge and foresight to make the next 200 years even better than the first. Happy birthday America!

The Deposit Bank
"Our Second Century of Service"

1780: The words "found" found the world. We've already announced our independence. On July 2nd, our Continental Congress adopted a resolution that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States. That announcement, says John Adams, will make July 2nd the most memorable day in our history. But it's not until two days later that we officially explain the reasons for our independence in the July 4th Declaration of Independence. Never before has a nation actually written down reasons why it became a separate state. Our words stir the world. And even inspire other peoples to defend their rights against tyrannical leaders.

Masters At Their Trade
We have acquired much skill from yesterday's craftsmen...and you'll find that quality alive in the things we sell.
Sims' Jewelry

A great beginning 200 years ago

Harrison RECC

Hunt's Ashland Service Station

It's Our Birthday I'm ANNOUNCING Allison's Grocery & Antique Maysville Road

Let's Celebrate America's 200th Birthday
Evan's Big Tee Burger

America, We Pledge to Thee
Randolph's Ready-Mix Concrete

HAPPY BIRTHDAY 1776-1976
May this only be the beginning
Woody's Auto Repair & Body Shop

HAPPY BIRTHDAY 1776-1976
Eastern Ky. Production Credit Corp

HAPPY BIRTHDAY 1776-1976
Let Freedom Ring
Joe Crouch Insurance

Let's ring in the next 200!
Carlisle Manufacturing Co.

The Grand Union Flag... also known as the Continental Colors, it was the first national flag of the U.S. from 1775 to 1777. Its design is that of the British red ensign with 6 stripes added.
Home Hardware

Happy Birthday America
Dee Jay Auto Parts