begin nightly at 8:30, was first produced in 1974 for the Kentucky Bicentennial celebration at the park's amphitheater. Written and directed by Martin Waggoner, who is now director of the park.

ation climaxes a two-year-long celebration of observances honoring Kentucky's settlement in 1774 and the nation's Bicentennial.

Blue Licks is staging a four-day Bicentennial Celebration Aug. 19-22, with an arts and crafts show, bluegrass music by Fiddlin' Dick and The McIntyre Brothers, and traveling U.S. Bicentennial exhibits that include a replica of the Liberty Bell.

The parade will feature floats, costume participants and horse-drawn wagons, and a formal wreath-laying ceremony is planned at the stone monument which marks the mass grave of those killed in the Battle of Blue Licks. The Buffalo Trace American Heritage Chorale will provide an evening program on the opening day.

A new sucker control chemical—FST—for use on burdock and dark tobacco, has been registered in Kentucky, according to W.D. Atkinson, of the agronomy department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The chemical is a mixture of fatty alcohol and maleic hydrazide.

"It has the properties of both a contact and systemic herbicide and is applied as a semi-course spray over the top of plants in the same way that a contact chemical is used," he said, adding that one application is all that is necessary, using nine quarts per acre in 40 to 50 gallons of water on plants topped at early to mid-fower blooming stage.

Atkinson said FST-7 has been used in tests at the University of Kentucky on both burley and dark tobacco in 1974 and 1975. "Excellent sucker control was obtained both years and the plants were not damaged," he said. He estimated that growers using the chemical should follow the guidelines on the label.

His suggestion for growers who use FST-7 this year is to treat only a portion of their tobacco crop with the new chemical and to make comparisons with the sucker control treatment they normally use.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced the 1976 crop loan program for tobacco.

The 1976 crop loan levels are about 13.7 percent higher than 1975 crop levels. As required by the Agricultural Act of 1949, the higher loan levels reflect increases in the index of prices paid by farmers, including wage rates, interest and taxes.

Following are the 1976 crop loan rates and the comparable 1975 rates:

Kind of Tobacco, Flue-cured, types 11-14; 1976 Crop, 93.2 (cents per pound); 1975 Crop, 106.9; Burley, type 31, 86.1, 109.3; Virginia flue-cured, type 21, 85.2, 74.1; Kentucky-Tennessee flue-cured, types 22, 82.4, 74.1; Dark air-cured, types 35-38, 58.0, 65.9; Virginia sun-cured, type 37, 58.0, 65.9; Cigar binder, types 41-42, 64.5, 73.6; Cigar filler and binder, types 42-44, 53-55, 48.0, 54.6; Puerto Rican, type 46, 48.3, 56.7.

As in the past, advances will be made to produce associations under contracts with Commodity Credit Corporation. To be eligible, producers will be required to certify that they have not used restricted pesticides (DDT, TDE, toxaphene and endrin) in their 1976 crop tobacco.

Which vegetable varieties perform best in Kentucky? What methods of vegetable disease control, cultivation and harvesting are most effective? Answers to these questions, as provided by research, will be featured at the 1976 Vegetable Field Day, sponsored by the University of Kentucky's Department of Horticulture on Friday, July 30.

Planned to give commercial vegetable growers first-hand information on recent vegetable research, the Field Day will be held at the UK College of Agriculture's South Farm, located off Nicholasville Road near the University. Registration begins at 9 a.m. (EDT), with tours starting at 10 a.m. and continuing throughout the day.

Faculty from the Departments of Horticulture, Plant Pathology, Entomology, Agriculture Engineering and Agronomy will be on hand to discuss vegetable research plots and demonstrate newly-developed methods and equipment.

The Horticulture Department has also scheduled a "Landscape and Home Garden Weekend" for Saturday, July 31, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Sunday, Aug. 1, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Although information to

New drug law effects pharmacies

FRANKFORT, Ky.—All pharmacies in Kentucky are now required, by act of the 1976 legislature, to post a sign at their prescription counters notifying consumers of a new law that could mean a substantial savings on the cost of prescription medications.

"This pharmacy is required to dispense the lowest priced generic drug which is therapeutically equivalent to the one prescribed by your doctor unless you or your doctor do not approve," reads the sign.

To insure that a buyer is not receiving an inferior quality product, the Department for Human Resources' Kentucky Drug Formulary Council has clearly defined the words "therapeutically equivalent."

Under the law, "Two or more drug products of the same dosage form containing the same active ingredients and which provide a similar beneficial therapeutic response" fit the definition.

A drug manufacturer or distributor must petition the Drug Formulary Council to get a generic drug on a list of equivalent products. There are currently 930 drug products listed by the Drug Formulary and affected by the new law. The council and its consultants evaluate any generic drug petitioned by their manufacturers to be included on the list as being therapeutically equivalent to others with the same active ingredients. Each pharmacist receives the list of equivalent drugs.

Certain families of drugs were excluded from the listing because it was determined by the council that those equivalents to be interchanged. Some medications for heart patients are among those excluded.

The council's consultants first check to see that this means to the consumer is that among the prescription drugs listed, there are some that are more expensive than others although they have the same active ingredients, and the drug is now required to give his patron the lowest priced of the various equivalents he has in stock. The only exception to this rule is when a consumer or his doctor object. The law allows a physician to choose a particular brand of a generic drug and mark a prescription "Do Not Substitute."
