

Kentucky reflections

Edkins
Do you wonder sometimes when education got off the bus?
Kentucky remains a rural state and the housing of our children has improved their educational opportunities immensely. My home county of Todd has had one central high school for nearly 46 years and the courses and facilities offered the students are conspicuously

Bluegrass has lowest state unemployment

FRANKFORT—The Bluegrass region continues to have the lowest unemployment in the state, showing a drop from 4.9 in March to 3.6 in April, according to figures supplied June 1 by the Department for Human Resources. The state rate for April is 5.9 per cent. This represents a drop of about 2.3 in the number of people unemployed in the Bluegrass region, boosting total employment to 228,564, said Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for the Department.
MacDonald attributed lower unemployment in the area to availability of seasonal agricultural, construction and service jobs.
Nicholas county figure for April was 3.3.

What to do in June State to provide summer meals

by Neryls Shackelford
UK College of Agriculture
On the farm, in the church, in the garden, and in Nature, June is a busy month. In Nature, bees are busy gathering and carrying home nectar and helping fertile flowers. Some other birds brood over clutches of eggs while others bustle about in search of food for young already hatched.

In the garden, wedding and cultivation commence in earnest, and there is much to be cut on the farm. In the church, young maidens are eagerly getting married and everywhere roses are blooming, poets are writing poems, and the overall scene is one of unmitigated activity.
Summer really gets down to business in June. During the month's long, "perfect" days the post season about plants and vegetables rush to maturity before the "letting down and drying up" season in the better months of July and August puts a damper on growth activities.

No other month, not even December, enjoys the popularity of June. In the opinion of the ancients, it was the best month in which to get married, especially during the periods when the moon was full. The beauty, freshness, and assurance of its flowers and its usually fine weather fit well in and for all its festivities and activities. If by chance there is a let up in wedding and hoeing in the garden, cutting hay, getting married, attending "in-fairs", and writing poems, June is a fine time to mow the grass. If moisture is favorable, cut the grass about two inches high. If dry weather prevails, raise the height to three inches.

It is also a fine time to rejuvenate the strawberry patch. Check with your county Extension agent if you do not already know the best way to do this. Also by mid-month, plant seeds of broccoli, cabbage, and cauliflower for fall transplants. Later in the month, spray peach tree trunks with Thiodan for peach tree borers. For best results, follow with other sprays in early August and September.
Like several of our other months, June was named by the Romans. Some ancient authorities insist that its name was taken from Juno, special genius of the female sex, great queen of the gods, and the patron saint of marriage, gods and cuckoo.

This seems reasonable enough, but other historians claim the name was derived from "juniores", because in early Roman times this month was specially dedicated to young men fated for matrimony.

By name and by nature, June is a pretty month as well as a busy one. It is a time when bees swarm, butterflies hover over milkweed blossoms, if by chance there is a let up in wedding and hoeing in the garden, cutting hay, getting married, attending "in-fairs", and writing poems, June is a
