POLITICS SUBJECT OF CLASS

NCHS students to vote Friday

(Editor's note: The following article was written by Miss Kathy Green's first hour social studies students.)

The Nicholas County High School is becoming very much involved in politics. For three weeks Kathy Green's first hour social studies class has been having debates, they have taken polls, made posters, and supported their candidate for this year's Presidential election.

The students in the first hour class have divided into Democrats and Republicans.

This week the student body is registering to vote in the school-wide election. On Friday, Oct. 29, the voting procedure will take place in the school gym. Ten precincts will be set up, and the students will vote in the precinct in which he resides.

At the Paris-Nicholas County ballgame on Friday, Oct. 8, a poll was taken to find out what people thought about politics in the school. Of 93 persons polled, 26 were against politics in the school, 64 were for it, and three were undecided about the matter.

Some of the persons against politics in the school said that they thought the students were too young to learn about politics. The people who were for it thought that it would teach students more about the government. One person replied, "Today's young people are our leaders of tomorrow, so they should know about the government."

Of 450 people polled at the Lewis County game on Oct. 15, 80 people were voting for Ford, 200 were voting for Carter, nine were for one of the other candidates, 43 were undecided about who they were voting for, and 12 persons said they were not voting.

Here are some of the students comments who are working on the project: Janet Linville: "I think that it's helping me learn more about politics."

Sue Sallee: "I think it is very beneficial. It's helping me to learn more about my government and the presidential candidates."

Carla Sexton: "I think it's very educational."

Chuck McDonald: "I think it would probably get the opinion of the county residents."

Donna Livingood: "I think the class has been fun and I have learned a lot about the people running."

Miss Green commented that "the students have really worked hard on this project. It was their idea to participate in this campaign. They have held debates and given up free time at ballgames and during their breaks." "I can really say I feel the students have learned from this experience," she said. "They have not only learned about politics and government but also how to work together as a group."

Morehead State University President Adron Doran announced recently that Buford Crager, dean of students since 1967, has been promoted to vice president for student affairs. The appointment will be submitted to the Board of Regents at its Nov. 19 meeting. Crager, 36, succeeds the late Roger L. Wilson who died Oct. 10. A native of Floyd county, he holds bachelor's and master's degrees from MSU and has additional graduate work at Miami University.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions – horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle then strike it off list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.
