Group seeks to operate L&N line

Kentucky Business Ledger
Staff Report

Most Kentucky businessmen see red when a railroad proposes to abandon financially-troubled lines.

But Boone Baldwin, a Lexington businessman and avowed train buff, sees opportunity in a proposal by the L&N to abandon a 56-mile stretch of track between Maysville and Paris.

Anticipating approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission on L&N's petition to abandon the line, Baldwin and 10 others in central Kentucky have formed their own company, The Bluegrass & Buffalo Trace Railroad Company, for the purpose of maintaining rail service to four Kentucky counties if and when L&N is allowed to abandon the line.

Wandaleen Poynter, an L&N attorney, said it will be at least 10 months before the abandonment proceedings can be concluded.

Until then, Baldwin and his associates are hoping for the best and making plans accordingly.

Financing for the ambitious project will come through the sale of 250,000 shares of stock.

Although no formal negotiations have been made with L&N officials, Baldwin said "friendly talks" have put the price tag on the line at around $1 million. Next will come the purchase of a locomotive and cars.

The line will be used as a common carrier, primarily for freight with the possibility of tourist service within a few years.

"Our dream is the day after L&N stops service, we begin ours," said Baldwin, acting president of Bluegrass & Buffalo Trace.

How does the group expect to succeed where L&N, losing about $50,000 a year for the last five years on the line, failed?

"L&N spent $60,000 last year for the salaries of a three-man crew," said Baldwin. "We plan to use a two-man crew most of the time for an annual salary of $7,000 to $8,000."

The primary goal of the new company is to keep alive the economic hopes of three of those four Kentucky counties—Mason, Fleming and Nicholas. Bourbon county has access to another L&N line and will not be as drastically affected by a cutoff in service.

"Those three counties are economically deprived right now. You take the railroad out and you're taking away any chance for industrial growth," Baldwin said.

Among the 11 principals in the new corporation are two with transportation degrees and two who have worked for a railroad. Baldwin said some of the 11 will work full-time, others part-time and some not at all for the new company.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions — horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle then strike it off list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

SAVE ON FOOD

Resolve to start the New Year right by following money-saving tips.

Buy fresh vegetables when they're in season. They are cheaper than frozen or canned.

Look for slightly overripe bananas; the price is generally lower. Find out when your store sells day-old bread and cakes at reduced prices. Sugared cereal costs more than unsweetened.

Regular grade canned foods are as nutritious as fancy grades, and a lot cheaper. Canned whole fruits and vegetables usually cost more than chunks or slices.

Buy meat according to the price per serving, not the price per pound. Lean, boneless meat gives four servings; meat with some bone and fat gives two servings; meat with a lot of bone and fat, one or two servings.

Combine nonfat milk and canned evaporated milk for cooking.

Use leftover vegetables for soups, salads and stews. Save the tops of vegetables (green onions, celery leaves) for the same purpose.

Save meat and poultry bones to make soups.

Use the liquid from cooked vegetables for soups.

Save orange and lemon peels, and sliver them to season meat dishes.

Save leftover baked goods to make a bread pudding.

Leftover pieces of cheese can be grated and used in casseroles.

Use leftover egg yolks to make mayonnaise and cream sauces.
