High Hope Steeplechase set for April 30 at Ky. Horse Park

Lexington — The 12th running of the High Hope Steeplechase meet has been scheduled for Sunday, April 30 at the Kentucky Horse Park on the Iron Works Pike near Lexington. Post time is 2:30 p.m.

The five-race card will attract horses, riders, and spectators from several states to the rolling bluegrass steeplechase course that is located in the southeastern section of the Kentucky Horse Park's 1,023 acres.

Sponsored by the Lexington Steeplechase Association, the High Hope Steeplechase benefits the University of Kentucky Children's Cancer Research Fund. Proceeds are used for the treatment and study of childhood cancer.

The facility was created through contributions and serves as a referral center for physicians throughout the eastern and central portions of Kentucky.

High Hope's 224,000 purse structure usually draws horses from Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Tennessee, Indiana, and Virginia, as well as Kentucky. For the spectator, the High Hope meeting provides the thrill and excitement of horse racing over timber and brush jumps and the opportunity for a leisurely day in the country, often beginning with a picnic lunch in the wooded infield. Railside parking is offered to camper vehicles and others wishing to "tailgate".

The first seven runnings of the High Hope race meeting were held on the High Hope Farm of the late Douglas M. Davis, a prominent owner and trainer of Thoroughbred race horses. The racing event was moved to the Kentucky Horse Park in 1974 following the sale of the Davis property. Because the name had become established for the annual spring steeplechase meet in the Lexington area, Davis was pleased to

KET to tape pilot series on taxes

The past controversial tax evaluation of Nicholas County has gained the attention of the Kentucky Educational Television network (KET) who "propose to tape in Nicholas County on Wednesday, April 26, at 8:30 a.m.", a KET pilot television series to be aired on the Kentucky NOW program.

The network stated they would interview persons whose property was surveyed in last year's "windshield survey" and would discuss the property taxpayer's unrest in Kentucky.

FHA's attend Annual State meet April 21

Twelve members of local chapters of Future Homemakers of America and their advisors attended their Annual State Meeting held at the Galt House in Louisville on April 21-22.

"Future Homemakers — Dare — Care — Prepare" was the theme of the 33rd annual meeting. Participating in the program from Nicholas County were: May Ann Harper, State Reporter; Margaret Duncan, Pam Bowles, Lisa Boykin, Charlene Bussell, Benita Dampier, Ethyl Edwards, Patricia Fair, Ronda Goodman, Tammy Hales, Kathy Lyons, and Elizabeth Stewart. Bonnie Metcalfe, Martha Taylor and Kathy Green, local advisers, and Miss Sherry Roe, student teacher also attended.

Tommy Bell, Lexington attorney, was the keynote speaker at the opening session on Friday afternoon. Mr. Bell spoke on "Do You Dare". He told the FHA'ers that involvement is essential for preparation for adulthood. The theme of the meeting was presented by the state officers and officer candidates were interviewed.

At the banquet Friday evening, five home economics teachers were recognized for serving as local advisers for ten years. Bonnie Metcalfe of Nicholas County received a Decade of Service Award. Thirteen scholarships were presented to outstanding FFA members who plan to major in home economics in a Kentucky college or university.
