History quiz

Who was the only Kentucky governor to serve two consecutive full terms? What Kentucky treasurer embezzled some $87,000 from the Commonwealth and fled the state never to be relocated?

These are two of the questions from a history quiz which will appear in the December issue of the Bulletin, the bimonthly publication of the Kentucky Historical Society. "New features are being added to appeal to history lovers of all ages," according to Dr. Jim Klitner, managing editor of the publication staff. "The answers to the questions are not as easy as they seem."

Isaac Shelby, John L. Helm, James S. McCreary and A. B. Chandler served two terms as governor, but not consecutively. J. C. W. Beckham filled the remainder of an unexpired term of Gov. William Goebel's term, then a full one of his own. But Kentucky's second governor, James Garrard, is the only governor who served two full consecutive terms, 1796-1804. After that, the Constitution of 1799 prohibited consecutive terms. "Honest Dick" Tate had been elected treasurer every two years since 1867 before he fled the state in 1868 with state funds. His last recorded location is in Florida.

Approximately 25 students from Nicholas County Elementary School participated in the Regional Special Olympians bowling tournament held recently in Frankfort. Ten local students won trophies, which were given for first, second and third place winners. Teachers accompanying the group were Mrs. Lottie O'Bannon, Sandra Durham and Dawn Lane. In addition several parents also helped chaperone the trip. — Mercury photo.

Along with history quizzes, the Bulletin also will feature photographs. Readers may submit old photographs which will be copied and returned. By accepting the Kentucky Historical Society's expanded the photograph collection, Klitner said.

Photographs or any material to be used in the Bulletin should be sent to Klitner, Kentucky Historical Society, One N. Franklin, KY 40302. Society membership dues are $10 per year and members receive the Bulletin. Publications with genealogical information.

Equal access for media urged

A legislative Interim Joint Committee on State Government has approved a resolution urging the State Fire Marshal and all other state agencies to permit print media access to photograph scenes of interest to the public when such privilege is accorded television media.

The Caring Corner

"The angel told to him: 'Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good news of a people; for to you is born this day in the city of David a savior, who is Christ the Lord.'"

I noticed an ad in a newspaper: "The angel wings that have been used in the Christmas parade have been misplaced. If you know their whereabouts, please contact..."

As Christmas approaches, we frantically search for our angel wings, because this is the time when for a brief period, we lay aside selfish attitudes, petty differences, undue criticisms, and extend ourselves to bring happiness to others. We want to imitate the ways of angels by offering to serve God. But we cannot find our wings by making a telephone call or by running an ad in the newspaper.

Have we been so busy baking fancy cookies, addressing cards, shopping for gifts, and putting up decorations that we have neglected to look for our wings? Join us this Sunday in celebrating Advent.

Eagle's killer hunted

by John Walsh

It had not yet developed the snow-white head feathers which distinguish the American bald eagle from all other birds. It was very likely on its way to its wintering grounds somewhere to the south but it will never arrive.

The killer probably thought it was "just a big hawk," a tempting target against the skyline as it rested on its long migratory flight.

But whatever he thought is no excuse — not to the law (since all hawks and owls are protected and may not be killed) and not to those of us who might be privileged to see an eagle in the wild once or twice in a lifetime. If the killer is any kind of an American, any kind of a human being, his motives, whatever they were, should be no excuse to the authorities and take his punishment — wanton killers of wildlife seldom are.

Other wildlife groups will likely offer rewards too, so the total could grow to over $4,000. Anyone having any information at all is urged to call the law enforcement division of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (505-564-3178), the Louisville office of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service (502-584-9988) or the 24-hour "hot line" of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Nashville (615-251-5523). All information will be kept strictly confidential.

This killing points out, as do the other eagle killings in Kentucky during the last year, the old attitudes which view all birds of prey as "chicken hawks" to be shot on sight. Actually, there is no such species as a "chicken hawk," and all hawks and owls are completely protected by federal and state laws — as are virtually all other wildlife "species" there is a specific open hunting season.
