Letters

To The Carlsle Mercury:
In response to your guest editorial on gun control, The Bible states that people were killing each other long before guns were invented. This is an inhumane opinion. Alone it does not kill. Neither do rocks, clubs, knives, cars, planes, etc. People kill. Cain might have used a gun if he had been handy. But gun or rock, the results would have been the same. People kill. However, there may be another idea including after California passed its controversial proposition 13 that out property taxes should be based on state inflation continually drives up the assessments on property in many areas, and some property owners would like a ceiling of property taxes. The rate is frozen under the rollback law, but taxes continue to increase in Kentucky as the assessments increase, not the rate but the amount of money the homeowner must pay.

Opinion

Eyes on our country?

July 4 will officially mark our country's 200 year birthday of unalienable rights and democracy. From the time our country and its government was only a dream discussed by dreamers, the plans for such a nation were the bits of jokes and the favorite topic of ridicule. Here we are 200 years later still a nation of independence thanks to those dreamers. However, dreamers such as the ones who founded and foresaw the country with its strong constitution and its bill of rights are seldom heard from today.

reason then do we have for subsidizing a government for the people and for the people if only the people who save money in it for themselves maintain all of the interests and sometimes even control the "interests"?
