FmHA reports rural loans, grants reach record high of $11.1 billion

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), the rural credit agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, reported that its loans and grants for rural development during fiscal year (FY) 1978 reached a record high of $11.1 billion — 55 per cent above the FY 1977 level, according to Alex Mercure, assistant secretary for rural development.

Of the $11.1 billion, 93 per cent of which are loans repayable with interest, nearly $5 billion are farm loans. Housing loans accounted for $1.7 billion, $1.3 went for community facilities improvements and more than $1 billion were used for business-industrial financing.

Mercure cited these highlights:

• Farm credit. FmHA made 153,380 farm loans, including more than 90,000 emergency loans to farmers and ranchers hit by natural disasters or economic emergency. Emergency loans totaled $3.6 billion. Other services included $1.3 billion to individual family farmers for ownership, operation and improvement of their farms. A new economic emergency farm loan program, enacted in August, began with $108 million of loan approvals in September. Under this program, FmHA is authorized to carry up to $4 billion in loans through May 15, 1980.

• Housing. FmHA made 116,896 loans totaling $2.6 billion to families of low and moderate income for home ownership or improvement, and $673.1 million in loans for 1,451 multi-family apartment projects in rural towns throughout the country. FmHA housing programs are available in rural areas, towns of up to 10,000 population, and in non-metropolitan areas of up to 20,000 population where other credit is not available.

• Community facilities. FmHA provided more than $1 billion in FY 1978 to build or improve water and sewer systems in approximately 2,000 towns and rural areas. Loans for other types of community facilities, such as medical and community centers and fire departments, added $250 million to the agency's community facility programs. Facility projects may serve countryside and towns of up to 10,000 population.

Grants for comprehensive planning in rural areas were made by 45 state, local and area planning bodies during FY 1978.

• Business and Industry. FmHA's guarantees of commercial lenders' loans to businesses and industries employing rural people rose from $356 million in FY 1977 to $1 billion in FY '78. A loan level of $1.1 billion is budgeted for the current fiscal year. Grants totaling $10 million were made last year to 23 public bodies for improvement of rural industrial sites. During the time, the program provided an estimated 36,000 new jobs in rural areas and saved an estimated 53,000 existing jobs.

Gordon Cavanaugh, FmHA administrator, said, "a state reorganization will be completed this year. Under the plan, new district offices will service all community, multiple-family housing and organization project loans and grants. County FmHA offices will concentrate on improved service to families applying for farm and individual housing loans. To make FmHA more responsive to local needs and plans, and to avoid duplication of facilities in an area, groups of counties served by FmHA district offices will generally have the same boundaries as sub-state planning districts."

CHEAP HEAT

A fireplace is a cheery thing on a cold winter's evening, but the sad truth is that it's inefficient — about 90 percent of the heat is lost up the chimney, taking with it warm air from the room. A fireplace can actually increase your overall heating costs.

Today's good many people are using an alternative — the old-fashioned wood-burning stove. Unlike a fireplace, a stove is 50 percent efficient, and with wise use will permit you to turn off the furnace for long periods.

What you have to determine is, will the cost of the stove and its installation, plus the cost of the wood you burn, add up to less than the cost of running your furnace? You can buy a stove for as little as $100, but it may not be of solid, airtight construction. The stove and connecting pipes get very hot and the fire hazard is always there; you'll be wise to invest around $300 for a well-made stove, have it installed by an expert and inspected by a local fire official. And follow the manufacturer's recommendations for use and maintenance.

In some areas — particularly cities — seasoned hardwood (which is the best kind to burn) is so outrageously expensive that you save nothing. But there are ways to beat this problem. You can get wood for free. Get permission to collect dead trees and fell live ones in the national forests, and in many state and city parks (but not in state forests). Sometimes you can take away the trees cut down by park and highway departments and by power companies. Pick up scrap lumber at building and demolition sites and at lumber yards.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions — horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle then strike it off the list. Circling it will show's letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.
