

Opinion

Miscellaneous

New administrator
A few short weeks before the scheduled move into the new Nicholas County Hospital John Mathers Health Care, Inc. has a new administrator.

While like to wish Mr. Robert Hester the best of luck and pledge our cooperation and that of the community's in his endeavors on behalf of the health care complex. Although he is taking over a brand-new hospital Mr. Hester faces many problems that the entire community can get involved in. The most important of these is the recruitment of new doctors to help keep the hospital running as it should. This is one of the most important problems facing Nicholas County now, and our conversations with citizens from all walks of life, and it is one that affects each of us directly.

Good luck
Carlisle-Nicholas County Recreation Director Nancy Pyles has submitted her resignation to the recreation board effective May 1. Miss Pyles is to be married shortly and will move with her husband to Cincinnati, where she hopes to continue her work in the recreation field.

Agree or Not

Strange race brewing

by S. C. Van Curen
FRANKFORT — This is the strangest race in memory among a bunch of Democrats seeking to represent their party in November.

There is a field of nine in the governor's race, not one to fade with a distinguishable lead. For the political writer, it's like a horseplayer trying to pick a winner in a $1500 claiming race at a second-rate track.

Usually by this time a front runner has been established as the one to beat.

Out of the nine, there are six major candidates and only one is a Democrat. Louisville, and presidential candidate Lyle Willis of Corbin.

There are four in the Republican race with former Gov. Louie B. Nunn and former state legislator Ray B. White. Bowling Green campaigning statewide. The others are Thurman Jerome Hamlin, London; Elmer Begley Jr., Hyden.

There is one Socialist Workers Party candidate by the name of L.J. Layko of Louisville. In the lieutenant governor's race the field is just about as crowded with six candidates.

They are Martha Layne Collins, Versailles; William M. "Bill" Cox, Madisonville; Richard H. Lewis, Benton; Joe Prather, Vine Grove; Charley T. Howland, Mealy; and Jim Vernon, Frankfort and Corbin.

There are three Republicans running for lieutenant governor. They are Bob Bersky, Sturgis; Harold Rogers, Somerset; and Granville Thomas, London.

On the Republican side in the governor's race is between Nunn and White. It can be said that clearly defined among the Democrats.

Wright

husband to Cincinnati, where she hopes to continue her work in the recreation field. This year NCHS will host the Class A and AA regional meets, the premier to the state track meet to be held at UK.

There will be some top notch high school athletes competing up on the hill and it will be well worth your while to see them in action.

Comment

Public broadcasting group would slant news their way

by Anthony Harrison
One of the worst aspects of authoritarianism is the public control of the mass media. In such a system, government officials use the electronic media to disseminate their views.

In the United States, left-liberalism have erected as a huge and oppressive federal bureaucracy. More and more, intrusive government activities have curtailed the liberties of the citizen.

Some candidates are staying just as far away from the state administration as possible. One of the six top runners in the Democratic battle, Mrs. Stovall has played an independent role as lieutenant governor.

One of the big remaining questions is why did Brown want so late to get into the race? Consider these facts. Only three states have primary elections for governor this year: Kentucky, Mississippi and Louisiana. President Carter is having trouble maintaining his popularity even among his own party members.

Gov. Carroll is a good friend of Carter. Carter certainly wants Kentucky to remain Democratic next year.

Brown underwent a nationwide telethon a few years ago to raise funds for the financially ailing Democrats.

Is there doubt in Washington that Carroll couldn't bring McBrayer through? Was Brown prepared to get into the race as a catalyst to bring all of the dissident Kentucky Democrats together in hopes of retaining the governorship?

There are all kinds of theories. The reader may have one of his own.

However, you have to presume that McBrayer

Down Memory Lane

Pumphrey to coach Paris; spring planting under way

Thursday, April 12, 1979
Also in the news... Mrs. Teresa Payne Jackson, 83, Friday in Lexington... Mrs. Nell (Nelli) Burgess, 76, Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Elmer Price... Mrs. Nell (Nelli) Burgess, 76, Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Elmer Price...

Thursday, April 20, 1979
Friday, April 21, 1979
Saturday, April 22, 1979
Sunday, April 23, 1979

Comment

Public broadcasting group would slant news their way

by Anthony Harrison
One of the worst aspects of authoritarianism is the public control of the mass media. In such a system, government officials use the electronic media to disseminate their views.

In the United States, left-liberalism have erected as a huge and oppressive federal bureaucracy. More and more, intrusive government activities have curtailed the liberties of the citizen.

Some candidates are staying just as far away from the state administration as possible. One of the six top runners in the Democratic battle, Mrs. Stovall has played an independent role as lieutenant governor.

One of the big remaining questions is why did Brown want so late to get into the race? Consider these facts. Only three states have primary elections for governor this year: Kentucky, Mississippi and Louisiana. President Carter is having trouble maintaining his popularity even among his own party members.

their intention to cooperate with the Agricultural Conservation Program. Work is being pushed rapidly on the new garage of W. R. Buntin on Elm Street.

Thursday, April 20, 1979
Friday, April 21, 1979
Saturday, April 22, 1979
Sunday, April 23, 1979

Comment

Public broadcasting group would slant news their way

by Anthony Harrison
One of the worst aspects of authoritarianism is the public control of the mass media. In such a system, government officials use the electronic media to disseminate their views.

In the United States, left-liberalism have erected as a huge and oppressive federal bureaucracy. More and more, intrusive government activities have curtailed the liberties of the citizen.

Some candidates are staying just as far away from the state administration as possible. One of the six top runners in the Democratic battle, Mrs. Stovall has played an independent role as lieutenant governor.

One of the big remaining questions is why did Brown want so late to get into the race? Consider these facts. Only three states have primary elections for governor this year: Kentucky, Mississippi and Louisiana. President Carter is having trouble maintaining his popularity even among his own party members.

their intention to cooperate with the Agricultural Conservation Program. Work is being pushed rapidly on the new garage of W. R. Buntin on Elm Street.

Thursday, April 20, 1979
Friday, April 21, 1979
Saturday, April 22, 1979
Sunday, April 23, 1979

Comment

Public broadcasting group would slant news their way

by Anthony Harrison
One of the worst aspects of authoritarianism is the public control of the mass media. In such a system, government officials use the electronic media to disseminate their views.

In the United States, left-liberalism have erected as a huge and oppressive federal bureaucracy. More and more, intrusive government activities have curtailed the liberties of the citizen.

Some candidates are staying just as far away from the state administration as possible. One of the six top runners in the Democratic battle, Mrs. Stovall has played an independent role as lieutenant governor.

One of the big remaining questions is why did Brown want so late to get into the race? Consider these facts. Only three states have primary elections for governor this year: Kentucky, Mississippi and Louisiana. President Carter is having trouble maintaining his popularity even among his own party members.

Banjo man's fans

Dr. Allen Hamon treated Nicholas County Elementary School first graders with some banjo tunes last Wednesday. The program was held in conjunction with Music in our Schools Week. It was hard to tell where they enjoyed themselves more, Dr. Hamon or the children.

Pre-school registration is Friday April 20 at NCES

Pre-school registration will be held at the Nicholas County Elementary Friday, April 20 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Parents planning to enroll their children for kindergarten in the fall term should bring a copy of the 1978-79 school term report card, proof of immunization, and a copy of the child's birth registration number or a certificate of immunization on the first day of his/her entry.

Test option available

Readiness, not age, key to school entry

Age is not the real key to the new state law on school entrance age — readiness is.

Any way of setting entrance age by month is arbitrary, but educators now look for reading readiness, social readiness, developmental readiness as qualifiers for entering school.

The law changes the entry age to first grade and kindergarten. For the first time, students entering first grade must be six and those entering kindergarten must be five by Sept. 1.

The readiness test will be given to children for early entrance in based primarily on whether they will be able to read, according to Dr. Donald Van Fleet, chief of the state Department of Education's office of planning and research.

Van Fleet said, "There are other kinds of readiness that are tested as well. These tests are designed to predict whether or not a child would have a successful experience in early kindergarten or first grade. We think it would be a mistake to enroll a student if we know he isn't ready to enter and it would be a mistake to enroll a child who would have a successful experience in first grade or kindergarten."

According to Dr. B. Glen Davis, director of the office's research unit, research comparing scores of children starting to school at age six with those of children starting at age five indicates a significant difference in scores. Children starting grade one at age six scored significantly higher than those entering at age five.

"Research shows that the maturation of a child playing a big part in his or her achievement," Davis said. "Besides exceptional cases, a more mature child would probably achieve better."

Van Fleet said there has been considerable concern about the retention rate or failure rate, of students in first grade increasing. "Over the last six years there has been an increase in first graders repeating a grade. It had reached the point where 14 per cent of our first grade children were failing," he said. "Research was done that indicated many of the students repeating the first grade were those that were young, with birthdays falling between September and December. They really just weren't ready to enter school."

"We're aware that many younger children are just not making it in the first grade. Sometimes it takes a year or two of school before we realize it's in their best interest not to enter them early. We're also aware that many of these children probably are ready, if they do so well on the score and if they are advanced readers, that they can handle the age the child starts talking, walking, and playing his shoes. All of these can help determine if a child is ready."

more nutritious than any food you can buy at a chain restaurant," Crowley said.

Americans ate a mere $700 million worth of pizza restaurants in 1974 but spent $1.6 billion on the dish last year. And pizza's popularity is continuing to grow.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

calories, and as Ms. Lechowicz pointed out, most pizza devotees don't stop at one piece.

Pizza, the Italian word for pie, first sprang up in Naples, but much of the pizza served there these days is eaten by tourists. True Italian pizza is a bit different from the American version, delectable with the American diet, sticking to tomato sauce, mozzarella, and little beef.

The best is baked without a pan," said an Italian embassy employee in Washington who doesn't find the American version tempting. "When I want pizza, I make it at home."

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Pizza gaining on burgers as favorite 'fast food'

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

Restaurants consumption has doubled in 10 years, and the tomato — used in both paste and sauce for pizza — has become the nation's top processed vegetable crop.

MIDWAY Drive In Theatre
THURSDAY BINGO-MOVIE 7:30-ADM. $1.00
CASH PRIZES PLUS 2 JACKPOTS
Checked Flag OR CRASH
FRIDAY - SATURDAY - SUNDAY
...the sleeper hit of the year...
PLUS Second Feature
"GOING SOUTH"
ADULTS 1.75
STARTS 7:30

Bourbon DRIVE-IN Theatre
AT 7:30 FRI.-SAT.-SUN., ADM. $2.50
"...the sleeper hit of the year..."
People Magazine
Revolve American Style
The story my normal shocked & the best
HARPER LEE
BARBARA EDEEN-ROHWER COPIE-MANETTE FABRY
LEWS LUIS-SIGAN SWIFT - PAT FRISLEN
AT 9:25
RON HOWARD IS FUNNIER AND FASTER
GRAND THEFT AUTO
METROCOLOR
NEW WORLD PICTURES

This Easter, visit some bunny by long distance. And save 60% all weekend.

Family and friends should get together at Easter! If not in person, then by long distance. And Easter weekend, or any weekend, you can save 60% of the week's day cost of a long distance call, dialed the 1-way, U.S. 5:00 P.M. on Sunday. So this Easter, reach out and touch someone. A sister, a brother or a lady friend. By long distance. Reach out, reach out and touch someone.

