Our duty

Inside this week's Mercury can be found a copy of the Nicholas County Board of Education's financial statement for the 1978-79 school year.

The Board of Education oversees the largest public budget in Nicholas County and employs more people than any other public agency. As such it is required by law to publish a yearly financial statement in the newspaper in its district with the largest paid circulation.

This is not a frivolous law, in our estimation. It allowed each citizen and each taxpayer, each parent with a child in school, to learn more about the workings of those schools.

In the 1978 session of the Kentucky General Assembly the law regarding publication of school district financial statements was amended to allow school boards to publish instructional salaries in a lump sum, rather than list each individual salary. That amendment also allowed the newspapers publishing school district financial statements to publish a complete list of individual instructional salaries at the newspaper's expense. This was accomplished after intensive lobbying efforts by the Kentucky Press Association, which felt that the material in question was important enough to warrant public scrutiny.

Accordingly, last year the Mercury published individual salaries at no expense to the school board or taxpayers. That is also being done this year. The purpose is not to embarass anyone but to provide a more accurate picture of the cost of educating Nicholas County children.

This decision does not sit well with most teachers and administrators, who feel that their right to privacy is thrifthened by this practice. In answer, we offer that these costs and every cost of running the Nicholas County school system, are supported by taxpayer revenues, whether the funds originate from the federal, state or local level.

An announcement was made of the Mercury's request for a list of individual salaries at a school meeting last week and one person present said the announcement should spawn some comment to the Mercury. We invite any and all comments on this matter and if they are submitted properly, they will be treated as any other letter to the editor. Our purpose is to inform and invite a public forum on matters that affect Nicholas County. Our efforts in pursuit of that goal are not always pleasant but they must be done.

Campaign heats up

By S.C. Van Curon

In the middle of dog days last week, the political campaign for governor began to heat up with both candidates trying to establish some campaign issues.

Kentucky Fried Chicken king John Young Brown Jr. came out swinging at Republican Louie B. Nunn who is seeking to become governor again after serving a four-year term from 1967-71. Brown is making his first venture into Kentucky politics although his family name has been prominent in the state for many years.

Brown attacked Nunn's record on education and says it is now time for the state to have a businessman as governor.

The Republicans launched a series of speeches across the state last week to reveal Nunn's program and a 'profile' of Brown, the man.

Both parties have been busy in past weeks trying to perfect their organizations across the state, but last week signaled the start of the campaign that is likely to become bitter and confusing as the weeks to come. This won't be unusual for Kentucky where personalities often provoke more oratory than constructive campaign issues, or programs.

While Democrats outnumber Republicans by 2 to 1 in voter registration, this campaign is marred by a federal investigation of the present Democrat administration.

Brown has said publicly that he doesn't want anyone involved in the grand jury investigation associated with his campaign. This is a broad sweep that involves many in Gov. Julian Carroll's administration and the past administration of Democrat Gov. Wendell H. Ford. The calling of a witness before the grand jury does not mean that the witness is involved as a target of the investigation. Many are called just to give information.

Brown's statement, divorcing his campaign from these people, has caused a lot of consternation among Democrats, particularly those who have been prominent in campaigns of the past.

Gov. Carroll supported Terry McBrayer, a former legislator and political leader, who ran third in the Democrat primary. Brown's forces, according to word in party circles, has not sought support of his four major opponents he defeated in the primary. He had his own organization in the primary and seems at the moment not being interested in pulling in the old pros from the other primary candidates.

Republicans have named their effort started last week "Operation Undercover", Chapter 1. The Republicans claim their revelations will be backed up by newspaper stories of the past and public records.

Brown's forces have been denying such reports and have not made any personal attacks against Nunn.

Both candidates are stressing the importance of coal to the economy of the nation and particularly affecting Kentucky. They have both said they will rewrite the state's workmen's compensation laws and make education and health principal parts of their future administrations.

When Nunn became governor, he found it necessary to boost Kentucky's sales tax from 3 to 5 percent to avoid a deficit. Since that the tax has been repealed on prescription drugs and take home groceries.

Writers of letters to the editors harp about Nunn's nicked the sales tax but they never mention that Democrat Bert Combs started the sales tax with 3 percent. They also fail to mention the Democrats have been in office eight years and haven't repealed the tax.

Truth of the matter is, the sales tax is one of the largest producers of revenue in the state's tax structure. The growth features of this tax enabled elimination of prescription drugs and take home groceries from the tax.

It might be interesting for the voters to note that several of the appointive officers of the Carroll administration are taking other jobs and that many others are mailing out their resumes to seek

Many people get hay fever or asthma from animals because of the "dandruff" in the animal's hair. You rarely hear that someone has these problems from a fur coat because finishing and dyeing removes the dandruff.

A fluorescent sign at the edge of Carlisle's city limits stating "Welcome to Carlisle, The Little Town With The Big Heart" was erected Monday with the thermometer hovering near 90 degrees. The five civic organizations depicted on the sign are: Veterans of Foreign Wars, Rotary International, Junior Chamber of Commerce, American Legion and the Chamber of Commerce. The Kentucky Utilities was also instrumental in helping finance the project. Those providing the manpower to erect the sign are: Kenneth Chambers, Wayne Gaunce, Jim Insley, Buddy Buckler (sign painter), Wayne Shumate, Jim Ledford, Jimmy Carter, Bobby Fryman, Bruce Luther, Milton Moreland, Henry Fair, Jack Morrison and Billy Scott.

Jack Morrison, vice president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce was appointed last Thursday to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of H.C. Galbraith on the Carlisle-Nicholas County Chamber of Commerce's board of directors.

Emmett Darrell, who last week was admitted to Nicholas County Hospital suffering from Undulant Fever, received help in housing his tobacco crop by friends and neighbors, as the request was sent out by G.L. Curtsinger, president of the Nicholas Utopia Club. Those volunteering are: Jimmie Judge, Fred Wiley, G.L. Curtsinger, Foster Pumphrey, Dean Auxier, Steve Phumphrey, Howard Sidle, Charles Watkins, Tommy Peach, Ovel Day, Cleo Fryman, Eddie Day, Billy Hillock, Pete Gaunce, Shely Gaunce, Lora Gaunce, Edgar Allen Darrell, Calvin, Mike Straw, Tommy Peach, and their wives who prepared a picnic dinner day.

Kentucky spending more for teachers' salaries

Latest figures on per-capita expenditures for state and local governments show Kentucky is 19th place for public welfare ($136.39), in 21st place for highways ($132.09), in 31st place for higher education ($115.60), and in 46th place for local schools, including capital outlay ($240.89). Data are for 1976-77, the latest year available.

Mercury vapors

by Warren R. Fisher

How do you spell relief?

From August 10, for four days, I believe you spell it "P-A-I-N"! There seemed to be no relief!

My better-half found me hanging or holding to the door jam, that is, the part of the door knob near my head. I who can not even "chin" a bar very mistakenly thought I could pull up and maybe the weight of my legs and clod hoppers would pop, slip or pull things back into place.

It wasn't the first time my back had hurt — I'd hurt the area in 1947 when we were moving the Mercury heavy equipment from the Abraham building to the present location. Now, all the heavy stuff is gone with the exception of the old C&P paper cutter and the 1250 Multilith which only I OPERATE (not that I don't have friends who profess they know its workings).

This column has been boiling in my mind ever since I got out of the hospital.

Cutting all things short as I am wont to do, I really don't wish to bore you. But I do wish to point out a gold mine in Nicholas County. Namely the new Nicholas County Hospital and its staff and the Doctors, all.

N-I-C-H-O-L-A-S-C-O-U-T-A-I-A-N-S are fortunate to have a facility such as the new Nicholas County Hospital — something we can all be proud of!

The hospital's many luxuries — mostly heavy drapes, I'll say have a greater tax base—therefore more money) and fancier equipment, but dollar for dollar Nicholas County Hospital has more going for it.

When I first started to write this column I thought I would mention first names, but I do not know all the first names. I do know the last names of the individuals who were so kind to me — true it's their job, but you can tell from just a retort whether their heart is in their work.

I have never been in a hospital where I have received such nice treatment (perhaps you say you're the publisher)! Yes I am the publisher and the owner and the chief worrier, about meeting our obligations, all of this hullis within my providence. It was suggested that I sell the newspaper, but without getting too technical, taxes prevent that! A-N-D, besides I don't wish to. I can lie in bed at Nicholas County Hospital and seemingly not have a care in the world, well possibly a few minor opes, but as the sawbones says, "If I let you go home today, I know exactly what you'll do — First the house, then the back door of The Mercury! Sorry boy! You didn't walk enough yesterday." All of which reminds me of the Air Force. My arguments were lost!

Tomorrow will be Tuesday! I'll hold my end up, hopefully, and all the pieces will fall into place, they all ways have!

Should you disagree with anything I or we have said, send us your written comments, we will publish them as soon as possible.

A Central City gasoline retailer passes along a letter he received from a customer: "Due to a money shortage, it will no longer be possible for me to mail my gas card payments. It will be necessary for a representative of your company to come by my home and pick it up each month.

"I will be available to dispense payments between the hours of 6 a.m. and 8 a.m. and again from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, but will not be available on weekends.

"Should your representative encounter a line at my door, please advise him that I have others waiting and to be patient.

"It would be best if he could come only on odd-numbered dates, as I have two other firms coming on even dates, and preferably before the 20th of each month, as my allocation of money will probably be gone by then...A green flag at my door indicates that the money supply is good, yellow indicates a possibility of payment and red means your representative is too late."

Just leave it to Mr. Stone who says (Horse-sense-is seldom-hitched-to-a-wagin'-tongue).
