Ford's Footnotes

by Senator Ed Ford
 During this second legislative week, the Senate continued to act as a Committee of the Whole with Governor Julian Carroll and Revenue Commissioner Maurice Carpenter as Thursday's witnesses. Senate Bill 2 has been amended to become effective June 1, 1979. This is the bill that proposes to eliminate the sales tax from your home utility bills. According to testimony given by Governor Carroll, and later substantiated by Commissioner Carpenter, the removal of the tax has an impact of thirty-seven million dollars ($37,000,000) on our present budget. It was further noted by Revenue Commissioner Carpenter that there is a windfall for those utility bills that will not be exempt such as commercial and industrial customers. He could not give an accurate estimate of the amount of income above the anticipated income when the budget document was adopted in 1978, but did not dispute that it may be as high as ten trillion dollars ($10,000,000). I am convinced that we can effectively eliminate these taxes without substantially curtailing any vital services.

 The Senate has passed two bills and sent them to the House for action. Senate Bill 8 provides for a financial statement within forty-five (45) days of employment for public officials and employees. The statement is to include office or employment held by him, his spouse and dependents.
 Senate Bill 9 will allow Kentucky State Police officers, disabled in the line of duty, to remain on the regular payroll for an amount equal to his salary, less disability payments. This salary is to continue until he is eligible for normal retirement or elects to take early retirement. Both Senate Bills are now in the House State Government Committee.
 Other than Governor Carroll and Commissioner Carpenter, economists and Finance Department personnel have been before the committee, and their testimony has centered around the state's controversial capital construction fund.
 The House Democratic Caucus took advantage of a legislative holiday Monday and met in Frankfort to perfect two pieces of legislation. One bill, House Bill 44, would establish a four per cent (4%) limit on the growth of property tax revenues. The proposed limit on property tax revenues applies to "old" property only, and provides that a local taxing district can go above the four per cent (4%) ceiling if public hearings are held and taxpayers do not prohibit the increase by petition.
 The General Assembly will reconvene Monday when the Senate will go back into session. I feel that we have gained much valuable information from our hearings and testimonies. It has certainly been an educational process for me, and I feel much more familiar with the budget process than I did at this same point and time last year.
 If you need me during the session, please call the wait line number 1-800-372-7918 or 7917, and I will return your call at my earliest convenience. You can reach me by mail simply by addressing me the State Capitol, Frankfort, Kentucky.

Rural fire grants told

Rural fire departments can now receive matching grants from the state to purchase fire fighting equipment, according to Gov. Julian M. Carroll.
 The grants, administered by the state Division of Forestry, of the Department for Natural Resources, and Environmental Protection are offered to small rural fire departments not only for purchasing equipment but to help financing fire training programs.

Carroll said the grants are on a 50-50 matching basis and will be for a minimum of $500. The fire departments must match the grant dollar-for-dollar with their own monies or from revenue sharing monies in their communities.

The grants are available to communities with populations of less than 10,000. The only other qualification for receiving the grants is that a rural department must answer all calls within its prescribed area.
 According to Forestry Director E. J. Grinn, the deadline for applying for the matching grants is April 30, 1979. Approval or disapproval will be sent by May 31, 1979. Grinn said special consideration will be given to new fire departments.
 Application blanks and additional information can be obtained from Elmore Grinn, director, Division of Forestry, Frankfort, KY 40601.

THE CARING CORNER

"The wicked are overthrown and are no more, but the house of the righteous will stand."
 Proverbs 12:7

I was privileged the other day to be invited to a "Home Dedication" Matter of fact, it was the first one I had ever been to, what a warm and beautiful experience it was to witness a family dedicate their home as a haven for Christian fellowship and instruction.
 What is more fitting and proper than to dedicate our lives, our honor, and our homes to the One who gives us life? As a community we need to follow this example - more of us need to dedicate our homes to Christ. We need to set a pattern - an "everyone is doing it" type of movement.
 But then again - that would change our lives wouldn't it?
 As I left the home, they reminded me to come back, after all they said, "The latch is on the outside."
