Locust is old favorite

By Nevyle Shackelford

Before farmers started using steel instead of wood for fencing material, the black locust (Robinia pseudoacacia) was by far the favorite timber for posts, and for good reason.

The heartwood of this tree is highly resistant to decay and can be expected to last for many years. As a matter of fact, locust fence posts have been found serviceable after being in the ground for over 35 years.

Actually locust posts can last much longer. Back in 1607 when the first settlers to American shores constructed their huts at Jamestown, they used corner posts cut from this tree. One hundred years later when the British naturalist and botanist, Mark Catesby, visited the site, he wrote that some of these posts were still standing solid and intact.

Locust wood, according to UK Extension Forester Jim Newman, owes its resistance to decay to the mineral deposits in its cells. It is also a very dense wood, making it hard enough to take the edge off chisels, saws, and other woodworking tools.

Other than fence posts, locust wood has been used for insulator pins on telegraph and telephone poles, and for a long-lasting flooring. The tree has been widely planted too, for its fragrant drooping clusters of white flowers resembling the blooms of the sweet pea.

Some flowers, says Newman, are produced every year, but every third or fourth year the tree is completely covered with bloom. There is usually a good nectar flow which is a delight to foraging honeybees. These flowers mature into a seeded pods that provide winter fare for quail, doves, and grouse.

Farmers of a half century ago liked to have locust trees growing on their farms for reasons other than to provide fence posts. Some of them didn't know why, but they did know that the grass around and under these trees was always more lush and greener than elsewhere in the field.

Reason for this, of course, is because being a legume, the locust has nodules on its roots containing nitrogen forming bacteria that increase the nitrogen content of the soil. Also being shallow rooted with the roots running many feet from six to eight inches underground, and with suckers sprouting from these roots, a locust ticket is soon formed. This makes the tree ideal for erosion control and has recently been found useful in the restoration of spoil banks and strip mined areas.

The black locust's generic name is Robinia, a name that comes from Jean Robin, gardener to Henry IV of France. Robin introduced locust seed into France from Louisiana around 1601 and promoted its planting in that country. As a consequence when classifying this tree, Linnaeus named it in Robin's honor.

And how did the tree come by the name "locust" which is an insect of sort? Well, the story is that in 1610 when naturalist William Strachey was writing about the flora around Jamestown, he assumed this tree to be related to the carob tree of Asis Minor — a tree that produces an edible seed pod similar to our tree. This carob tree is also called "St. John's Bread" from the belief it was the "locust" eaten by St. John in the wilderness as related in the Gospel of St. Mark.

Watch fertilizer

Kentucky farmers are being alerted to the sale of certain clear liquid fertilizers which are being sold with erroneous and fraudulent claims.

Problems with such sales have been noted in three rural areas of the state thus far, according to D.L. Terry, coordinator of the fertilizer program in the University of Kentucky's College of Agriculture.

The areas are the Somerset area, Warren and Simpson County area and Owensboro-Henderson area.

Terry says one example of the erroneous and fraudulent claims is: "One gallon of 3-18-18 liquid fertilizer contains the same plant food as 100 pounds of a dry 3-18-18 fertilizer."

Another claim is simply that one gallon of liquid fertilizer is equal to 100 pounds of dry fertilizer.

Terry says, "These claims not only are in error but are fraudulent and are a violation of the Kentucky fertilizer law."

He notes that anyone selling fertilizer under these erroneous and fraudulent claims is subject not only to criminal penalty but also may be liable for reasonable damages sustained by anyone who purchases the fertilizer.

Reasonable damages might be the loss of crop yield or the difference between cost of a gallon of liquid fertilizer and the cost of 10 or 12 pounds of a dry fertilizer of the same grade, according to Terry.

Additional information on the fertilizers may be obtained from Terry at the Division of Regulatory Services, Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky 40546; phone 606-258-2668.

In other business the board accepted the resignations of teachers Leslie Carroll and Wallace Rice. Employed were Marion Williams as assistant elementary school principal and Louise Colorn as bus driver.

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions — horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

★★NEXT WEEK'S★★ HOROSCOPE

By Clay R. Pollan

FOR WEEK BEGINNING MONDAY, JULY 16, 1979

If your birthday occurs this week ... you should strive for self-sufficiency, self-reliance and aggressiveness along constructive lines, and resist throughout life a tendency to depend on someone else.

Aries Mar. 21 - Apr. 19 Pluto

You need to make a deliberate and conscious effort to be "on the ball" in your handling of money matters. If you have recently made investments, weigh the advisability of cashing in now. Keep careful account of expenditures and of getting receipts. Friends prosper.

Taurus Apr. 20 - May 20 Venus

Your actions now will prove that you are knowledgeable and industrious. Show others how well you can do things and how little you object to work. Friends may invite you to go on an unexpected outing. Activities can be overdone. People will surprise you.

Gemini May 21 - June 20 Mercury

It may be extremely difficult to go your own way independently without outside interference. The whims of companions may irk you, but humor them to keep harmony. Romance needs a shot in the arm and this is the week to aim at it. Don't overload your home with junk.

Cancer June 21 - July 22 Moon

You should take careful steps to protect your assets. Certain people look upon you as easy prey and expect something for nothing. Your mate may act without your authority and upset you. Working in double harness is much better than going it alone just now.

Leo July 23 - Aug. 22 Sun

Competitive factors make themselves felt now. Unless you are careful, your rivals are going to step in and steal a march on you. Time and money should be sacrificed in favor of career interests. Youngsters are willing to give a helping hand. A bit of luck comes.

Virgo Aug. 23 - Sept. 22 Mercury

A new person in your life may win your enduring respect and devotion. If single and all is well, go ahead and encourage a new love interest, if one comes along. Be helpful to the young. Your charm impresses people and is appreciated. Expect some odd news.

Libra Sept. 23 - Oct. 22 Venus

The Stars quite clearly warn you of a tendency to allow unfamiliar people to influence you unduly. It may be a good idea to terminate a long-term contract, if possible, or to close out a certain personal relationship. Romance may be under unhappy aspects.

Scorpio Oct. 23 - Nov. 21 Mars

Family interests and outside relationships are definitely under favorable aspects. This infers that the week will bring a slight upswing in your family fortunes. If not already, become more involved in politics. Make it a point of attending meetings.

Sagittarius Nov. 22 - Dec. 21 Jupiter

This week's aspects turn your thoughts towards travel, towards strange, distant exotic places. See a reputable travel agent and get a bundle of folders. You'll enjoy yourself more if you travel by water. Your vitality and vivacity may attract a new admirer.

Capricorn Dec. 22 - Jan. 19 Saturn

If there are considerable sums owing you, now's a good time to press for payment. Push hard at the end of the week. If important purchases have to be made, search for them this Thursday. Anything which changes your health regime will prove worthwhile.

Aquarius Jan. 20 - Feb. 18 Uranus

You can look forward to getting somewhat more fun and enjoyment out of life during this week. The decisions and actions of your companions make your life edsier and more enjoyable. Courtship and social life are under lucky stars. Throw aside false pride.

Pisces Feb. 19 - Mar. 20 Neptune

This is the period in which to rid yourself of small worrisome things. Don't waste time with jokers or let yourself be imposed upon. Keep your eye on the main chance and don't let trivialities divert you. Adjustments in your home area are indicated.

WHO WAS THAT LADY?

Although she never held an official position in the church, this woman was the single most instrumental participant in the building of the Wesley Chapel on John Street in New York City. The year was 1768 and the John Street Methodist Church still stands today in Manhattan's financial district. She lived from 1734 until 1804 and spent most of her life spreading Methodism throughout the land. Who was that lady?—Barbara Ruckle Heck.
