Mr. Ritchie is a retired farmer, and has worked at the Cynthiana House Warehouse for Pepper, Peak and Florence for the past 30 years, part of that time serving as manager.

Mental Retardation Month observed in county

Mental Retardation Month is being observed in Nicholas County and all across the country during March. In Nicholas County jars bearing the slogan "Build The ARC" (ARC is Association for Retarded Citizens) have been placed in local businesses. These jars will be used to raise funds for the ARC and details are available at the participating businesses. Mrs. Charles Cox is sponsoring the local fund drive.

Mental retardation means incomplete mental development. The brain, because of injury or lack of development never reaches full growth. The retarded individual is not able to learn as much as other people and it takes him longer to learn what he can. If the retarded individual is to develop to the highest degree possible, he must have special education and training opportunities. There was a time, not too long ago, when mental retardation was considered hopeless. It is known now that retarded people can learn to lead useful, fulfilling lives.

Nicholas County retarded citizens are offered help and service through the Bourbon County Association for Retarded Citizens which serves both counties in their Adult Training Center project, and provides transportation for children attending both the Adult Training Center and Meteer School in Paris. Meteer School is one of only three such programs in the Bluegrass Area providing a preschool stimulation program for developmentally disabled children. The Adult Training Center provides a work/activity program for men and women (ages 18 and up) who are developmentally disabled.

Kay's Kitchen

— By Kay Fisher —

Often a request for a certain recipe gives me an idea for a column. So, true for this week. About three weeks ago, I had a request for Homemade Crackers. Fortunately I could find the ones I had on short order. Not like some requests that have taken months to come up with.Anyway I will run the cracker recipes this week. Surely there is more than one person interested in these recipes.

From "A World of Breads" by Dolores Casella: At one time all crackers were homemade, but today only a few dedicated cooks make them. Well worth the occasionally try, the two recipes are typical.

HOMEMADE CRACKERS

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ cup butter
½ cup milk
1 large egg

Sift flour, salt and baking powder into a bowl. Cut in the butter until very fine. Add the milk and egg and mix to make a stiff dough. Knead thoroughly and then roll the dough very thin. Cut into squares or rounds and place on lightly buttered cookie sheets. Prick the crackers with a fork and then bake in a 400 degree oven for 10 minutes, or until very lightly browned. If desired, crackers may be sprinkled with coarse salt.

SODA CRACKERS

Follow the basic recipe, but substitute sour milk for sweet milk. Omit the baking powder, and add ½ teaspoon soda.

SOUFFLE CRACKERS

Follow either of the preceding recipes, but roll the dough a little thicker than usual. Bake and let dry thoroughly. Preferably using crackers that are several days old, soak the crackers in ice water until they swell. (Do this in a shallow pan using just enough ice water barely to cover the crackers.) With a spatula, lift the crackers out of the ice water. Drain and place on buttered cookie sheets. Dot each cracker with a bit of cold butter and bake in a 450 degree oven until puffy and golden brown, about 20 minutes.

Don't know where the next two recipes came from. They were just in the collection of recipes collected through the years.

WAFERS

3/8 cup cream
3/8 teaspoon salt
1 cup flour

Add the salt to cream, then add the flour, enough to make a very stiff dough; chop thoroughly and knead until smooth. Make into small balls and roll each one into a thin wafer. Place in shallow greased and floured pans and bake in hot oven until lightly brown.

PLAIN WAFERS

1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter
Milk

Sift flour and salt together, chop in the butter, and add milk, to make a very stiff dough; chop thoroughly and knead until smooth, make into small balls and roll each one into a thin wafer. Place in shallow greased and floured pans and bake in a hot oven until they puff and begin to brown.

Good luck and let me know how they turn out.

THE CARING CORNER

"He who rejects me and does not receive my sayings has a judge; the word that I have spoken will be his judge on the last day." John 12:48

"Your life has become one big Excuse!" and I turned away in disgust. Everytime I suggested something to help him change his life and his family's for the better. . .he responded with an excuse.

"Gotta get over the holidays." . . "Weather is terrible." . . "Wait until the baby is older." . . "Relatives are visiting." . . "Going to the lake this weekend."

He harps and gripes about how poor the schools are teaching his children, complains that kids were "Better" when he was young, can't believe that his marriage is sour. . .yet when he is provided opportunities to do something about it. . .He gives an excuse. When will he cease making them? Hopefully, before it is too late. . . .

Join us this Sunday in caring.

Elementary science fair is April 7

The Nicholas County Elementary School is preparing for its second Science Fair to be held Saturday, April 7.

At this time, faculty committees are busy making plans and creating interest for the big day. The fair will have entrants from each grade. Kindergarten through eight, and all participants will receive recognition. The fair provides the opportunity for students to work on their own initiative in any related field of science.

Parents are encouraged to join in the event as advisors and assistants to their children. Children participating may also work in groups to produce their projects.

Any interested Nicholas County Elementary student is urged to talk to his homeroom or science teacher for guidance.

Following is a list of rules for all participants in the Science Fair to be held on April 7:

1. Any boy or girl enrolled in the Nicholas County Elementary School may enter a project.
2. The project should be the student's work, however, adults may assist as resource persons.
3. Posters will not be accepted as a project. Posters will be used for display but will not be judged.
4. The project must not be more than 48 inches along the front or more than 36 inches from front to back.
5. All projects should have sturdy backboard. There will be an example of a backboard put on display in the library area for your students to see how a sturdy backboard should be constructed.
6. The projects should be accompanied by a completed Science Fair project Information Form which will include: project title; name of school; grade; how project was built; observed data (if any) conclusion (if any), etc.
7. Group projects will be permitted with a limit of five persons per group within their own grade level.
8. Projects should be built to withstand transportation to the fair.
9. Projects must be turned in two (2) days prior to the date of the fair.
10. Students must be present on the date of the fair to answer the judges questions.
11. Do not put name on the front side of project. Student names should not be shown anywhere on the project or accompanying materials used.
12. All electrical projects must observe safety rules. No wires lying around. All projects requiring electrical cords must furnish their own cords.
13. No open flame.
14. No chemicals allowed without special permission from principal.
15. Live animal projects will not be permitted.
16. Awards will be given to all participants.
17. Each participant will be expected to pick up their project and clean up their area following the fair. No projects can be left over the weekend. Pick up all projects immediately following the fair.

Winners in the local science fair will be eligible to enter the Regional Science Fair in Morehead at Morehead State University on April 21.

It is felt that this will be an enjoyable and educational experience for all involved. It is hoped this will be an event that all Nicholas Countians will share in and benefit from.

FmHA offers program

Savings and loan associations will soon be able to make additional home loans to rural and smalltown families by using a loan guarantee program now offered by Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

Action by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board (FHLB), currently underway, will change the rules under which savings and loan associations operate so as to permit them to use the FmHA home loan guarantee program.

In announcing the new cooperative effort, William E. Burnette, FmHA State Director, explained that the agency may guarantee loans made by savings and loan associations and other lenders up to 90 per cent of their value.

"This new initiative," Burnette continued, "will make it possible for rural families in the $15,600 to $30,000 adjusted annual income range to finance homes with smaller than usual downpayments and a longer payback period — up to 33 years. This is part of an overall national effort to make it possible for rural Americans to live in a decent home in an acceptable environment."

Office in Cynthiana

The Cynthiana FmHA office is located in the Elks Building on Walnut Street and the Carlisle FmHA office is located in the basement of the courthouse.
