Columbia gives refund; gets rate increase

The Kentucky Energy Regulatory Commission has approved a rate increase for Columbia Gas of Kentucky because of the increased cost of wholesale natural gas to the company. Customers will pay an additional 1 cent per 1,000 cubic feet of gas used.

Columbia's annual revenue is estimated to increase by a little more than $366,000 because of the rate hike. Residential customers will pay a minimum monthly bill of $3.79. Commercial and industrial customers will pay $4.81 for a minimum monthly bill. The cost per 1,000 cubic feet decreases as more gas is used.

The increase reflects one passed on to Columbia Gas by its supplier, Columbia Gas Transmission Corp.
 The Kentucky Energy Regulatory Commission has also approved a $2.23 million refund to customers of Columbia Gas of Kentucky.

The refund comes from repayments made to Columbia by its supplier, Columbia Gas Transmission Corp.
 The bulk of the refund, more than $1.63 million, will be credited on the monthly bills of residential and small industrial and commercial customers. The remaining $597,000 will be refunded by check to large commercial and industrial customers.

He was successful in having the support of Julian Carroll in passing this legislation as an amendment bill. At least, Carroll never opposed Friend's bill.

With Friend gone, and Carroll's administration out of the picture in 1980, there may be a chance to draft reasonable and equitable legislation in 1980.
