Editor's notes

Errata

Found that word in a crossword puzzle recently. It means "a list of mistakes and their corrections". So here goes:

In a recent issue of the Mercury it was stated that a donation had been made to the Nicholas County Hospital by the Harry Wolf Foundation. The donation was made by Blue Grass Industries in memory of Harry Wolf, Sr.

In last week's Mercury ticket prices for the Nicholas County Health Care Auxiliary benefit dinner last Friday were quoted as $6 per couple and $3.50 for children. The prices were actually $6 each and $3.50 for children. The rate adjustment was made in the Mercury office without the knowledge of the auxiliary due to a gremlin in the editor's typewriter. Whatever, the tickets were for a good cause and we hope no one was unduly put out by the misunderstanding.

Last, but not least, the telephone number for the Nicholas County Library was incorrectly printed in the Sept. 20 issue. The correct number is 289-5595 instead of 289-5598. The library is taking calls and messages for the Kentucky Heritage Commission's survey of historic sites in Nicholas County. Another story in this week's Mercury has the details.

Dog-gone

This one comes from Grady Nutt. It seems that as a boy in Texas Grady had the meanest dog in his town, a big, husky German Shepherd. Grady stopped by the poolroom one day and unleashed his dog while he went inside to shoot a couple of games.

A few minutes later someone comes in and asks Grady if that's his big shepherd outside. When he says it is the man tells him his dog has just killed it.

"Killed it!", Grady says. "Why that's the meanest dog in town! What kind of dog do you have?".

"A chihuahua."

"A chihuahua." Grady said. "How did a lil' 'ol chihuahua kill my big German Shepherd?"

"Stuck in his throat."

Proofreader's nightmare

The Associated Press reported last week that K.R. Gopalakrishna, a New Delhi, India, resident has invented a new language he calls "abasama", a word that literally means nothing.

Gopalakrishna assigns a number value to each of the 2,500 words in his new language, which, coincidentally, only he has mastered.

An example was given of a sentence in Gopalakrishna's abasama. In English it read: "You are a pain in the neck". In abasama it read 1131 3310 1590 1654651 2250 1411237. It's pronounced "kacha chikom kupom kuntinduk gantom kingth".

Gopalakrishna, incidentally, has changed his name to Abasma, which shows that his new language does have some redeeming qualities. He is currently working to expand the 2,500 abasaman words to 12,500. Abasama has spent $15,000 of his own money on the language, which he says has wonderful possibilities for computers and also has the quality of having any word mean the same in any language since he uses numbers instead of letters in his alphabet. He supports himself while championing his new language by working on his 10-acre fruit farm (oh, really?).

The story was written by Sanjoy Hazarika.

Groundhogged

This is silly season for groundhogs. The ones who survived the summer wars are getting cocky now that cold weather is here, which also slows them down.

A friend of mine bagged one with a hammer last week after it had sat and watched him load three loads of silage. Enough is enough, he said and walked to about 10 feet from the hog and let him have it.

And on my way to work the other day I noticed one by the side of the road. I decided to buzz him a little just to check his reflexes. Either they weren't working or he was unconcerned because I could have leaned over and kicked him in the rump on my way by if I had thought about it soon enough.

A good recipe for groundhog is to boil it thoroughly and then barbecue it like spare ribs with a sauce. It's okay to let the flame sear the meat a little if you want. Either way it's good eatin'.

Perkins to speak at CALF center

Seventh District Congressman Carl D. Perkins will be the guest speaker at the grand opening of the Nicholas County Center next Monday, Oct. 8 at the old Nicholas County Hospital on the Moorefield Road.

The center, which is funded by Community Action Lexington-Fayette County CALF) and the Nicholas County Fiscal Court, houses Head Start and elderly services as well as a community clothing bank. A day-care center is in the planning stages and is expected to begin in the near future.

Also expected to speak at the grand opening and open house is William "Sonny" Walker, regional director of the Community Services Administration for Region IV-Atlanta of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The ceremonies will begin at 9:30 a.m.

EKU offers horse course

Some university students will be earning academic credits as well as dollars next spring by working full time on thoroughbred horse farms.

Eastern Kentucky University will provide up to nine hours of academic credit to these students for those on-the-job experience will be complemented on Tuesday evenings by the course, the Sport and Business of Thoroughbred Racing.

This opportunity of learning while earning will be provided by Eastern's Cooperative Education Program and the Department of Economics in the EKU College of Business which offers the course. Students participating are required to have at least one year of college work.

The work on the thoroughbred farms will begin Jan. 15 and last through June 15. Dr. Robert Sharp, instructor of the course, and Ken Noah, co-op education coordinator, say the major objective of the work experience is to provide first-hand knowledge on operating the race horse farm as a business.

"Interest in such an arrangement appears strong, particularly among universities outside Kentucky, which consider the experience as complementing academic offerings," Sharp said.

By advised interested students in other universities to enter Eastern for the spring semester and then have their credits from the co-op program transferred to their own programs in the other schools.

Unemployment up but rate is stable

Statistics released by the Department for Human Resources last week indicate the state'd unemployment rate remained unchanged from July to August, while the number of unemployed persons increased.

The unemployment rate for July and August was 5.6 percent. Unemployed Kentuckians numbered 89,000 in August, up 1,400 from the 87,600 out of work the month before.

Robert MacDonald, chief labor market annalyst for the department's Bureau for Manpower Services, explained that the rate remained the same despite the increase in the number of jobless people because the number of working people also increased.

"Through additional job opportunities in August, the civilian labor force increased by 25,000 over the number of people working in July," he said.

The primary cause of the increase in unemployment was lay-offs in manufacturing, trade and mining, said MacDonald. Of those unemployed, 67.7 percent were lay-off status waiting for their original jobs to re-open.

"The remaining 32.3 percent out of work included persons trying to enter or re-enter the labor force," he said. "Many of them were youths entering the labor force for the first time."

The total number of Kentuckians working in August was 1,494,700, approximately 13,500 fewer people working than in August 1978.

The national unemployment rate for August was 5.9 percent.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions — horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

OFF TO THE RACES — Sol.: 12 letters
