Falmouth Dam resolution made

A resolution calling on Kentucky's congressional delegation to work toward the construction of the Falmouth Lake project was passed by the Senate on April 11.

Sen. Ed Ford, D-Cynthiana, sponsored SR 76, which notes that despite some 36 years of study by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, and expenditure of $1 million in federal funds the Corps cannot yet recommend to Congress that the project be constructed.

"It is time the property owners in this area be released from this possible impediment of their land. They have literally been hostage for over 40 years, and they are entitled to make some plans for the normal development of their property," Senator Ford said. Ford was joined on the Senate Resolution by Sen. Nelson Alden, D-Bellefonte.

A RESOLUTION requesting Congress to deauthorize the Falmouth Lake Project. WHEREAS, the 1960 General Assembly has passed House Bill 147 which expressly requires the approval of the General Assembly before the initiation of a cost-sharing contract for the construction of any federal reservoir and no legislation supporting the expenditure of federal funds for a recreational cost-sharing contract at the Falmouth Lake Project has been introduced in the General Assembly; and

WHEREAS, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, despite the expenditure of $1,000,000 federal tax dollars, $600,000 of which has been spent since 1970, cannot yet, according to the U.S. Government Accounting Office, recommend to Congress that a Falmouth Lake Project of any scope should be constructed and

WHEREAS, the Corps of Engineers now requires the Commonwealth of Kentucky to expend millions of state dollars for day-use and overnight camping facilities as a part of a Falmouth Lake Project of any scope that could favorably be recommended to Congress; and

WHEREAS, the project as identified by the Corps of Engineers would require the Commonwealth to anticipate a minimum expenditure of $1,400,000 annually for fifty years for accumulated obligations to the state of $70,000,000 and

WHEREAS, the construction of a Falmouth Lake Project of any scope will mean the acquisition of 38,000 to 45,000 acres of private land, 10,000 acres of which are considered prime farmland; and

WHEREAS, local development in the proposed impoundment area has been stifled by the forty year history as an authorized project of Congress; and

WHEREAS, the Congress would not review the Falmouth project for deauthorization for at least seven (7) more years if the Commonwealth does not express its intention to spend state tax dollars for recreation facilities, while confining to hold the Falmouth Lake Project as an authorized project, thus retaining development in the proposed impoundment area.

of the classes of 1929, 1932, 1930 and 1930. There were 180 returning alumni and from these 90 were selected as recipients of the Certificate of Honor.

Teaching for almost 40 years has its moments and Miss Flora has plenty of them stored in her memory but the ones she remembers best are from her days at the school she attended in Carlisle, where she joined the staff shortly after her graduation from UK.

Her older sister had been a student at the school and Miss Flora learned sign language from her. One of her first days at the school she saw an amusing incident that told her a little of how the deaf use things.

A young man was acting up in the lunch line when Miss Flora mentioned him to be still and behave himself. The young man apparently had something to say to his friends because he lifted his coat and began making signs behind it where Miss Flora could see what he was "saying". "That's their way of whispering," she said. "They make the signs behind their coat. So I just walked around where I could see."

"What was he saying?" "His sign said 'This new one can read signs,'" she laughed. "I didn't say any signs when I was talking him to behave himself," Miss Flora said, "but he heard me whisper; he could hear a little."

One student's distress puzzled Miss Flora. "On a bright, sunny day he could hear just as well as you or I. But if it was a dark, rainy day he couldn't hear it," she said.

"I used to take him to the movies and he could just about hear everything that was said. If he ever missed anything he'd tap my arm and I'd explain it with signs."

The class of 1930, Miss Flora's class, was especially recognized at the UK Spring Reunions.

THE CARING CORNER

Matthew 25:36 "I was naked and you clothed me. I was sick and you visited me. While attending the annual meeting of our local Hospital Auxiliary the other day I was inspired by the level of commitment of the members of our group. They give their time to help other people. You know, time is one of the most important resources that we have. And here were individuals who were willing to give others a 40-hour week in their own jobs, but for the gain of others. One person remarked to me, 'Well, if it all that I had left to help other people.' Did you know that one person had donated over 1,500 hours. It's good to see so many fellow citizens believe that we are our brothers' and sisters' keepers."

How about you? Donated any time lately to the welfare of another? Join us this Sunday as we learn to become keepers.
