Editor's notes

Swan song

This is the last column from me you readers will have to endure. I'm sure if the people of Carlisle and Nicholas County extend to Dennis the same courtesy, kindness and neighborliness as I was shown he won't have many problems. I'm not saying he won't have any, but I'm sure he will find this community as friendly as any you can find anywhere.

Actually I'm still new at this column business. I started in newspapers with a column but, with the exception of a short effort in the mid-70s, that was my one and only until I came to Carlisle.

My purpose in this space has been mainly to entertain. The information should have been found in the other pages of the paper. If at times it seemed as if there could be more that's just one of the drawbacks of a small weekly paper: there's never space to print all the news.

In the next few weeks I'll be making some career decisions and, looking back, it seems so far to have been a vocation that has given me a front row seat at many of the newsmaking events of the past few years.

I remember sitting in an apartment in Stearns, Kentucky and hearing coal miners and security guards shooting it out after dark less than a quarter of a mile away. In America's Bicentennial Year it was a sobering thought to realize that some people still felt they could only settle their differences with bullets.

I also remember standing next to a black Associated Press photographer from Cleveland at the impromptu morgue that was set up at a northern Kentucky high school gym after the Beverly Hills disaster. He was taking pictures with a long telephoto lens of a young man who was staggering out of the morgue in the arms of two priests.

That photo, of a young man, his head thrown back, his face consumed with grief, made the front pages of newspapers all across the country and it wasn't until I picked one up from my doorstep that I realized the young man was my cousin. He had just identified his mother and two sisters and suddenly the 169 people that had died in that disaster became more than statistics to me.

That's this business: the good with the bad. If it seems there's more bad than good it only means we're not looking hard enough.

At the beginning of my last week as editor of the Mercury I attended a cookout with some old friends and some new ones. As we watched a small child ramble through the yard one person there said, "That's what it's all about. The young ones and the old folks in their homes. We're just in the middle, trying to get by."

From a man in the middle, to all the new friends I have made in Carlisle and Nicholas County I'd like to say, "Thanks." Thanks for your cooperation and interest. Thanks for your news tips and for the times you took the time to say thanks to us. Above all, as ol' Bob Hope says, "Thanks for the memories."

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions — horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a curve around each letter of a word found in the puzzle then strike it off the list. Circling it will show it letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

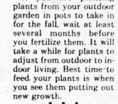
THE HOME GAME

BY VIRGINIA TRUAX



ALL THAT GLITTERS — Did you know an emergency silver polish can be made by making a paste of cornstarch and a bit of water?

FAKE IT — Frustration is having a dab of gravy that won't stretch enough for one more meal. It will if you add a can of undiluted tomato soup, a teaspoon of lemon juice and a tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce to the leftover gravy.

BRINY BATH — Soak spinach in salt water and you'll save many rinses. And if you cook it right away, there'll be no need to add water to the pan. Enough will cling to the leaves to cook it properly.

NUTS TO YOU — Nut meats too steep for your budget? Substitute sesame seeds. Saute seeds to a golden brown in a little butter to bring out this nutty flavor and add to your favorite recipe.

Laugh Out

Old hen: "Let me give you a good piece of advice."

Young hen: "What is it?"

Old hen: "An egg a day keeps the axe away."

The Happy Gardener

PROBLEM SOLVERS

If algae forms on clay pots you've set outside, that means you've got a very humid environment which your plants probably love. The algae won't hurt the plants, but it is unsightly. Try scrubbing the pot sides with chlorine bleach and rinse well — do it carefully so bleach does not get into soil. Next year, put plants out in silicone-treated clay pots or in plastic containers if algae is really a nuisance. • • •

If you are planting plants from your outdoor garden in pots to take in for the fall, wait at least several months before you fertilize them. It will take a while for plants to adjust from outdoor to indoor living. Best time to feed your plants is when you see them putting out new growth. • • •

Late summer heat waves aren't as good for your plants as you might think. Flowering annuals often shrivel up in the midafternoon sun to reduce the surface of leaves and flowers and retain more moisture. Give them lots of water — in the soil, and by misting foliage and flowers.

THE CARING CORNER

Philippians 1:21 "For to me to live is Christ. . ."

It has been a very hot, dry summer. Last Sunday a young boy was asked by his neighbor, "Greg, did you go to church this morning?" "Yes, sir," answered Greg. "Did you pray for rain?" "No, sir," answered Greg. "Why didn't you pray for rain?" After a moment Greg answered, "Well, I'll tell you, I'm afraid of thunder and lightning."

We smile, but like Greg, are we afraid of total commitment to Christ, for fear of possible consequences which we do not want to bear or suffer? Let us not forget the great sacrifice that Jesus made for us, and let us not follow him from afar, but in close communion and TOTAL commitment. Jesus did not promise an easy way, but he did say, "Come, take up your cross, and follow me, and I will be with you ALL the way."

Join us this Sunday in caring.

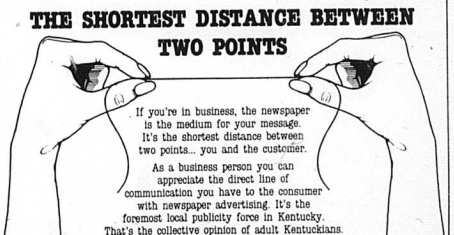
THE SHORTEST DISTANCE BETWEEN TWO POINTS



If you're in business, the newspaper is the medium for your message. It's the shortest distance between two points... you and the customer.

As a business person you can appreciate the direct line of communication you have to the consumer with newspaper advertising. It's the foremost local publicity force in Kentucky. That's the collective opinion of adult Kentuckians.

The customers say the newspaper is the most believable and influential source of advertising when compared to radio and television.*

It is also the single most preferred source of advertising as revealed by Kentuckians.*

Newspaper advertising... it's the shortest distance between two points... you and the customers.
