

Agree or Not

There is some discussion among the Democrat legislators, who are in the majority in the General Assembly, of moving the primary down into August as it used to be two or three decades ago. This would allow more time between the end of legislative session and the primary.

The practicality of these two events was brought about by the constitutional change made in November 1979 in change section 4 of the constitution. It was then that the primary election of legislators from odd-numbered years to even numbered years so they would have the year of committee reappointment before going into a legislative session.

The political jockeying now is in such a state that no legislating can be made about the change of action to be pursued in developing the budget.
