Mrs. William S. Vicé

Hopkins-Vice exchange vows

Pamela Dell Hopkins, daughter of Mrs. Della Linville and Mr. Albert Hopkins, and William Samuel Vice, son of Mrs. Trienzi Horn and the late Harold Gene Vice, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, June 14, 1980 at the Moorefield Methodist Church. The Rev. Howard Livingood officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of pre-nuptial music was presented by Miss Patricia Hopkins, sister of the bride. Miss Kathy Lyons sang "If", "The Rose", and "The Wedding Song."

Candlelighters were Kent Hopkins and David Hopkins, brothers of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white woven polyester, fully lined in taffeta with a raised waist, sweetheart neckline, long illusion sleeves and full skirt that formed a chapel train. The neckline, bodice and sleeves were appliqued with lace and a border of lace enchanted the front pleated panel. Her veil was trimmed with simulated pearls and lace appliques to match her gown. She carried a bouquet of silk apricot roses and poms on a white Bible.

Miss Kathy Lyons served as maid of honor. She wore a floor length dress of apricot polyester knit, fashioned with a soft gathered empire waistline and a capelet collar with ivory lace trim. She carried a bouquet of apricot silk roses and poms with apricot streamers. Bridesmaids were Miss Lisa Cundiff, Miss Donnita Smart and Miss Debbie Knippenberg. They wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor and each carried bouquets of apricot roses and poms.

Best man was Greg Reid of New Orleans, Louisiana. Ushers were Steve Curtsinger, Keith Coatney and Eugene Glass, brother-in-law of the groom.

Mrs. Connie Wills, sister of the bride presided at the guest book.

A reception was held at the church immediately following the ceremony. Those assisting were Mrs. Lucille Clark, Mrs. Naomi Dale, Mrs. Kathy Caswell, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Delna Livingood, cousin of the bride.

After a short wedding trip, the couple is residing in Moorefield.

THE CARING CORNER

Mark 12:30 "And you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind, and with all your strength."

Only my hair stylist knows for sure! They used to be called barbers, but now they charge so much that they want to be called a "stylist." Yet sometimes they deserve every cent we give them. Not for styling our hair, but for listening to us. My "stylist" is a listener, a confidant, a counselor, a news commentator, and a hair cutter all rolled up into one person. But my "stylist" is even more — she's terrific. The last time she styled my hair she began telling me about the things and person she loved the most and how she was going to enjoy them on her vacation, and what they meant to her through her daily life. Some people call what she was doing by several names: polite conversation, sharing, or barber-shop chatter. Yet the Bible calls it witnessing!

Why not ask your hair stylist what they love the most and see if they mention a person by the name of Jesus, too?

Join us this Sunday as we learn how to witness like a hair stylist.

Kay's Kitchen

— By Kay Fisher —

The season is short, the ripening time is illusive, and the berries are becoming harder and harder to find!

Blackberries are what I'm speaking of. Local berries were not ripe last week and I hope this will be the right week to give you some recipes for this delicious fruit. In my collection of hundreds of recipes there are very few using blackberries. So if you have a special one you like, why not share it? I would be glad to run it in this column.

MAGIC BLACKBERRY PIE

1 Vanilla Wafer Pastry or Graham Cracker Pastry
1 cup sweetened condensed milk
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup blackberries
½ cup heavy cream, whipped
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Prepare 8-inch pie plate with Vanilla Wafer Pastry. Combine condensed milk and lemon juice. Add blackberries and pour into pastry. Top with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored.

VANILLA WAFER PASTRY

¾ cup finely crushed vanilla wafers
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup butter
1 tablespoon water
Whole vanilla wafers as needed

Combine crumbs and sugar. Add to softened butter. Stir in water. Press over bottom of pie plate. Stand halved wafers around edge. Use without baking.

SPICED BLACKBERRIES

5 pounds blackberries
4 cups firmly packed brown sugar
2 cups vinegar
1 tablespoon whole cloves
2 sticks cinnamon
8 whole allspice

Dissolve sugar in vinegar; add blackberries and spices tied in cheese cloth. Boil rapidly until thick. Remove spices, pour into clean hot jars and seal. Makes 5 pints.

BLACKBERRY FLUMMERY

1 quart blackberries
½ cup sugar, or sugar to taste
1 cup water
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Sponge cake, cut in strips

Wash and pick over berries, add sugar and water, heat to boiling. Make a thin paste of cornstarch and two additional tablespoons water; add slowly to blackberries and cook 15 minutes, stirring constantly until thickened. Add lemon juice. Taste for sweetness. Chill. Serve in sherbet glasses lined with strips of sponge cake. Approximately 6 servings. Good topped with whipped cream.

*****

Blackberries are also good served as a shortcake dessert. Use your favorite shortbread recipe and serve as you would strawberries.

And of course there are jam cakes made with blackberry jam, fresh fruit pies, rolls and cobblers. Do enjoy this delicious fruit during its short season.

Average farm acre worth $641

Activity in the farm real estate market is expected to decline this year, primarily due to the combined effects of high interest rates and tight credit during the first half of the year, along with the recession and the decline in net farm income. During the survey year ending Feb. 1, 1981, the price of farmland is likely to increase between 8 and 10 percent — well below the 13-percent average rate of increase over the last 19 years. For the first quarter of 1980, the Federal Reserve Banks of Chicago and Kansas City reported a slow-to-negative growth in farmland values.

Farmland prices increased an average of 15 percent during the year ending Feb. 1, 1980, slightly above the 14-percent general inflation rate (increase in the Consumer Price Index) for the same period. The size of the average farm increased from 449 to 452 acres in the 48 contiguous states, and the value of the average farm increased from $251,000 to $290,000. Just 5 years ago the average farm size was 426 acres and the value was only $114,000.

The average acre of farmland is now worth $641. The state averages reflect land quality and the intensity of use, ranging from $112 an acre in New Mexico to $2,400 an acre in New Jersey. The total value of farm real estate was $668 billion on February 1, up $84 billion from a year earlier. Building values accounted for $111 billion or 17 percent of the total value.

During the survey year ending Feb. 1, 1980, the average price of farmland increased most in Louisiana, up 29 percent, and Maryland, up 25 percent. Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Missouri, and California also showed gains of 20 percent or more. Farmland prices increased by less than 10 percent in 13 other states. The slowest rates of increase were generally found in the Northeast and Appalachian regions.

The total number of farms fell one percent during the survey year, compared with a 1.6-percent decrease during the previous year. Farm enlargment continued to account for 63 percent of all farmland purchases. The number of farm transfers was unchanged from the previous year's level at 85,800, while the rate of farm transfers increased slightly to 40 tracts per 1,000 farms. The tight credit situation in some areas of the country in the first half of the year and the decrease in net farm income are expected to reduce the rate of farm transfers in 1980.

A record-high 91 percent of all farm transfers during the survey year were credit financed. Sellers and Federal land banks supplied 72 percent of the credit, up from 67 percent. Life insurance companies dropped their market share by providing only 7 percent of the credit, compared with 10 percent last year and 15 percent the year before.

Transfers of farmland expected to remain in agricultural use 5 years after the date of purchase remained around levels of recent years, accounting for 82 percent of all purchases, 89 percent of the total acres, and 88 percent of the total value transferred. Expected use as a rural residence continued to be the most common form of competition, accounting for 8 percent of the purchases. For most uses, the average price per acre for tracts under 100 acres was at least twice as high as the overall average price.

Cash rents generally continued upward, but in most of the states surveyed, the rate of increase failed to match the rate of inflation. In most states the ratio of gross cash rents to land prices continued to drop.

Copies of Farm Real Estate Market Developments, CD-85, will be available in a week to 10 days. For further information contact Ron Jeremias, (202) 447-7340.

News briefly

State parks set record

The Kentucky State Parks System had its biggest month ever this June, with total revenues exceeding $3.8 million, Commissioner Lou Karibo has announced. The revenue represents a 17 percent increase from sales of $3.3 million last June, he said.

Revenue includes fees for accommodations, gift shop sales and dining room sales.

Enthusiastic employees, efficient administration, good weather and increased visitation by Kentuckians have added to the revenue, Karibo explained.

According to a study of visitation figures in six of the parks, the total number of visitors from January through June 1980 increased by 7 percent compared to the same period a year ago.

The percentage of Kentuckians staying overnight at state parks increased from 44 percent in 1979 to 52 percent during the first six months of 1980.
