Appalachian festival at Morehead

Workshops, courses, exhibits, concerts, dances, lectures and discussions focusing on the Appalachian experience will highlight Morehead State University's Fourth Annual Appalachian Celebration June 22-27.

Concerts will be presented by The McLean Family Band on June 25, and performances by J.P. and Annadene Frisley, Crain Williams, Edna Richele Baker and Alfred Bailey are scheduled June 22. Music begins each evening at 8 p.m.

A heritage arts workshop is also scheduled including classes in music, literature, dance and crafts which are part of the Appalachian culture and tradition.

Scholar-in-residence Crain Williams, an authority on Appalachian literature and folklore, will conduct a class in ballads, storytelling and collecting techniques with programs beginning at 7 p.m. each evening on June 22 and 26.

Dr. James M. Gifford, coordinator of Appalachian Studies at MSU, will present a slide program on "Cora Wilson Stewart and the Moonlight School Movement" while Dr. E.C. Pullerig, Head of MSU's Department of Music, and Sissy Clark, recreation specialist for MSU's Appalachian Development Center, will lead traditional dancing each evening.

The celebration, sponsored by the ADK, will be at Baird Music Hall. All events are free and open to the public. Additional information is available from the Appalachian Development Center, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40301 or by calling 606/785-4731.

Letters

paper covered the events in their cities we had hoped for the same.
A few of our personnel have received terrorist threats regarding the situation, so I did consider it a public affair. I think we have enough people with good common sense at the university and in this town to know this isn't the kind of people we need representing us.
We have always had a decent community in which to live and raise our children; most people would like to remain so. I would also like to extend my thanks for the advice from Letters to the Editor.
Sincerely,
Louise McCarty

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am an employee at BGI and have been for seven years. I'm not there to make a living the same as the rest of the employees. The way they talk, they think we're out there for the fun of it. Some of them said that they were paying for homes. At least they can afford one. That's more than I can say for myself. What I'm saying is that they make a lot more than I do.
This is supposed to be a free country but when we try to express our beliefs we are suspended or given a hard time by other employees. What I can't understand is that people can hold meetings on something they know nothing about. I think all people should listen to both sides instead of the lies that politicians are telling.

I'm not in this for money or more benefits, just to be noticed like a person instead of a work horse, just to make BGI rich. But its pretty bad when some of the employees have to work at BGI and draw food stamps and welfare to live. The employees are being told that if the union comes in that they will lose all benefits, holiday and vacation pay.
I would like to take the opportunity to tell you that if more lies to scare you employees out. Please don't be scared. It's a free country so at least give the union a chance.
Patricia Lyons

To the Carlisle Mercury:
Dear friends of mine that I had like we have been run over and dirt thrown in our faces long enough. It's time to stand up for what we think and believe in. Girls I have worked with for years don't understand that we have rights just like the over heads.
Why is it some of us are allowed to make what they think is enough money for us to get by on and some can make twice as much. You all know this.
They say what does a United Commercial Workers Food Union know about what we see? How many have given this union a chance to let us decide.
I'm a woman, a worker at Blue Grass and I'm ready to stand up for what I want. Don't let anyone stand and sell you anything. Go find out for yourself. Be your own person.
I think and believe with my whole heart that this union will help us and my children when they work at Blue Grass in years to come.

New member opportunity...supplement your Medicare with as much as $250,000 lifetime coverage.

If you're 65 or over, or soon will be, then you owe it to yourself to look into the benefits of Blue Cross and Blue Shield Medicare Supplement Programs.

As you probably know, Medicare does not pay for health care services that are expensive or very costly. And a long or complicated illness may leave you with a financial burden. That's why we urge you to consider our Medicare Supplement Programs. They provide additional benefits without Supplemental Medicare.

They not only meet the Part A co-payments and deductibles, but extend your lifetime maximum to as much as $250,000 for catastrophic coverage.

These programs provide additional benefits, after an annual deductible is met, for: Part A's 90-day hospital benefit, extended nursing facilities, plus more. There are no health questions to answer.

Prescription Drug Coverage
The High Option Medicare Supplement Plan provides prescription drug benefits. Drugs required by Medicare can be covered at the rate of 80% after a separate deductible of $100 per calendar year.

social services, and this has a strong impact. In one area alone for social services next year, a modest increase will be made to payments under the Aid for Dependent Children category. This is the first increase since 1974, but this program is of such scope that it makes a big impact on the budget and will take a big slice of money, Warren said.

Warren said such increases at this time is the reason for retrenchment in some areas of social services. They care controls in the urban areas in one program that has been the last out and people have complained about it.

"You've got to cut somewhere," Warren said, "to keep up with inflation and stay within the budget."

Social services takes one of the largest slices of the state budget, and education comes in for a large share.

Highway revenue has declined in recent months as the price of gasoline has continued to rise. The biggest share of the road fund comes from gasoline taxes, and people have reduced their driving to cut family expenses.

The 1980 legislature approved a 1300 million bond issue to be used for roads in the next two years. This approval doesn't mean necessarily that the bonds must be issued, but the ability is there if the state needs the money.
