Kay's Kitchen

— By Kay Fisher —

For those who have a slow cooker this is a time to put it to good use. This is a busy time for everyone. If not with cleaning, it is gardening or something. No one has time right now to take a lot of time to do long time cooking. However, the recipes this week are adapted for slow cooking, and regular cooking. When I read these recipes I was tempted to break down and get a slow cooker, but since I've alow to make changes in the way I cook, I'll just go along with the same old skillet and cooking pot.

Chili Con Carne is simplified in a slow cooker since all the ingredients can be added at once. Just place everything in the cooker and cook for 10 or 12 hours.

CHILI CON CARNE

1 pound pinto beans (dried)
6 cups water
1 cup diced onion
1 clove garlic, minced
¾ cup diced celery
½ pound lean ground beef
¾ pound pork steak (cut in ¼-inch cubes)
1 (29 ounce) can tomatoes
1 (6 ounce) can tomato paste
1 chicken bouillon cube
1½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon cumin
2½ tablespoons chili powder

Soak beans in water overnight. (For quick soak, bring beans and water to boil and boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand 1 hour.) Drain beans, reserving 1 cup liquid. Alternate beans with remaining ingredients in slow cooker. Add reserved 1 cup liquid. Cover and cook on low, 10 to 12 hours. Serve over steamed rice, if desired. For variety, top with grated Cheddar cheese, finely diced onion and diced avocado. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Without slow cooker:

Soak beans in water overnight or use quick soak described above. Simmer beans 2 hours, or until tender. Drain beans, reserving 1 cup liquid. Saute onion, garlic and celery in 1 tablespoon oil. Remove vegetables. Brown ground beef and pork cubes. Add beans, reserved 1 cup bean liquid, sauteed vegetables and remaining ingredients. Cover and simmer 1 hour.

Only the spaghetti or noodles need to be cooked for the following two recipes. Just add a salad and dessert for a delicious meal.

SLOW COOKER
CHICKEN CACCIATORE

1 chicken, cut up (about 3 pounds)
1 clove garlic, split
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 can (15 ounces) tomato sauce
¼ cup dry white wine
1 small onion, chopped
Salt
½ teaspoon basil
1/8 teaspoon pepper
½ bay leaf, crumbled
8 ounces spaghetti

In slow cooking pot with browning unit, lightly brown chicken and garlic in oil. (If pot has no browning unit, use a skillet or eliminate browning.) Pour off drippings. Add tomato sauce, wine, onion, 1 teaspoon salt, basil, pepper and bay leaf. Cover and cook on low setting 4 to 5 hours.

Cook spaghetti according to package directions. Drain. Serve with chicken and sauce.

EASY CHICKEN WITH NOODLES

1 chicken (3½ to 3 pounds) cut in serving pieces
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
1 medium onion, chopped
½ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon marjoram
Dash pepper
2 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons cold water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 can (16 ounces) cut green beans, drained
8 ounces medium egg noodles

Place chicken in slow cooking pot. Combine soup, onion, paprika, marjoram and pepper. Pour over chicken. Cover and cook on low setting 4½ hours. Stir together flour and cold water until smooth. Mix into liquids in pot with lemon juice. Add green beans. Cover and cook 30 minutes longer. Cook noodles according to package directions. Drain. Serve chicken mixture over noodles.

Dr. McGuire

Nicholas native at Bryn Mawr for summer

The new assistant to the president for faculty-staff relations at the University of Montevallo, Dr. Gertrude McGuire, has been accepted into the Summer Institute for Women in Higher Education Administration at Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Dr. McGuire, who is also a professor of business, is a nine-year member of the College of Business faculty at Montevallo, an 83-year-old state university near Birmingham.

At the summer institute, Dr. McGuire will study finance and budgeting, academic governance and planning, management and leadership skills, government relations and administrative computer applications, as well as development of individual career planning and professional development.

A native of Carlisle, Ky., she earned her B.A. at Union College (Ky.), M.A. at Eastern Kentucky University, and Ed.D. at the University of Tennessee. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Mynear of Carlisle.

Dr. McGuire was recently named to the faculty-staff relations position, which supervises UM's equal opportunity and affirmative action programs and other matters related to employee relations.

Her husband, Dr. Robert McGuire, teaches in the Montevallo Biology Department.

Ronda Goodman is MCC graduate

Ronda C. Goodman of Nicholas County was one of 65 Maysville Community College students to receive a degree at the school's 11th annual commencement exercises recently.

Dr. Ray Hornback, University of Kentucky vice president for university relations, presented the commencement message. Dr. Harry Benson, assistant director for academic affairs, presented the candidates for their degrees.

Miss Julie McDonald

Wedding is May 17

Mrs. Mary McDonald of Carlisle and Rodney McDonald of Lexington announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Julie Louise, to Donald Brewer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Brewer of Sharpsburg.

The wedding will be Saturday, May 17 at 7 p.m. at the Carlisle Christian Church. Everyone is welcome.

TOPS to meet on Thursdays

Are you interested in losing weight? Meet with others who have a similar problem. A new TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) has been organized in Carlisle.

Meetings will be held every Thursday night at 6:30 at the Nicholas County Library basement.

THE CARING CORNER

I Timothy 2:8 "I desire that in every place the men should pray."

While eating lunch at a friend's home, their six-year-old son sat at the table next to me eating his hot dog. He and I began talking about prayer when he blurted out at his father, "Why don't we pray before we eat?" Dad, caught off guard, mumbled, "Usually, we don't have time for that." The son responded, "That's just like my dog Whiskers: he starts right in eating too!" I almost choked on my food trying not to laugh!

I believe we are missing one of the most exciting and powerful forces open to us—the simple prayer. We need to quit nodding our heads yes when someone asks us if we believe in it—and start practicing it. Why not keep track of the number of minutes you pray this week? Just for fun. And see how much time you actually spend with God.

Join us this Sunday as we learn to spend time with God.

Library Notes

Jorita Anderson, Librarian
Freda Sparks, Bookmobile driver

The library is open on Monday from 11:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 9 to 5 p.m. We invite everyone to come in and take advantage of the services the library has to offer.

Here are some new books we have received this month:

"A Few Days In Weasel Creek" by Joanna Brent. A young Georgia farmer fed-up with country life decides to head west. Along the way, he meets a good looking girl whose only possession is a travel trailer. Their story is one of the most touching, genuine love stories to cojue along in many a year.

"Private Practice" by Linda Wolfe. The suspense packed story of two doctors whose beside manners in no way reflect the deadly, psychological struggles under which they live. A devastating portrait of corruption and cover-up within the medical establishment.

"The Bourne Identity" by Robert Ludlum. Jason Bourne is a marked man with two identities — an assassin with a heart and soul of compassion. Readers will be clamoring for this big, new Ludlum thriller.

"No Love Lost" by Helen Van Slyke. This is Helen Van Slyke's ninth novel, completed just before her untimely death in July 1979. The sage of an American family from the Great Depression to the 1970's is the crowning achievement of a legendary writer.

"Innocent Blood" by P.D. James. Adopted at age eight, Philippa learns that she is the child of a rapist and a murderess about to be paroled. Philippa is caught up in the past as the father of her mother's victim comes seeking revenge. P.D. James departs from her usual detective novel to write a crime story with a difference.

"The Earth and All It Holds" by V.J. Banis. A fiery saga of love and betrayal among the brash millionaires of California's gold coast at the turn of the century.

"The Bleeding Heart" by Marilyn French. The author of the long-running bestseller "The Women's Room" writes the love story of Delores and Victor, adults in their forties who meet in London, instantly fall in love and discover that they agree on nothing. A powerful story destined for even greater success than her first book.

Agree or not said, "every move we make in the refurbishing is going to be expensive."

As always, rumors fly around Frankfort on major moves concerning the governor. The story now is that Mrs. Brown doesn't want to live in the mansion, but would prefer living in their Cave Hill home in Lexington to associate with the Lexington horse society.

Atkins says this isn't true. "Mrs. Brown and the governor did not want to move out of the mansion. They wanted to stay there at least until the Derby Breakfast was over."

Since the electricity and plumbing was in poor working order in the mansion, the governor asked for an inspection March 10. When he got the report from the fire marshal, he moved out.

Even back as far as 1960, there was mention made that the mansion be made into a court building for the state's highest court, and that a mansion be built on the Berry Hill property just atop Louisville Hill to the west of the Capitol.

The Historical Society, Garden Clubs and other organizations fight this suggestion. Beauchamp said no thought of such a move is being entertained at the moment. He said his estimate is that a new mansion atop Berry Hill would cost between $2.5 and $3 million.
