David Moore chosen to write for Baptist news journal

David L. Moore, pastor of Lincoya Hills Baptist Church, Nashville, Tenn., has been named to write the Bible Book series commentary for this quarter for Baptist and Reflector News Journal of Tennessee Baptist Convention.

Rev. Moore, a native of Carlisle, became pastor of the Lincoya Hills Church in 1974. Before that he was pastor of Providence Baptist Church, Frankfort, Ky.

Active in the life of the Nashville Baptist Association, Moore has served on the youth committee and as chairman of the nominating committee, 1979-80. He has written articles and curriculum for several Baptist periodicals.

Moore is a graduate of Nicholas County High School, Georgetown College and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville. He is the son of Mrs. Hazel L. Moore and the late Gerald Moore, Carlisle. He is married to the former Anne Westerfield of Louisville. They have one daughter, Emily, who is five years old.

Mrs. Sandi Letton speaks to Council of English teachers

Mrs. Sandi Leiton was a guest speaker at the National Council of English teachers in Cincinnati on Saturday, Nov. 22.

Her topic was "Mainstreaming — An Opportunity For All." Mainstreaming programs are now part of a federal law that requires special education students be placed in a regular education classroom whenever possible. Mrs. Letton's speech dealt with methods of incorporating the mainstreamed student into the overall school system. She specifically gave program outlines for principals, regular classroom and special education classroom teachers to use in order to create an efficient, workable program.

Mrs. Letton is presently teaching at Millersburg Military Institute. She has participated in the mainstreaming program for several years and has taken part in a similar presentation at the University of Kentucky.

Kay's Kitchen

By Kay Fisher

Here it is Thanksgiving and so much cooking needs to be done. Have made by Pecan Cake and it is mellowing, I hope. I am helping thaling a bit.

Have had several good recipes sent me the last week or so and will pass them along to you.

GOLDEN PECAN PIE

¾ cup sugar
1 tablespoon all purpose flour
Pinch of salt
3 eggs, well beaten
1 cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons margarine
1 cup pecan halves
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell

Combine dry ingredients in large mixing bowl. Add eggs, syrup, vanilla, and margarine. Beat with mixer until well blended. Stir in pecans. Pour into pastry shell. Bake at 350 degrees for 55 to 60 minutes.

—Helen Hamm

PUREED WINTER VEGETABLE SOUP

1 medium onion, chopped
3 tablespoons butter
2 large turnips, peeled and sliced
6 carrots, peeled and sliced
2 red potatoes, peeled and sliced
6 cups chicken stock
Salt and pepper to taste
Dash of grated nutmeg
1 cup heavy cream
2 egg yolks
Fresh chopped parsley

Saute onion in butter in a large heavy pan. Add stock and vegetables and cook until vegetables are tender, about 20 to 25 minutes. Puree in processor or blender. Return to pan and reheat. Beat egg yolks with cream till blended. Whisk into soup; heat but do not boil. Top with parsley and serve hot.

Now to answer the request for the sourdough bread.

SOURDOUGH STARTER

To make starter batter: Dissolve 1 package active dry yeast in ½ cup warm water (115-120 degrees). Stir in 2 cups warm water, 2 cups all-purpose flour, 1 tablespoon sugar and 1 teaspoon salt. Beat till smooth. Let stand, uncovered, at room temperature 3 to 5 days. Stir 2 or 3 times daily; cover at night. (Starter should have a yeasty, not sour, smell.) Cover and refrigerate till ready to make bread.

To keep starter going: Add ½ cup all-purpose flour, ½ cup water and 1 teaspoon sugar to leftover starter. Let stand till bubbly and well fermented, at least 1 day. Store in refrigerator. If not used within 10 days, add 1 teaspoon sugar.

SOURDOUGH LOAF BREAD

1 cup Sourdough Starter
2½ cups water
5 cups flour
3 tablespoons melted shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
½ to 1 teaspoon soda (depending on sourness of starter)

Melted butter or margarine

In a large bowl combine the starter, water and flour. Cover and leave overnight at room temperature. The next day add shortening, sugar, salt and soda and stir until well blended.

Turn over dough on a well-floured board; knead thoroughly, adding more flour as needed. Divide dough in half; shape into 2 loaves. Place each in a 9x5x3-inch greased loaf pan; let rise until nearly doubled in long axis (hours, since this bread rises more slowly than regular bread).

Brush the loaves with melted butter; bake at 400 degrees for 40 minutes. Turn out of pans to cool.

SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. John Perry, Georgetown, Ill. and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Seip, Rockville, Ind. were guests Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Galbraith. Mr. and Mrs. Perry were here on a geneological study. Mr. Perry and Mr. Galbraith are related in that Mr. Galbraith's grandmother was the great aunt of Mr. Perry.

Miss Kathryn Hanley of Lexington was a visitor in Carlisle, Sunday.

Bob Boothe entered St. Joseph Hospital on Friday for observation and tests. His room number is 453.

Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Bloedel of Ripon, Wis. left Thursday after a visit with her sister, Mrs. Robert Fisher.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold R. Burton and sons, Mike, Kevin and Stuart were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Clark Sunday at Carnico Country Club for Thanksgiving dinner. They will spend Thanksgiving Day with Harold's mother in Owensboro.

English Handbell Choirs to perform here Nov. 30

The English Handbell Choirs of Second Presbyterian Church in Lexington will present a concert of Advent and Christmas music Sunday, Nov. 30 at 3 p.m. at the First Christian Church in Carlisle.

The Bell Choirs, composed of Junior High and Senior High youth were organized about eight years ago. During the past eight years the Carillon Choir has participated in several national as well as regional handbell festivals in Florida, Michigan, Ohio and Kentucky. The Joy Ringers have participated in a state festival and both choirs have rung in worship services in several churches in this area.

According to Betsy D. Steiner, director of the choirs, handbell ringing began in Europe as a way for tower bell ringers to practice inside during bad weather and as a way to train new ringers without disturbing the whole countryside. Handbells were introduced to the United States late in the 19th century and became a true art form in this country with the formation of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers in 1954.

Consumer Protection Hotline number has been changed

The toll-free Consumer Protection Hotline number has been changed, according to Attorney General Steven Beshear. The new phone number is 1-800-432-9257.

The hotline is being housed at the University of Kentucky where students and faculty are participating in a venture to identify consumer problems and aid in their resolutions. The Consumer Protection Division has recently begun to utilize existing networks for the implementation of educational programs.

As a result of the change, the division is expected to increase the level of service it provides the taxpayers of Kentucky without increasing its budget.

This program utilizes students at the University of Kentucky as the operators of the consumer hotline. The hotline project will allow the students to learn about consumer problems and how to most effectively resolve them, Beshear said. After training by the division's staff, and with supervision of the division, students will be able to aid consumers who call the hotline seeking assistance.

Consumers who experience problems in the marketplace are encouraged to call the hotline and request a complaint form. The mediation process which resolves disputes between businesses and consumers will be handled in the same manner as before — the attorney general's consumer protection division will contact the business and work with both parties to facilitate resolution.

Homemakers meet

Parks

The Parks Homemakers met Nov. 10 at 7 p.m. at the Nicholas County Library with Mrs. Thelma Linville and Mrs. Ruth Tincher as hostesses.

Mrs. George Evans gave the devotional from Psalms. A reading "A Time for Thanks" and a poem "Let Me Live" were given. Roll call was answered by 13 members naming their favorite magazine. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The treasurer, Miss Marie Flora, reported on the garage sale. The library meeting room rules were read and discussed. A motion was made and seconded that we spread Christmas cheer by giving three gifts to shut-ins. Miss Marie Flora gave out parts for the Christmas program. Our president, Miss Hazel Swartz, reminded us to bring a Christmas gift for exchange next meeting.

Mrs. Rubel Williams shared safety rules for women traveling alone in a car. Reports on food processing, reading, sewing and home management were given.

Mrs. Edith Bryant was appointed to keep our scrap book with all members helping her. The Homemakers are to help with the reception for the unveiling of the oil painting of Dr. C.W. Mathers. Mrs. Linville told about the Mathers Fund for education.

Mrs. Ina Blair Alexander had charge of the recreational period. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Moorefield

The Moorefield Homemakers held their regular meeting Nov. 6 in the home of Mrs. Angus Jacobs, hostess.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Rusty Lawrence. The devotional was given by Mrs. Jack Becker. The roll was called, to which it answered with a fall flower or shrub they enjoy. Four guests were welcomed.

Chairman reports were given and some announcements were made by the president of up-coming events.

The lesson, "Those Rich in Experience" or "The Later Years in Life" was given by Mrs. Elgin T. Clark. Our game leader, Mrs. James Hamm, led our recreation. A social hour followed with refreshments served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be the Christmas party on Dec. 4 and hostesses are Mrs. J.S. Wilson and Mrs. Harvey Wilson.

Carlisle West

The Carlisle West Homemakers met Friday, Nov. 14 at 1:30 in the club room of the Nicholas County Public Library with 14 of the 19 members present. One of these was the fourth new member to join this year.

The spiritual values were from Psalm 107:1 and a poem, Mrs. W.G. Irvin gave the lesson, "The Later Years of Life", using "Those Rich in Experience and Changes and Choices."

The treasurer's report and minutes were given. Reports on cultural life, sewing, household management and foods were taken. The landscape notes were preserving of seeds in the refrigerator with dried milk in a tightly closed jar. Pictures were shown of five Christmas decorations to be made, one a wreath of baby's breath and straw. Leaflets on energy-wise interiors were distributed, as well as Family Life Newsletter.

Recreation was the 15 parts of a turkey, Mrs. Russell Shrout and Miss Edna Huddleson were the hostesses and served ice cream and cake.

Miranda

The Miranda Homemakers Club met in the home of Mrs. Everett Duncan Nov. 12 for a potluck dinner and meeting. Mrs. Sarah Liver, club president, presided over the meeting.

The devotional from Psalms 107:1, "Thanks", was given by Mrs. Cecil Smart. Mrs. Edith Kendall acted as secretary in absence of Mrs. Betty Tabor. Roll call was answered with a favorite magazine. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Mrs. Shaw gave the lesson on "Old can be beautiful." Three things, attitudes, perceptions and expectations direct our lives from day to day.

The next meeting will be Dec. 10 at the library at 6:30 p.m. A gift exchange will be held.

Headquarters Community meeting set for Dec. 4

There will be a community meeting Dec. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the Headquarters Methodist Church.

This meeting will be for the residents of Headquarters and surrounding areas. We would encourage everyone to attend so that we may discuss problems in your area in hopes that future community action programs may help solve some of these problems.

Farm the place to be at least 34 students think so at MSU

While many people are moving to the urban areas, the farm is still the place to be for 34 Morehead State University students.

Cleaning horse stalls, feeding chickens, putting up hay and even delivering a litter of pigs are just some of the activities the students have experienced.

MSU's 325-acre Derrickson Agricultural Complex is staffed almost entirely by students working 12 to 15 hours a week, doing most of the tasks involving every aspect of farm life.

Twice a week the students are up at 6 a.m. to feed horses, gather eggs, work in the greenhouse and do other chores before going to classes. After classes, its back to the farm work.

Each student is assigned a specific work area but must be ready to help with anything when called upon.

"We all do a little bit of everything," explains Coleta Nunnir, junior animal science major from Lebanon, Mo. "This may involve anything from being awakened in the middle of the night to help deliver a litter of pigs to learning to operate a tractor."

Jimmy Powell, freshman agricultural education major from Winchester, adds that the work is hard at times, but the students enjoy it and still have time to relax and enjoy other activities.

By working at the farm, the students receive working experience in their respective agricultural majors.

"I plan to teach vocational education in Ohio after graduation, so the work here gives me some valuable experience that contributes to my overall education," says Pam Brooks, freshman agricultural education major from Wellston, Ohio. "I also enjoy the interesting work and the atmosphere here very much."

Although most of the student workers are agricultural majors, some are not.

Joy Brumagen, sophomore graphic arts major and horsemanship minor from Winchester, plans to own horses someday and use her experience at the farm to learn as much about horses possible.

Dr. July Willard, assistant professor of agriculture at MSU, says the students are very important to the overall operation of the University farm.

"I don't think we could effectively operate the farm without the students," she says. "They are very eager to learn and do all and more that is asked of them."

Carpools and vanpools are saving the United States 3.5 billion gallons of gasoline each year.

State announces Pennyrile Park open year-round

The Kentucky Department of Parks has announced that it will begin year-round operations this year at Pennyrile Forest State Resort Park near Dawson Springs, in western Kentucky. The 842-acre park had previously been closed during the winter and spring seasons, November through late May.

Pennyrile is one of 15 resort parks in the state system, all of which include lodges with overnight accommodations and dining facilities.

Joining Pennyrile Forest in opening year round this winter will be Buckhorn Lake State Resort Park in east-central Kentucky. All other resort parks in the system have already been operating on a year-round basis.

Pennyrile Forest State Resort Park is tucked away in a fairly remote region and provides its guests with a type of self-contained solitude. The park is surrounded by the 15,000-acre Pennyrile State Forest and includes a 55-acre lake used primarily for swimming and rowboating. Fishermen are encouraged to travel four miles west to Lake Beshear to fish for bluegill, catfish and crappie.

Park personnel are currently planning winter activities for guests during the upcoming months. A full-time naturalist is responsible for scheduling nature walks, interpretive hikes, slide shows, etc. Winter programming can also include one or more theme-oriented weekends.

The park's lodge has 24 rooms and 15 cottages ranging from efficiencies to two bedrooms in size will also be open for guests. All accommodations will be offered at off-season rates effective from Sept. 1 through March 15. The park campground will continue to close during the off-season, Nov. 1-March 31.

Among Pennyrile's recreational facilities that will remain open throughout the winter are its hiking trails, two tennis courts and a playground.

More information about off-season activities and accommodations may be obtained by writing or calling Pennyrile Forest State Resort Park, Dawson Springs, KY 42408, (502) 797-3421, or by writing TRAVEL, Frankfort, KY 40601.
