PATCHING CRACKS

Settling or shrinking of woodwork — especially in a new home — will frequently cause cracks to appear in plaster walls and/or ceilings. To prepare a crack for patching, use a knife or small putty knife to make an inverted V-cut in the crack (Fig. 1). Brush out all pieces of loose plaster. You are now ready to prepare the patching material.

Ready-mixed patching material, such as spackle, requires the addition of water. Mix the material on a board or in a pie tin with just enough water so that the mixture is the consistency of heavy cream.

When the patching material is prepared, brush water into the crack and on the surrounding area. Now proceed with a putty knife to press patching material into the crack opening until it is completely full. Use the putty knife to remove excess filler and smooth the patch even with the wall surface. Slightly wetting the filler can aid in this smoothing process. Sprinkle or spray patches with water after the filler has hardened and keep the surface damp for 24 hours.

When the surface is dry, sand with a fine grit sandpaper so there is a smooth transition from the patch to the adjacent surface. The patch area should now be painted with sealer or shellac so that the subsequently applied paint will not be absorbed into the patch.

To remove a hairline crack remove loose plaster by running a fine knife blade along crack. Brush out plaster dust and with a finger rub filler into crack (Fig. 2).

THE HOME GAME

BY VIRGINIA TRUAX

STRANGE BUT TRUE — You'll get twice the wear from your bojoery if you'll practice this strange-sounding procedure. After washing your hose, toss 'em into a plastic bag and stick in the freezer. A little later, remove frozen hose, let thaw, rinse again and hang on the line to dry.

OUNCE OF PREVENTION — A new fry pan can be conditioned to prevent food from sticking by boiling a little vinegar in it before using. Well worth the few minutes it takes.

MRS. CLEAN — Don't wash your freshly purchased eggs when you bring them home from the store. This washes off the oil that preserves them. And remember a store them small end down.

OIL ON TROUBLED WATERS — When cooking pasta, or any food that boils over easily, grease all around the rim of the pan. Prevents boil-overs and relieves you of being constantly on the alert.

INGENIOUS JAR — Make your own clothes sprinkler by punching holes into a screwtop jar of the proper size.

TOUCH OF CLASS — Entertaining? Add a decorative touch. Roll a stick of butter in chopped parsley, slice it into pats and arrange prettily on a plate.

MEMORY MAKER — A quickie bulletin board that will hold all the souvenirs and pictures a teenager can collect can be made from an old window shade. Hung from hooks on a prominent wall, it makes a fine background for memories.

SUPER SUNDAE SAUCE — Melt over low heat one 6-ounce package chocolate chips, 1/3 cup peanut butter and 1/4 cup corn syrup. Bring to boil and stir in 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Serve warm over ice cream for a real treat.
