these labor gains by curbing Japanese imports. Why should the American consumer have to pay higher prices for cars and taxes to support subsidies when the industry itself — management and labor — is unwilling to bite the bullet?

Is such relief justified? Not as we see it. Of course no one wants the American manufacturers to go out of business. The U.S. needs them...

curb on the imports of Toyotas, Datsuns, and other Japanese cars may sound an easy way out. But Americans must not be fooled into thinking such a move would be without consequence to them.

30 percent miners wage increase may knock inflation fight in head

By S.C. Vail Curran
FRANKFORT — If there were ever any hope of curbing inflation and balancing the federal budget, it appears to have vanished last week when the United Mine Workers of America obtained a 30 percent wage and benefits increase over the next three years...

move to bring on more and fuel the spiral of inflation. It is becoming to look like the giant members of the Bituminous Coal Association have followed the automobile industry in trying to price itself out of business but that can't happen because the United States is the largest coal producer in the world and is the major exporter of this basic energy source.

Testing Sex and Me

The editor of this column perpetrated a lot of doggerel in the past few years when another Legislature was wrestling with the vexatious subject of taxation. It will apply to conditions which confront the present swarming at Frankfort just as well:

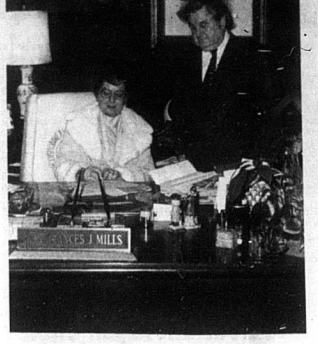

Let him tax the one,
Let him tax the one,
That me, Oh, gosh,
Taxation drives me mad.

OFF THE WALL... THERE ARE NO EXCEPTIONS TO THE RULE THAT EVERYBODY LIKES TO BE AN EXCEPTION TO THE RULE... Experience tells us that the price of coal will increase to meet the insatiable demand for production and that steel and other goods will be priced higher because of coal in the basic commodity industry.

In a healthy nation there is a kind of dramatic balance between the will of the people and the government, which prevents its degeneration into tyranny. —Albert Einstein lost money in a year, but not the entire industry in the United States. All of this comes at a time when the automobile industry is asking the United States government to impose an import quota on Japanese cars to voluntarily reduce the number of imports.

Agree or Not KET presents two concerts

KET presents two pop music concerts the week of April 5 when songsters Roberta Flack and Charley Pride make guest appearances on "Soundstage" at Austin City Limits.

Since World War II, we have seen the membership of the United Mine Workers divide from 500,000 to a mere 120,000 today. This should tell them with my bold resolve, into the clam, dark pool of sleep.
