Foodtown advertising pulled from Mercury for test period

Local consumers who are in the hubit of looking to the Mercury for advertising specials at local food stores may be surprised when they find that Crockett and Gaunce's Foodtown and swill not be appearing in the local paper for at least eight weeks.

The move was made known to the Mercury Friday, when Bob Stona, who manages C&G's advertising and that of a dozen other Foodtown stores in central Kentucky, informed Mercury editor for the state of the state of
