UK graduate courses offered in Winchester

Registration will be at 4 p.m. Monday, Jan. 19 at George Rogers Clark High School in Winchester for a University of Kentucky graduate course in education.

"EDC 777-Seminar in Curriculum and Instruction: Secondary Curriculum" will be from 4 to 6:30 p.m. each Monday for 16 weeks. (If snow and because cancellation of registration, it will be held the next week at the same time and place.)

Dr. Angene Wilson, UK assistant professor of education, will teach the course which offers three hours of graduate credit, in Room A-3.

Credit earned may apply to a master's degree, Fifth Year or Rank I programs. Graduate students who have not been admitted to UK's Graduate School may register as "post-baccalaureate" graduate students.

For information about the class content, call Dr. Wilson at (606) 257-1893. For admission information call James Brown at (606) 257-3877.

Unemployed aided by Film Commission

Steve Toggweiler has been unable to find work since he was laid off from his job two months ago. Larry Gillette, a real-estate salesman, considers himself "practically unemployed" during a time of a tight housing market and high interest rates.

However, the Kentucky Film Commission, in cooperation with the Bureau for Manpower Services in the Department for Human Resources, has given these two men and 1,700 other Kentuckians a chance not only to work, but to star in a major motion picture.

The Kentucky Film Commission began casting Kentuckians as extras in early November for the Columbia Pictures' "Stripes," a comedy film about military life. The movie has been filmed at several locations in Kentucky, most recently at the old Jim Beam distillery in Clermont outside Bardstown.

The film commission coordinated its efforts with the Bureau for Manpower Services to use unemployed Kentuckians as extras in the Columbia production.

During the casting process, Olivia Maggard, executive director of the state's film commission said "special preference" was given to those Kentuckians who were unemployed, especially the unemployed veterans. "We were looking for unemployed Kentuckians, especially unemployed veterans because they would have the military experience Columbia Pictures wanted for the movie," she said. "Using unemployed Kentuckians directly benefits the state."

Norman Bennett, an employer relations specialist with the Bureau for Manpower Services, said although some of the positions with the movie are permanent, using unemployed Kentuckians as extras saved the state $150,000 in unemployment insurance. Columbia Pictures pays $35 per day. Extras usually work four to five days.

Maggard said she is pleased with the results of working with Manpower Services. "We're hoping it will become a permanent alliance," she said. "Ohio's film commission has been doing this for years (working with Ohio's manpower services) and has had great results."

John Wells, commissioner of the Manpower Services Bureau, said he has been equally pleased with the relationship between his staff and the commission. "We felt this has been a beneficial undertaking for both the bureau and the commission. It serves as an example of the benefits of undertaking for both the bureau and the commission: It serves as an example of the benefits of cooperation of the various state agencies," Wells said.

Wells emphasized that although it is an unusual opportunity to place Manpower Services' clients as extras in movies, it is all part of the bureau's services to work with private industries as well as state agencies in Kentucky without costing the state any extra dollars.

The Kentucky Film Commission acts as "middle-man," accommodating filming companies by casting actors and extras, and coordinating services needed by the companies filming in Kentucky.

When Columbia Pictures needed a location that resembled the mountainous land of Czechoslavakia, Maggard traveled the state and found one. When they needed persons to portray Russian soldiers, Maggard found 25 Russian refugees in Louisville who had trained in the Soviet Union armed forces. When they needed tanks and soldiers, Maggard came through again with the Kentucky National Guard and the U.S. Army.

The Kentucky National Guard, under the coordination of Maggard and Command Sgt. Maj. Marion "Willie" Williams, furnished Columbia with off-duty guardsmen (paid by Columbia), tanks, armored personnel carriers, jeeps and trucks.

Williams said training will pay the guard "fair-market value" for the use and transportation of the equipment. Columbia modified four of the tanks used in the film to resemble Soviet equipment by painting the exterior and placing sugared fenders on the front of the vehicles.

The Kentucky National Guard, however, will not change the tanks back to their standard military form, said Williams. "They'll be used as 'threat vehicles' in training," he said.

Maggard said Columbia and she are very pleased with the cooperation of the Kentucky National Guard. "Willie has really been working to keep equipment and personnel running smoothly," Maggard said. "The guard has been a real attribute to this film making."

Williams, a 40-year veteran of the U.S. Army and National Guard, said he has enjoyed working with the film commission and Columbia Pictures.

"As a guardsman, I've been through riots and tornadoes," he said. "Needless to say, I've enjoyed making this movie a lot more."

Number of farms decreasing with average size increasing

The number of farms in Kentucky with annual sales of $1,000 or more continued its downward trend. However, the 1978 Census of Agriculture did show more farms than survey indications showed for 1978 (especially part-time farmers); therefore, the level on number of farms is slightly higher. In 1980 the number of farms is estimated at 102,000 compared to 107,000 in 1975. The preliminary estimate for 1981 shows farm numbers decreasing further to 101,000 farms.

Although fairly stable from 1975 to 1979, total land in farms is beginning to show a decrease. Land in farms for 1980 was estimated at 14.6 million acres, 100,000 acres below 1979. The preliminary estimate for 1981 is 14.5 million acres. The average size farm in 1980 at 143 acres is unchanged from a year ago, but 5 acres larger than 1975. Here again the influence of the part-time farmer is being shown or the average size farm would be significantly higher.

Nationally, farm numbers declined from 2.52 million in 1975 to 2.43 million in 1980. Nationally, the number of farms in the Midwestern States has continued to decline while Northeastern and Westcoast States show increasing numbers of farms in recent years. The preliminary 1981 estimate at 2.42 million farms continues the slow decline of recent years. The Midwest States account for most of the decrease.

Land in farms shows a gradual loss, decreasing about 2 percent since 1975. The average size of farm, however, increased from 430 acres in 1975 to 459 acres in 1980. For 1981, the preliminary forecast is 430 acres.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions — horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it usable should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

NEXT WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

By Clay Pullen

FOR RELEASE WEEK OF JAN. 12, 1981

If your birthdate occurs this week . . .
This week the stars all enhance
Business, home and new romance

♈ Aries — Mar. 21 - Apr. 19 — Mars

While few can beat the Arian Ram for sheer adventurism, the unwary person can be sheared a bit too close for comfort. Still, all the stars love a sheepish lover — and prove it this week.

♉ Taurus — Apr. 20 - May 20 — Venus

The winsome Taurean can win some lovely rewards for his or her patience. On that personal relationship level, strike now while the iron's hot or the pressing problem will continue, adding to a rumpled condition.)

♊ Gemini — May 21 - June 20 — Mercury

That change in your job status can be the boost off the roost you need at this point in your life. Holding onto something "secure" isn't always the safe thing to do. Your personal life will make a big step for the better.

♋ Cancer — June 21 - July 22 — Moon

The starshine warms up personal relationships this week. Single Moon Children can find new love while the married Cancerians can bask in rewarmed and reenforced affection. (Stroking stokes the home fires best.)

♌ Leo — July 23 - Aug. 22 — Sun

Cold weather makes Leos a bit loath to try new adventures. But the promised rewards tickle the fancy of a fanciful cat. Married Leos might surprise their mate with a gala evening. Single Leos know what to do!

♍ Virgo — Aug. 23 - Sept. 22 — Mercury

The new job you might try has one drawback: distance. But if it doesn't upset your mate, take it. Distance, in this instance, can bring your long-awaited goals much closer to fulfillment.

♎ Libra — Sept. 23 - Oct. 22 — Venus

Making your occupation your sole preoccupation finally takes a back seat to the emergence of a new priority: yourself. Take more time off when you can. Mate or lover will be happy whenever you do.

♏ Scorpio — Oct. 23 - Nov. 21 — Pluto

Although the stars indicate favorable positions for romantic and other endeavors, endeavor to take some action yourself. What you want can be found — but delaying can find you foundering in your pursuits.

♐ Sagittarius — Nov. 22 - Dec. 21 — Jupiter

The "sage" Sagittarian can add some spice to his or her life this week. Get out of the rut and into the groove. Your starsigns signal a change ahead. Follow the direction indicated. And no detours, please!

♑ Capricorn — Dec. 22 - Jan. 19 — Saturn

Somebody certainly does love you. But you have to start encouraging him or her to speak up. Sometimes you can be a bit intimidating and you'll never be dating that timid one unless he has a chance to tell you.

♒ Aquarius — Jan. 20 - Feb. 18 — Uranus

Your soft touches in a situation do a lot to move things along. But don't be discouraged — an occasional slowdown. Sometimes nature has to take its course. Be patient. Your rewards will be waiting.

♓ Pisces — Feb. 19 - Mar. 20 — Neptune

The Piscean Fishes find the currents much easier to move through this week. Taking advantage of opportunities now may make it easier to land the big catches later. (The intentions of a Leo are tender.)
